ROOSEVELT ON FLYNN

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 17.—During his speech at a big mass meeting here this afternoon Colonel Roosevelt paid emphatic tribute to the service rendered by former State Senator William Flynn to the Progressive cause.
While Roosevelt was speaking some one in the crowd yelled out:

"How about Bill Flynn?"
"I'll tell you about Flynn," the colonel promptly rejoined. "Flynn is as stout a champion of popular liberty as exists. I want to give you your full answer. Flynn came to me last April or March; I had never known him before.
He told me he was going to support me, for he believed that this country would not be a good place for his children to live in unless such social and economic justice was done to make it a good place for other people's children to live in.

"He told me that it was a long experience, and he said he needed to learn it, and that he had learned it—had been taught that the safety of our government lay in making the people real, and not merely nominal rulers of their own governmental agencies.
He fought his fight squarely on that issue, and he carried Pennsylvania, and under his lead Pennsylvania adopted a progressive platform declaring in the most unequivocal terms for direct primaries, initiative and referendum, for every point of the national Progressive platform.
A boss whose action is to put in the hands of the people state supreme power over him and every other boss is not much of a boss.

Agricultural Exhibit Car.

State Test Farm Exhibit Car to visit City, Burlington, N. C.
The Chamber of Commerce has arranged with Mr. F. S.
Puckett, of Raleigh, Assistant Director of the State Test Farms to bring the State Test Farm Exhibit to Burlington Oct. 12, 1912.

The Exhibit is installed in a passenger car and will arrive on train No. 108 due to arrive at Burlington, 8:12 on Oct. 12 and will be on sidetrack near Passenger waiting room open to visitors.
The car will leave on train No.
108 Oct. 12.

The Exhibit is complete in every detail, consisting of the leading varieties of corn on the stalk, showing the height, size and shape of the ears, and cross sections of ears showing shape of grain and size of cob. Also museum jars graphically representing the differences between the different varieties for the number of years they have been tested. Representative types of each variety of corn has been carefully selected to show each variety, not at its best nor poorest, but as it grows under average conditions.

The different leading varieties of wheat, oats, and cotton are shown in a similar way. Fertilizer experiments have been carried on with these crops the results of which are shown graphically in museum jars.

Other interesting features of the Exhibit will be representative soil types of the State shown in its natural state to a depth of 24 inches, with maps showing the location of these different types also the results of fertilizer tests that have been made on these soils.

The leading varieties of apples, peaches, and Irish potatoes will be shown in an attractive way.
A complete tobacco exhibit is also with the car, showing the different grades of tobacco from the distinct tobacco belts of the State.

A portion of the Exhibit that will be of special interest to the women is the canned fruit and vegetable exhibit, canned by the Department of Agriculture.

Instructive charts, enlarged photographs and leguminous plants will be on exhibition also.
The Exhibit is instructive, educational, and interesting and something worth coming to see.

Spit, Quit, Fit.

Hines, Ala.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Eula Mae Bradley says: "I used to spit up all I ate. I was tired and sleepy all the time. My head ached, and I could hardly drag around. Since taking Cardui, I feel quite fit." Mrs. Bradley suffered from nervous indigestion. Cardui builds up the nervous system, and strengthens the womanly constitution. That's why Cardui helped Mrs. Bradley and why it will help you. Try it.

COLONEL WILL SOON TURN HIS ATTENTION TO NORTH AND EAST

Jackson, Tenn., Sept. 26.—To a large crowd of Tennesseans gathered here from several counties Col. Roosevelt expounded Progressive doctrines today. It was his only political speech of the day, as his address in Memphis this morning before the interstate Levee Association was of a non-partisan character. Tonight he went on his way to New Orleans.

With his transcontinental tour drawing to an end, Col. Roosevelt is turning his attention toward the battlefields of the north and east, where he expects to have the heaviest fighting of the campaign. During his trip through the south he said he intends to devote himself largely to an exposition of Progressive party's principles. On his return to the north, where he has already made a number of speeches of this character, it is his plan to take up the issues raised by his opponents.

Neither President Taft nor Governor Wilson, said Col. Roosevelt, is truly progressive. It is his plan to emphasize this statement during the remainder of his campaign, for, he asserted, there is no vital difference between the Republican and Democratic parties.

Col. Roosevelt read with interest names of the men summoned to testify before the senate committee investigating campaign contributions.

