

OUT OF THE FIRE

WANTED: ONE THOUSAND NEW DAILY SUBSCRIBERS TO THE OLD RELIABLE

The NEWS AND OBSERVER plant was destroyed by fire on the morning after the fire, fresh and resolved to give the news to North Carolina folks.

Work begins at once to rebuild, new machinery has been ordered, and the NEWS AND OBSERVER will be better than ever, and try more than ever to serve the people of North Carolina.

The NEWS AND OBSERVER needs one thousand new subscribers. The price is six dollars a year. Will YOU not help that paper to rise from its ashes superior to the flames by enrolling yourself as a subscriber? Address—

News and Observer, Raleigh, N. C.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadburn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache.

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

BOTTLE FEEDING.

An Earnest Request From the State Health Officer Of Mothers Who Cannot Nurse Their Babies.

When bottle feeding is, of necessity adopted the mother should fully recognize the risk assumed for her child. Ten times as many bottle fed as breast fed babies die. Many mothers—10 to 15 per cent of North Carolina mothers—take the risk and are justified in doing so; but no mother who can read is justified in adopting bottle feeding for her helpless infant without thorough posting herself as to approved methods of bottle feeding, the dangers incident to bottle feeding and the means of avoiding such danger.

The State Board of Health stands ready, upon receipt of a post card to place without cost, in the hands of any mother the necessary literature that it will not take more than half an hour to read, for instructing her as to the best methods of bottle feeding.

Now the writer is not going to have any thing further to say about this, except to ask you in the name of your baby, to read what Rev. Milton Barber has to say about the sin of presumption in the article following.

Some Ways In Which the Sin Of Presumption Is Being Manifested In The World Today.

Let me give a few practical and concrete illustrations of what I mean:

A young lady whom I knew was suffering from a severe cold and was ordered by her physician to remain indoors until her cold was broken. But she wanted to go to a dance in the country, so she drove through the cold night air four or five miles, danced until a late hour, and returned home. What do you suppose was the result? What result was to be expected?

She contracted pneumonia and died. The devoted mother was heartbroken over the death of her only daughter, and strange to say, seemed to feel bitter towards God for "taking her daughter away from her." Poor, foolish mother! Did she expect God to suspend the laws of the universe and work a special miracle to save her daughter, who had willfully and deliberately invited her own death?

I would not say that it was God's will that that girl should ignore and treat with contempt the laws of health, and against the advice of her physician, contract pneumonia and die. I should say that it was decidedly contrary to His will. Her death was due to the deliberate violation of His wise and merciful laws.

Again, take the disease and suffering which follow as the result of drunkenness and dissolute living—sins which men bring upon themselves. Are these in accordance with or contrary to God's will? In one sense, they are in accordance with His will, and in another sense, they are contrary to His will. They can be in accordance with His will only in the sense that they are the result of His own inexorable law of cause and effect. He certainly can take no pleasure in the sins and suffering of any one. And death came by sin. "I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God."

He warns us at every step. As has been said, "His laws have put lighthouses on every headland, buoys on every shoal." And yet men utterly ignore them.

Do you suppose it was God's will that the men in charge of the Titanic should ignore the warning given against icebergs, drive that splendid ship heedlessly on in the darkness of the night at full speed until it crashed into a great floating mountain of ice and went down with its precious cargo of human lives to the bottom of the sea—I say do you suppose this was God's will? To me much a thought is unworthy of a Christian. That awful disaster was due to the presumption, the pride and arrogance of man.

Once again, here is a city or community smitten with some pestilence or epidemic, like typhoid fever. Many good, pious people will cry out that it is a special visitation of God upon the people because of their sins. Prayer are made to Him in the churches that He will of His goodness remove this affliction from His people. But such epidemics are due in nine cases in ten to a breach of God's physical laws, and frequently a high-handed breach. Contaminated water, filthy streets, foul alleys—these and other unsanitary conditions are not to be changed by prayers in the church, but by busy men outside the church. It is presumption to trample God's sanitary laws under foot, and then expect Him to save us from sickness and suffering. He works according to law and order. It is evident, then, that we have matters largely in our own hands as regards our physical (and I might add our spiritual) condition here and hereafter.

According to this view, want we call physical laws are divine, and disobedience of these laws becomes moral disobedience. What we call natural and supernatural laws are closely linked together, and are expressions of a personal, intelligent will, orderly just and good. And the willful, deliberate violation of revealed law in either the physical or spiritual realm is sin.

To call God to preserve us in the deliberate breach of His physical or spiritual laws, to see how far He will allow us to disobey His laws and yet save us from the consequences of such disobedience—this is to tempt Him. And "It is written," said our Lord, "man shall not tempt the Lord thy God."

Christain Church Convention Closes

Burlington, May 30—Today's session of the Young People's Convention of the Christain Church, which hereafter will be known as the Sunday School and Christain Endeavor Societies Convention was featured by addresses and recommendations of committees and addresses by Editor J. O. Atkinson of The Christain Sun, Rev. A. B. Kendall of The Burlington Christain Church, and Rev. Henry S. Booth of Norfolk Editor Atkinson spoke on Reaching the Young People for Christ and the Church. Mr. Kendall's address was on The Christain Endeavor as an Evangelizing Force.

President W. A. Harper of Elon College conducted a round table on Christain Endeavor work and answered many questions as to the work in various phases.

Rev. Henry S. Booth of Norfolk made an address on Perils and Ideas of Young People. He emphasized the need for help of others.

One hundred and thirteen dollars was raised to defray the convention's debt and to begin the work of the next years work. The permanent time of the meeting of the convention will hereafter be Tuesday before the first Sunday in May alternating with the Southern Christain Convention and unless the executive committee sees fit to change the time.

The constitution was amended so as to do away with standing committees and in their stead to have department secretaries. The following department secretaries were elected: Teacher training, Rev. H. E. Roundtree organized classes, Charles A. Hines home department, T. R. Fonville elementary grades, Mr. J. J. Lincoln cradle roll, Mrs. J. L. Foster Christain Endeavoring Dr. W. A. Harper. The convention adjourned tonight.

Mr. Haskell, Prominent Merchant, Knocked Down by Automobile.

Durham, May 29.—M. Haskell, a prominent Jewish dry goods merchant of Durham, was knocked down and run over about nine o'clock tonight by an automobile driven by C. M. Howard, station agent at Carpenter. The car carried no number, but the driver was identified. It was running about 18 miles an hour and passed a street car standing still on the left-hand side. Mr. Haskell was struck as he stepped off the car, and the front wheel of the machine passed over his body. He was pretty badly shaken up and bruised, but it is not thought that his injured will prove serious.

Typewriters which require hand settings of the carriage in order to reach the starting point of any line are now out-of-date. They have been rendered obsolete by the

Column Selector of the Remington Typewriter Visible Model 10

The Column Selector of the Model 10 Remington selects the exact point in each line where the writing is to begin—not by a step to step movement of the carriage—not by tedious hand adjustments—but by the automatic response of the carriage to the pressure of a single key.

In ordinary letter writing, the position for writing the date, the address, the first line of each paragraph, "Yours truly," and addressing the envelopes is reached instantly, the hands of the operator never leaving the keyboard.

The time saving? Figured on the basis of the operator's wages, it amounts to enough in a short time to pay for the machine.
