

THE STATE DISPATCH

A PROGRESSIVE NEWSPAPER DEVOTED TO THE UPBUILDING OF AMERICAN HOMES AND AMERICAN INDUSTRIES.

VOL. VI.

BURLINGTON, N. C., JULY 23, 1913.

NO. 5

HOW LONG WILL THE PEOPLE OF ALAMANCE COUNTY AND THE TOWN OF BURLINGTON SUBMIT TO THE INTOLERABLE SERVICE OF THE BELL TELEPHONE CO. ARE THE PEOPLE OF OUR TOWN AND COUNTY SLAVES TO THIS GIGANTIC CORPORATION.

We see that the Town of Burlington and the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company have agreed to a contract for the installation of a Common Battery System and on account of this better system higher rates of toll are to be paid to this gigantic Corporation that would take the peoples money and render service, if we submit to the poorest possible type. The Town possibly did the right thing to accept the agreement but they should have by all means, in our opinion, compelled this Corporation which is rolling in wealth at the expense of the people, to have put all their cables and wires underground within the fire limits at least. Our City Fathers first contended for this and we think it is a mistake that they should have given in on this point. But as this seems to be settled as far as the town of Burlington is concerned the only recourse is as we see it is for the good people of our County to go before the Corporation Commission and protest against their allowing the contract to stand in its present shape.

Another thing is this Corporation will have as much as one and a half years to install this improved system and in their contract with the town of Burlington they do not agree to any immediate relief as regards the present poor service. We recommend that every man of intelligence in our town and County take an active part in going before the Corporation Commission and ask and demand that the Bell Telephone Co. be made to give us service during the 18 months that we have to submit to the present system service that is of an average good service and if the subscribers can show that the service is not up to the average good service then the subscriber should have the privilege of making the proper deduction from their bills on account of poor service, we write this hurriedly before going to press and we shall have more to say each week upon this subject for some time to come.

Mr. Justice's Statement

"Friends throughout the state have expressed a desire to know whether I will be a candidate to succeed Senator Overman as United States senator, and I think it is the most convenient and frank way to deal with the situation to state publicly that I do expect to aspire to the honor of representing North Carolina in that exalted position.

"Later I shall state fully the reason why I presume to hope if elected the opportunity will thereby be afforded to consecrate the position and what of ability and talents I have to the service of the state. In the meantime it is my sincere desire that my course as a citizen and as a public official will not be influenced by my candidacy or by any personal ambition. If occasion arises in the future to decide between the path of duty and personal sacrifice, I ask no more than that in such event I be given the wisdom, virtue and patriotism to pursue the course that will enable me to retain my self-respect and the commendation of my conscience and that I may so walk that it may be truly said that I did not sell the truth to serve the hour."

"I do not intend by this announcement to indicate a purpose to carry on a long campaign that will tend to unduly distract the situation of the voters from other matters. It will be nearly a year before the voters of the Democratic party select that party's candidate for United States senator to be voted for at the general election in November 1914.

"I deem it sufficient at this time to make this brief statement and I trust I may say with propriety that my position on public questions is sufficient well known and has been consistent enough to make a more elaborate statement at this time unnecessary.

"I have an abiding faith in the wisdom of the voters of North Carolina and respect their right to govern themselves. I shall therefore await their judgement and when it is rendered I will accept it with respect and confidence in their wisdom.

Miss Eloise Guthrie Entertains.

In honor of her guest Miss Winifred Habel of Raleigh Miss Eloise Guthrie entertained quite a number of her friends at the beautiful home of her parents on South Park Avenue last Thursday night. Entertain Embroidery Club.

Mr. Chas. V. Sharpe and others of his gentlemen friends gave a picnic in honor of the embroidery club Friday night July 18. The scene of the picnic was the pond of the Graham Country Club. The happy party reached the pond about sunset and soon baskets, boxes and buckets containing the choicest viands were in evidence and a most delicious supper was soon spread invitingly on a table which had been built for such occasions. The splendid supper served demonstrated the fact that the girls who belonged to the Embroidery Club know how to cook and serve meals as well as embroidery. After supper was over boats were provided and in separate groups numbering from two to six respectfully the parties floated on the tranquil water kissed by the mellifluous light of the moon which was in full orb and beautiful and served as a special friend of the ardent lover. There has not been a happier social event here during this season. Among those present were: Misses Mabel Isley, Hazel Albright, Byrd Dailey, Bessie Holt, Mrs. J. S. Frost, Mrs. H. D. Wood and Messrs. C. V. Sharpe, Jno. Lashley, Summie Sharpe, Le Roy Fonville, Edgar Holt, E. S. W. Dameron and Dr. Anderson.