Some time ago he intrusted his managers in New York to arrange with Senator Clapp for his appearance before the committee on any of the days between his campaign trips, and he received word today that he was to go to Washington on Friday of next week. The colonel had been hoping to have a period of uninterrupted rest at Oyster Bay before his next trip, but said he would be glad of the opportunity to testify. He had no means of knowing what lines his testimony would follow, he said.

When Col. Roosevelt reached Jackson late in the day he received an enthusiastic welcome at fair grounds. He said he wished to emphasize the fact that the Progressive party was making its fight alone and had no filiations with any other party.

Governor Hooper, the Republican executive of Tennessee and a candidate for reelection, was scolded by Col. Roosevelt.

"I wish to comment," said Col. Roosevelt, "upon the attitude of the Republican nominee for governor. Governor Hooper has announced that some people think Mr. Taft's nomination was stolen and others do not. He said he was one of the latter.
Now, I wish to say, with all the emphasis in my power that every intelligent man who chooses to look into facts knows that Mr.
Taft's nomination was stolen. If Mr. Hooper doesn't know it, it is because he doesn't take the trouble to think.

"And another thing, Mr. Hooper was nominated for the position of temporary senator of the United States—highly temporary—one of the men who assisted in the theft. I refer to Mr. Sanders. Mr. Sanders sat in the national committee, with a proxy, and took part in the scandalous conduct that resulted in stealing from the rank and file of the Republican party the machinery of the party. In this way Mr.
Hooper forfeits his rights to the support of any honest man."

In Tennessee as elsewhere Col.
Roosevelt said he wished his support to stand by the state ticket as firmly as by the national ticket.

"I feel that we have the right to appeal to ex-Democrats and ex-Republicans alike," he continued, "and to both the men who wore the gray and the men who the blue. Ours is in no sense a sectional party."

He said both Union and Confederate veterans were working for the Progressive party and were making common cause in the fight as loyally as they had stood by Lee or Grant.

Col. Roosevelt will spend tomorrow in New Orleans.

For Register of Deeds.

"I hereby announced my candidacy for the office of register of deeds of Alamance County, subject to the action of the democratic convention to be held on the 7 th day of September, 1912.

Daily Chat About Dress Fascinating Millinery

It is natural for every one to be interested in autumn millinery and to note the definite changes in form and trimming. The summer models emphasized the pyramidal effects with trimming towering high to the front or side of the hat. Trimming is now placed flat instead of upright.
This is especially apparent on the new large hats.

Graceful trimming droops noticeably over the brim. Plume and feather no longer wave their fronds upright. Another admirable point, in the new flat hat, is its flexible grace and lightness.
Whether of velvet, velour or felt these qualities are always present.

The stiff brim is a memory of the past. Many of the large picture hats are as light in weight as the summer models fashioned of crinoline and silk covered.

The alliance of fabric effects in two tones is another noticeable feature. Velour is combined with velvet, moire, gros-grain silk and satin.

The crown may be of velvet with a brim of velour, faced with moire or satin in a contrasting tone. Some hats are apparently crownless, being almost flat on top with little trimming aside from a single rose or flat bow.

A fascinating model developed in white velour has a facing of pale rose satin. The crown and brim are completely covered with sulphur-colored ostrich plumage.

Small hats and large ones are trimmed in this manner. Very often the brim is hidden by the fronds which droop over several inches.

Uncurled ostrich plumes are much in evidence. The fronds are extremely long and sometimes swirled about the crown.

A hat demanding much attention at a recent display of imported models was of prune-colored velour. The under brim was faced with "faded" pink satin. Bird of Paradise plumage was lavishly used to trim it.

This model would appeal to almost any woman, as the lines permitted an unusual amount of coiffure to show.

The new sailor hat is of soft velvet, and is bound to meet with instant approval. It has a large, low crown and a wide brim which curls up slightly toward the back. This takes away the effect of resting on the shoulders which is not becoming to small people.

The most popular trimming for this hat is a draped band of white satin around the crown and finished in front with a flat bow of pleated satin.

Ribbon is used extensively to trim the large flat hat. The variety with the picot edge is most favored.

Flat bows, double and single pleatings and ribbons with fringed edges all appear on pretty models.

A simple yet graceful hat of black velour has a facing of old blue velvet it is trimmed with a flat bow of blue and black shot ribbon. This is a lovely model especially suitable for a young girl.

Ribbon-trimmed hats always display good taste when used for the younger generation. They are girlish and more practical than any other variety.

