A Visit to a Children's School Farm. Columbia University, Hartley Hall, New York City.

Editor of the Dispatch:— If you think the boys and girls of Alamance would like to know how some of the little boys and girls of New York City spend their summers you may publish the following:

In 1902 Mrs. Henry Parsons established the first Children's School Farm or Garden in New York City. It was supported by private funds and contributions. Now they are taken over by the city and the teachers have to stand examination under Municipal Civil Service for positions as teachers.

Each one of these plots is 4 by 8 feet, separated by roads 18 inches wide, running north and south and east and west. Seven vegetables, representing families, are grown in each of these plots. Each plot belongs to an individual boy or girl.

The children are assigned these plots in May in order application. Certain days are announced for the assigning of plots and "First come first served" is the rule.

The children do all the work under the direction of expert teachers in Gardening and get all the products of their plot. On the afternoon of our visit they were harvesting their snap beans.

At the office of the gardens there is a long platform, with an awning over it, which serves as a stage. Here twelve girls, members of the Housekeepers' section, cooked and served the beets, onions, lettuce, and other vegetables grown on their plots.

The individual plot develops desire for personal effort for personal profit. The common service teaches community welfare. The repeated thinning of vegetables to secure for them space, sunlight and air is repeatedly applied to their own lives.

In the Thomas Jefferson Park, near the garden, was a play ground for the children. Here they were provided with swings, see saws, banks of sand, ball grounds &c and what struck me especially was a long slanting wooden trough down which the little tots slid into a bank of sand.

If in the minds of any of the visitors there was a doubt as to the need of these play grounds and gardens it vanished forever when we walked through the Italian districts from which these play ground and Garden children came.

Thank God that the Alamance boys and girls are growing into strong manhood and womanhood on the very thing for which the New York City children are starving—the ideal country home.

URGENT NEED FOR FUNDS

The Superintendent of the North Carolina Children's Home Society has arrived in Greensboro from a three-week's business trip outside the state, and makes the astonishing statement that within the past four days 18 new children have been received, 9 of them in one bunch last evening.

These statements show the bright side of the work of the Society and illustrate the oft-repeated fact that, if supplied with money to pay the expenses of the work, it has the ability otherwise to meet all demands.

Money is necessary. The bona fide monthly expense budget at present is only $700, with which the Society can handle an average of one new child a day—the average that it has asked to provide for for a whole year; yet, the June 1912 income was $480.55, and till last night the entire July income was only $49.00.

Now the Daily News knows by several years of intimate acquaintance with the work of the Society that it is in every way worthy of the most generous support of our people. It is doing a distinct and separate work from that of any of the institutional orphanages; and but for its zeal and activity, a work that would not be done.

Doubtless hundreds of readers of the Daily News would gladly contribute if called on; why not save expense to the Society and send the money direct to the superintendent or to this paper, and we will turn it over—and, send it now while the need is so great. Your personal contribution may save a life from a hopeless and useless existence and make of it a worthy man or woman whose achievements will bless others and make the world a better place to live in.—Greensboro Daily News of July 15, 1912.

Is Governor Blease a Grafter?

The long-drawn out quarrel between Governor Cole Blease of South Carolina and Hon. Thomas B. Felder, of Atlanta, took a sensational turn Friday when the investigation of the old dispensary fraud cases was renewed at Augusta, Ga. A dispatch from Augusta says:

Detective William J. Burns, was the star witness today before the special investigating committee of the South Carolina legislature which instituted its probe here today into the old state dispensary system. The hearing was primarily called to take the testimony of Thomas E. Felder, the Atlanta attorney, who represents the commission which wound up the dispensary affairs.

Testifying at tonight's session of the hearings, Detective Burns asserted that records which would be introduced by his men would show "whether or not Gov. Cole L. Blease of South Carolina, has been grafting as Governor and State Senator."