Messdames Frost and Wood made most excellent chaperones. A watermelon feast closed the pleasure of the evening and everybody went home proud of the Embroidery Club and delighted with all of its charming members.

Progressive News Service.

Munsey Building, Washington, D. C. July 19, 1913.

The Wilson-Underwood tariff bill is about to be taken up by the Senate for detailed consideration and passage. There is no doubt as to the final vote. The chief question that arises is as to time when that vote will be taken. Consideration of that question involves a psychological study of Woodrow Wilson and that is the principle thing which is now occupying many Senators, both Republicans and Democrats. There has been a curious lapse of interest in the tariff bill throughout the country during the last few weeks. Various explanations are offered for this. One is that the country, being satisfied that the bill is a substantial revision downward, has approved it on faith and is going about its regular business patiently awaiting the final enactment of the measure.

From the Republican side of the Senate, there comes a different opinion, however. The Republican are, of course, keenly interested in having the bill prove itself to be a breeder of calamity. It is vital to the hope of the standard paters to have commercial upheaval and business disaster follow the enactment of a low tariff bill. Standpatters in the Senate and House and their scattered adherents about the country have been predicting distress as assiduously as possible but, somehow or other, their predictions have failed to excite the country appreciably. The explanation of this failure now given on the Republican side of the Senate is that President Wilson has outwitted the calamity howlers. Some Republicans say that the President has been extremely shrewd in distracting attention from the tariff bill, both by his insistence upon the immediate enactment of a currency bill and by his special lobby investigation.

These Republicans credit the President with playing on the psychology of the country. They say he understands very well that the thought of fear breeds fear; that the suggestion of the possibility of commercial distress increases the likelihood of that misfortune; that warning talk of the danger of panic heightens the probability of panic. Because of his understanding of these facts, they credit or effect to credit the President with deliberately seeking to distract attention from the tariff bill.

Whether deliberate or not, the President unquestionably has been successful in this line. It is not so certain, however, that the substitution of the currency bill for the tariff bill as the center of interest has tended to allay fear of disturbance. There is plenty of evidence that the business interests of the country are much more alarmed about the currency bill than they ever have been about the low tariff measure.

Ample manifestation of this alarm has been made to both houses of Congress from all parts of the country. The result is a vigorous last-ditch determination on the part of the Republicans in the Senate that there shall be no currency legislation at the session. For that reason, they have made no effort to hasten the lingering consideration of the tariff by the dallying Democrats. The Republicans recognize the fact that the tariff is a much easier measure on which to prevent prompt action than the currency. The standpatters have had so much practice in talking tariff that debate on the Wilson-Underwood bill can be made almost limitless, if they desire to do so. Some of them are frankly avowing a determination not to permit the tariff bill to reach a final vote until such time as they have authentic assurance from the White House that the President will not insist upon the enactment of his currency measure at this session.

The fate of the Commerce Court furnishes another striking evidence of Democratic inefficiency. It will be remembered that a year ago the Democrats dallied around so much that they did not pass the annual appropriation until some time after the close of the fiscal year and were obliged two or three times to adopt special resolutions continuing the appropriation of the preceding year. No such exhibition of incompetency in handling the business of the government, the greatest corporation in the world, had ever given, but now the Democrats have repeated this exhibition. They have been talking for several years about abolishing the Commerce Court. With characteristic incompetence they have now merely cut off the appropriation for the court without enacting a law specifically abolishing it and transferring its jurisdiction to other courts. The result is that the Commerce Court, while still legally in existence and having jurisdiction over many important cases, has no money with which to transact its business. Meantime the Democrats are quarreling among themselves as to what they shall do about it.

Yet these Democrats who have thus in every year given two striking exhibitions of their incompetency to handle questions that so vitally concern the commercial welfare of the county continue to talk with loud assurance about "settling" the trust and corporation question.