Taffeta is another material that is used for the autumn hat.
It is combined with velvet and velour. Gold is a popular shade and verges on a mustard color.
White moire is used for the brim with a crown of sapphire blue velvet in another smart flat hat. A flat bow of pleated moire silk adorns the front. Two white wings tipped with blue are arranged slantingly from beneath the bow.

Hatpins of seed pearls are worn with the flat hat. They harmonize beautifully with the autumn hues.

Cascades of pleated maline falling from the top of the crown to the edge of the brim are noticed on many of the flat hats.
Black and a combination of black and white are equally popular.

The flat hat is one of the leading modes in the realm of millinery and every woman who makes any pretense of keeping pace with fashions demands must own at least one.

Religion and Medicine

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

Is there any intimate relation between religion and medicine? Yes, there is. The old-time healer was also the priest. Theology and medicine have not maintained a separate existence very long. They used to be one. Yes, there is an intimate relation between religion and medicine. It is well known of a person who eats with unthankfulness and ill-natured spirit, that his food will not have the same effect as if he were in a kindly mood. The same is true of medicine. If a person swallows a medicine with suspicion, has no faith in its action, is more or less afraid of the one who gives him the medicine, it cannot do him as much good as if he had unwavering faith in it. The mind has a wonderful influence over the body. Those who believe that a loving Father controls the destiny of mankind are a great deal better prepared to meet the vicissitudes of life and to overcome disease than the one who has no such faith. A truly religious man makes a better patient than an irreligious man. In using the word religion I am not referring to any particular kind of religion. The Jew and the gentile, the Catholic and the Protestant, each have a religion in which they believe. They also agree in the essentials. A religious man may believe that it is necessary for him to use every means in his power to get well. He may believe that it is perfectly proper for him to employ doctors and take medicines. But he also believes that when he has done the best he can there is a higher power that has charge of his affairs, that absolute justice will be done him, that no evil thing can befall a good man. He goes forward with confidence, sick or well, rich or poor, and gets a great deal more comfort out of life than the man who has no religion. I have found myself saying many times to people who have a chronic ailment, "You need religion as well as medicine. You need faith in an overruling providence that guides everything to wise ends; that the affliction of disease teaches a lesson that every one should strive to learn."

This does not mean that sick people are to sit down and trust that an overruling providence will do everything. Nothing of the sort. He is to use remedies guided by his best judgment, but in the use of them he can believe that all things are well and that in the end all things will come out right. Any medicine has a better chance to cure a man who holds such a faith. Some men are so faithless and unbelieving, so restless and desperate, their minds so unsettled, that even the best of medicine has little chance to do them any good. Therefore I say that religion is often quite as necessary as medicine, that the want of religion frequently defeats the action of the best medicine.

Many a chronic invalid has searched in vain for a physical remedy simply because he has lost his grip on vital religion, the religion that not only provides salvation in the world to come, but soundness of body and mind in the world that is.

Yes, there is a most intimate relation between medicine and religion. Other things being equal, the irreligious man stands a poor chance of getting well when he is sick, while the religious man frequently gets well in the most astonishing way after his doctors have all given him up to die. With a firm faith in a rational religion and an obedient use of the right remedy a great many hopeless invalids could be restored to perfect health.

Well, you have made it clear as to what you mean by religion. But what is the remedy you would recommend?

Of course I would recommend different remedies for different conditions. But the particular remedy that I am interested in at this time, the remedy that meets more chronic ailments than any other remedy I know of, is Peruna. Peruna is a remedy for that multitudinous group of ailments that are dependent upon catarrhal derangements.

I am furnishing a book on catarrhal diseases which I send to any person free. In this book I explain quite fully the uses of Peruna. Those who do not care to wait to send for the booklet at this time will find information and instruction as to the general uses of Peruna explained within the wrapper of each bottle. PERUNA IS FOR SALE AT ALL DRUG STORES.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time Peruna. To be sure, would this formula is now put out under the name of KA-TAR-NO, manufactured by KA-TAR-NO Company, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

Almost A Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy in Coughs and Colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Straw Vote in Meat Market.

The following is the result of a straw vote taken at my meat market in the first ward, for one week, just as the voters dropped in:

Wilson	125
Roosevelt	108
Taft	4
Debs	4

Last election this same ward gave sixty Democratic majority. Ninety-five per cent of the honest Republicans in the state will cast their ballot for Theodore Roosevelt on November 5, with hundreds of good, good Democrats who believe in letting the people rule and not the representatives of special interests.