Evidence taken by a telephonic device and personally by a Burns' detective was submitted today purporting to show that Governor Blease secured $2,000 for pardoning Rudolph Rabon, convicted of harboring stolen goods. Testimony from the same source was to the effect that Governor Blease received $900 for blocking railroad legislation, $200 for thwarting the first attempt made in the dispensary investigation and that the Governor gets his share of the blind tiger "protection" money from Charleston.

"Tom" Taggart is unable to tell a Congressional investigating committee how much the Democratic campaign of 1904 cost, but the fact remains that it was not enough to overcome the amount raised for Roosevelt by the late Mr. Harriman and his friends.

Caught in a Rale.

Douglasville, Tex. — "Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, "and from that time, was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four doctors, but got no relief. I took Cardui, the woman's tonic. Now, I feel better than in many months." Cardui does one thing and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. Try Cardui.

Terrible Picture of Suffering

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years, I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. I had lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success in actual practice, is positive proof, furnished by those who have used it, that Cardui can always be relied on for relieving female weakness and disease. Try Cardui, today, now!

Spit, Quit, Fit.

Hines, Ala.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Eula Mae Bradley says: "I used to spit up all I ate. I was tired and sleepy all the time. My head ached, and I could hardly drag around. Since taking Cardui, this has entirely quit, and now I feel quite fit." Mrs. Bradley suffered from nervous indigestion. Cardui builds up the nervous system, and strengthens the womanly constitution. That's why Cardui helped Mrs. Bradley and why it will help you. Try it.

Butler The Hoodoo.

The fact that Marion Butler is earnestly advocating the election of Roosevelt is sufficient to defeat the hopes of the latter in his boast of carrying this State. If there had been any doubts about the Democrats carrying this State by a large majority the fact of Butler's promised help to Roosevelt removes such doubt and if he comes here during this campaign, his canvass will help the Democrats again as it did two years ago.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil-war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck, himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. TAFT PEOPLE GOAL TO DESPERATION W FIGHT BACK AT Washington, July 19.—The ally of President Taft and friends of Colonel Roosevelt are charged with "fraudulent" charges of "stealing" the Chicago convention, and to be loosed from several states in Washington next week, and in terms that will be in ways a counter attack upon Roosevelt pre-convention campaign.

The statement that will be issued from the White House final draft of which was completed at a two hours meeting cabinet today, will be an evisage analysis of the contest and a reply to all of the charges of unfair dealing on the part of Taft's friends.

While this statement will go as far as can now be made to make any direct charges against the Roosevelt managers, it is understood that Taft supports the house propose to attack measured terms the charges brought by the Roosevelt in southern states, many of which were unanimously decided against the Roosevelt contest.

Representative Frank Wheel of Wyoming, who is a member of the credentials committee at the Chicago convention will make one of the chief speeches in defending the seating of Taft delegates at Chicago. His speech will deal primarily with the cases of the 72 delegates against whom the Roosevelt made their chief fight a week ago, he let it be known that he would attack the Taft delegates in southern states and attempt to show that they had been brought "without authority."

Representative Bartholomew Missouri, who participated in the work of the national committee will also defend the action of the committee. Senator Roosevelt suggested as the speaker for the Taft forces in the contest but he said today he did not expect to speak upon the subject of the Chicago contest decision.

Why Worry.

(Milwaukee Sentinel.) Sickness may come; death may be at the door; but the man who does not give up cuts down doctor bills and cheats the maker altogether. Business deals may go wrong and financial disaster may befall, but the man who takes care of himself and remains cheerful seldom enters the bankruptcy court. Poverty may be at the door, but the man who takes care of his health and keeps his ship in the dock when his ship comes in, why worry?

Worry saps vitality, gray hairs, produces wrinkles and it can turn a sunshine into a dreary one. Without a cloud in the sky, worry can make one believe that it will be a downpour any day. Worry discounts bills, adds interest to those due to be paid, and disturbs the scheme of things generally. It never won a battle. It cleared a situation. It solved a problem.

It was disinterred and carried five miles through ground rain and replaced in the ground beside that of the mother.
