

RELIGIOUS READING.

What is Life?

A little crib beside the bed,
A little hand above the spread,
A little frock behind the door,
A little shoe upon the floor.

A little lad, with dark brown hair,
A little night of earthy chat,
A little lane that leads to school,
A little pencil, slate and ruler.

A little blithesome, winsome maid,
A little hand within his laid,
A little cottage, across four,
A little old-time fashioned store.

A little family gathering round;
A little night of tear-dewed mound;
A little added to his soil,
A little rest from hardest toil.

A little silver in his hair;
A little night of earthy gloom;
A little cottage to the tomb.

Pass the Books On.

An English evangelist writes an appeal to the London Christian, which will remind Christians towards people in the newly settled parts of this country: 'Ah, sir! we dread the winter nights, they being so long and drear, and there being no think hardly again on 'em. It's all very well for people as has got plenty of books and such like; but we nint got nothink but the same old uns, and we know them a most by heart.' These and such like words have rung in our ears for many a day, till we felt determined to do what we could not only to help the villages in our own neighborhood, but nearly a score in other places known to us, by establishing a library in each. Will your readers look upon their bookshelves and see what they can spare or sacrifice in the shape of sound, safe, and religious books. In all sorts of ways foul literature is being sold even in our villages, and yet all our village folk love sound reading if they can get it. This is a way that many may help the work of God without its being any extra drain upon what may possibly be an already severely taxed purse (except it be the trifle for carriage, which friends will gladly prepay, I am sure).

Where is Your Place?

A place for every man, and every man in his place! This motto is as good for Christ's Church, as it was for the army during the war. But what is every Christian's right place?

We answer it is the one for which God made him, and for which the Holy Spirit converted him. To mistake it is a sad blunder; to desert it is a disgrace. The Bible acknowledges that God made His servants for some especial "niche;" for it says "having the gift differing according to the grace that is given us, let us wait on our ministering; or he that teacheth on teaching; or he that exhorted on exhortation; he that giveth let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that showeth mercy, with cheerfulness." The principle laid down here is that every man or woman who loves Jesus should select, and should fill that post of duty for which his or her gifts have fitted them. But "let no man neglect the gift that is in him."

Some men—like Spurgeon and Newman Hall and Bishop Simpson—were created for the pulpit. God gave them clear heads, warm hearts, strong lungs and eloquent tongues, and a hunger for saving souls. To possess such gifts is a clear call to the ministry. And thousands of humble preachers who cannot attract Spurgeon's crowds, are yet as clearly called to the ministry of the Word as the London Bonauges.

Suppose a man or woman feel—after deep prayer or self-examination—that God has not called them to the pulpit; what then? Must they be silent? Are all the speaking gifts of the pious lawyer, or doctor, or merchant, or mechanic to run to waste? No, verily! Let such proclaim the glad tidings of Christ, and the story of their own Christian experience in the prayer-meeting, or the mission school, or the cottage conference meeting, or wherever they can find souls to plead with. How successfully this lay-labor may be made, let such men as Harlan Page and Richard Weaver and George H. Stuart and D. L. Moody and Uncle Johnny Vassar bear witness. Let the powerful lay preaching heard every day in "Fulton street" answer. Some of the best discourses I have ever heard were but five or ten minutes long, and were delivered in my own prayer meeting.

A Christian who is keen for work, will soon find his place. If he is "apt to teach," he or she will soon gather the Sabbath-school class, and will be there, Bible in hand, every Sunday, even though the rain spatters on the pavements. Commend me to the teacher who wears a "water-proof and always consults conscience sooner than the barometer!"

Whoever has the gift of song should join in God's great choir, at every religious service. The owner of a good voice must give an account for that voice at the day of judgment. We shall never have genuine congregational singing until every redeemed child of Christ sings from duty, and consecrates the gift of music to the Lord. Those who expect to sing in heaven had better practice here.

Tract-distribution is going too much out of fashion. It is a blessed and heaven-honored work, and any one with spare time and a tongue and a little pious tact, can go out with a bundle of tracts to the abodes of ignorance and irreligion.

Those who cannot exhort or teach in a Sunday School, can at least live for Jesus at home and come and join in the prayers of the prayer-meeting. The oldest, the timidest, the least gifted can do surely as much as add his penny when the contribution-box is passed. The gift of a "cup of cold water" in Christ's name has its reward. Every one whom Jesus saves has a place assigned in the vineyard. An idle Christian is a monster! Friend! have you found your place?—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.

Christians are often employed in digging wells to find comfort, and the deeper they go the darker they get; the Fountain of life, salvation and comfort, is above; call upon thy God and look up, and the light of His love will soon cheer thee.

INJUSTICE CORRECTED.

Convincing Verification of Widened Public Statements.

To THE READERS OF THIS PAPER. In common with many publishers and editors, we have been accustomed to look upon certain statements which we have seen in our columns as merely adroit advertising. Consequently we felt justified in taking the liberty of printing a few points from a private letter recently received from one of our largest patrons, as a sort of confession of faith to our readers. We quote:

'We have convinced ourselves that by telling what we know to be true, we have produced at least a permanent conviction in the public mind. Seven years ago we stated what the national disease of this country was, and that it was rapidly increasing. Three years ago we stated that a marked check had been given it.

'The statistics of one of the largest life insurance companies of this country shows that in 1883 and 1884, the mortality from kidney disorders did not increase over the previous years; other companies stated the same thing. It is not presumptuous for us to claim credit for checking these ravages.

'Seven years ago we stated that the condition of the kidneys was the key to the condition of health; within the past five years all careful life insurance companies have conceded the truth of this statement, for, whereas, ten years ago, chemical analysis to determine the condition of the kidneys was not required, to-day millions of dollars in risks are refused, because chemical examination discloses unsuspected disease of the kidneys.

'Seven years ago we stated that the ravages of Bright's disease were insignificant compared with other unsuspected disorders of the kidneys of many misleading names; that ninety-three per cent of human ailments are attributable to deranged kidneys, which fills the blood with uric acid, or kidney poison, which causes these many fatal diseases.

'The uric acid, or kidney poison, is the real cause of the majority of cases of paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, convulsions, pneumonia, consumption, and insanity; over half the victims of consumption are first the victims of deranged kidneys.

'When the recent death of an honored official of the United States was announced, his physician said that although he was suffering from Bright's Disease, that was not the cause of death. He was not frank enough to admit that the apoplexy which overtook him in his bed, was the fatal effect of the kidney poison of the blood, which had eaten away the substance of the arteries and brain; nor was Logan's physician honest enough to state that his fatal rheumatism was caused by kidney acid in the blood.

'If the doctors would state in official reports the original cause of death, the people of this country would be alarmed, yet, nearly panic-stricken, at the fearful mortality from kidney disorders.'

The writers of the above letter give these facts to the public simply to justify the claims that they have made, that "if the kidneys and liver are kept in a healthy condition by the use of Warner's safe cure, which hundreds of thousands have proved to be a specific, when all other remedies failed, and that has received the endorsement of the highest medical talent in Europe, Australasia and America, many a life would be prolonged and the happiness of the people preserved. It is successful with so many different diseases because it and it alone, can remove the uric acid from the blood through the kidneys."

Our readers are familiar with the preparation names. Commendation thereof has often appeared in our columns. We believe it to be one of the best, if not the best ever manufactured. We know the proprietors are men of character and influence.

We are certain they have awakened a wide-spread interest in the public mind concerning the importance of the kidneys. We believe with them that they are the key to health, and that the restoration from disease and maintenance in health, there is nothing equal to this great remedy.

The proprietors say "do not glory in this universal prevalence of disease, but having started out with the purpose of spreading the merits of Warner's safe cure before the world, because it cured our senior proprietor, who was given up by doctors as incurable, we feel it our duty to state the facts and leave the public to its own inferences. We point to our claims, and to their public and universal verification with pride, and if the public do not believe what we say, we tell them to ask their friends and neighbors what they think about our preparations."

As stated above, we most cordially commend the personal of this correspondence by our readers, believing that in so doing we are fulfilling a simple public obligation.

Preocious Bertie. Little Bertie Miller, three years old, has long had a deep yearning to know what was inside the head of his sister's big doll. So, the other day, he found a tack hammer and, by the aid of that simple instrument, satisfied his curiosity.

'Oh, Bertie, cried his mother as the smash of china brought her to the scene of the experiment; "how could you do it. How could you do it, Bertie?"

'Easy," replied Bertie, with a bland and self-satisfied smile. Like most children Bertie is full of policy and whenever he has reason to think that he is about to be scolded or punished he practices his most winning wiles to divert the attention or secure the favor of his mother. Not long ago the latter reproved him for pinching his kitten and said: "Now, I'm going to pinch you so you can see how it feels."

'Oh, mamma, cried Bertie, smoothing her cheeks affectionately, "What pity feckles you have. Your feckles aint back like most people's is."

But he got pinched all the same. On another occasion, while the family doctor was making a visit in the house, Bertie stood at the window gazing fixedly at his horse, a very lean and sorry-looking animal.

'What are you thinking of, Bertie?' asked the doctor. 'I think your horse have such fat bones,' he replied. 'Dey so fat dey just tick out.'—Detroit Free Press

They Were Not Responsible. A story is told of a groceryman of the shrewd old Yankee stock, who, on several occasions, was surprised to find sums of money in his sugar. Where it came from was a mystery. It may have been hidden by slaves for a purpose, but for what it would be hard to say. The storekeeper, being too conscientious to keep the money without trying to find an owner, and likewise being very loth to give it up, hit on this plan to satisfy conscience and keep the money. Going to the merchants of whom he purchased the goods he inquired whether they were responsible for the sticks and stones and things that were in it.

'No, sir,' was the reply, 'you must take the sugar just as we receive it. We are not responsible for anything in the barrels.' It is needless to say that the store-keeper did not press the matter.—Boston Record.

TO BE READ IN CONNECTION WITH ABOVE. The highest perfection of the peculiar climate of Florida. During the war the army was so situated by a Federal Act and nearly swept out of existence. The inhabitants fled and abandoned their homes to the torch and pillage of the enemy, and not until about ten years ago was there any attempt made to reoccupy the town. This Company began active operations a little more than a year ago. Since that time there has been the most remarkable "boom" created in the most remote Florida. The St. Andrew's Bay Colony has been known in the Florida State. Just what the colony reached that point in great of Florida, business and dwelling houses have been erected by the hundreds.
