Text: "Who laid the corner-stone thereof, when the morning stars sang together?"—
Job xxyvii., d, 7.

We have all seen the ceremony at the laying of the corner-stone of church, asylum or Masonic temple. Into the hollow of the stone were placed scrolls of history and imprivant documents to be suggestive if one or two hundred years after the building should be destroyed by fire or torn down. We remember the silver trowel or iron hammer that smote the square piece of granite into sanctity. We remember some venerable man who presided, wielding the trowel or hammer. We remember also the music as the choir stood on the scattered stones and timber of the building about to be constructed. The leaves of the notebooks fluttered in the wind and were turned over with a great rustling, and we remember how the bass, baritone, tenor, contraito and soprano voices commingled. They had for many days been rehearsing the special programme, that it might be worthy of the corner-stone laying. In my text the poet of Uz calls us to a grander ceremony—the laying of the foundation of this great temple of a world. The corner stone was a block of light, and the trowel was of celestial crystal. All about and on the embankments of cloud stood the angelic choristers, unrolling their librettos of overture, and other worlds clapped shining cymbals while the ceremony went on, and God, the architect, by stroke of light after stroke of light, dedicated this great cathedral of a world, with mountains for pillars, and sky for fresceed ceiling, and movering fields for floors, and sunrise and midnight aurora for upholstery. "Who laid the corner stone thereof, when the morning stars sang together?"

The fact is that the whole universe was a complete cadence, an unbroken dithyramb, a musical portfolio. The great sheet of immensity had been spread out, and written on it were the stars, the smaller of them minims, the larger of them sustained notes. The meteors marked the staccato passages, the whole heavens a gamat, with all sounds, intonations and modu fugue, are demoniac phantasy, are grane march of doom, are allegro of perdition.

But if in this world things in general are out of tune to our frail ear, how much more so to ears angelic and deific. It takes a skilled artist fully to appreciate disarreement of sound. Many have no capacity to detect a defect of musical execution, and, though there were in one bar as many offenses against harmony as could crowd in between the lower F of the bass and the higher G of the roprano, it would give them no discomfort, while on the forehead of the educated artist beads of perspiration would stard out as a result of the harrowing dissonance. While an amateur was performing on a piano and had just struck the wrong chord, John Sebastian Bach, the immortal composer, entered the room, and the amateur rose in embarrassment, and Bach rushed past the host, who stepped forward to greet him and before the keyboard had stopped vibrating, put his adroit hand upon the keyt, and changed the painful inharmony into glorious cadence. Then Bach turned and gave salutation to the host who had invited him.

But the worst of all discords is moral discord. If society and the world are painfully discordant to imperfect man, what must they be to a perfect God? People try to define what sin is. It seems to me that sin is getting out of harmony with God, a disagreement with His holines, with His purity, with His love, with His commands; our will clashing with His will, the finite dashing against the reacted against the Creator. If a thousand musicians, with flute, and cornet a-piston, and trumpet, and violoncello, and hautboys, and trombone, and all the wind and stringed instruments that ever gathered in a Dusseldorf jublie, should resolve that they would play out of tune an 1 put concord to the rack, and make the place wild with shrieking, and corner stoos was a block of light, and the common control of the corner of the corner with their trumpets, we should hear some of the strains of Antioch, and Mount Piggah, and Coronation, and Lenox, and St. Martin's, and Fountain, and Ariel and Old Hundred. How they would bring to mind the praying circles, and communion days, and the Christmas festivals, and the church worship in which on earth we mingled! I have no idea that when we bid farewell to earth we are to bid farewell to all these grand old Gospel hymns which melted and raptured our souls for so many years. Now, my friends, if sin is discord and righteousness is harmony, let us get out of the one and enter the other. After our dreadfal civil war was over, and in the summer of 1860, a great national peace jubilee was held in Boston, and as an elder of this church had been honored by the selection of some of his music, to be rendered on that occasion. I accompanied him to the jubilee. Forty thousand people sat and stood in the great Coliseum erected for that purpose. Thousands of wind and stringed instruments. Twelve thousand trained voices. The masterpieces of all ages rendered, hour after hour, and day after day—Handel's "Judas Maccabæus," Spohr's "Last Judgment," Beethoven's "Mount of Olives." Haydn's "Creation," "Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Meyerbeer's "Coronation March," rolling on and up in surges that billowed against the heavens. The mighty cadence within were accompanied on the outside by the ringing of the bells of the city and caanon on the commons, in exact time with the music discharged by electricity, thundering their awful bars of harmony that astounded all nations.

Sometimes I stood up in the enchantment, and sometimes the effect was so overpowering I felt I could not endure it. When all the twoices were in full chorus, and all the botons in full wave, and all the orchestra in full triumph, and a hundred anvils under mighty hammers were in full chorus, and all the twoices were an infinity and an authous or the second of the second of the rendered of the continents, and all the botons in full wave, and all the orchestra in fu

Dean Sir.—Like the rest of the profession, I have a prejudice against proprietary medicines; but, like the rest, I can give no good reason for it. A madical friend of mine in the west called my attention to your Swamp Roor and bade me try it. I wrote you for a sample, and you sent made generous one indeed. I have tried it very carefully, and find it to be a wenderfully invigorating tonic in cases of wenderfully invigorating tonic in cases of broken down constitutions. Thusfar, I find it gives great relief in kidney and bludder trou-bles; in in ipient stages of Bright's disease diabstes and Urinary troubles in general. In a hospi al, you know. I have ample oppor-tunity to test a medicin. All the patients treated successfully are so many alvert sers of its merits.

Yours truly, Dr. S. A. DEFOE. In charge of Warren County Hospital,

A New Parisian Artist's Canvas Story of

"Tell me, Mr. Wight," asked our roporter of the well-known art counoisseur of the Everett, New York, "is American art improving in character and excellences?"

"Very much so."
"Do Americans much patronize foreign art?"

"Yes. And as they pay the best prices, their private galleries contain gems of all the modern masters."

"Which are preferred, work "of the modern or ancient masters?"

"The modern. Historical scenes, real and ideal landscapes, and decided characters in figure are the most popular.

"The last time I was in Paris I picked up a very strong bit of drawings which depicted a middle-aged man bolstered up in a much be-cushioned chair, his face and surroundings indicating intense agony.

"His table is crowded with many a physician's phials, abandoned bandages, and used-up blisters. Before him a tub of steaming water derisively sends its incense into his face, and the great fire cheerily blazes in mockery of his unhappiness. His nurse is a type of dismay.

"I really enjoy looking at this picture!"

"I know how the old fellow feels! I my-self was for twelve years a victim of inflammatory rheumatism. Every spring and winter perfect torture twisted me for two or three months, during which I was often unable to sleep for a week at a time; was tornented by continuoas agony, and at one time was totally blind for a fortnight, the disease having settled in my eyes. I had the best medical skill, used all the most approved scientific specifics, visited the famed mineral springs of America, of Carlsbad and Paris, but every year the same mad fire literally burned me alive!

"I often laugh to myself as I think what an eld 'bear' I too must have been, when suffering as that old fellow seems to be."

"Aren't you tempting fate by making sport of your old enemy?"

"On, no, I fear him no longer! My tussle with him was over two years ago, and all the agony of the years of remissions settled on me then. My physicians gave me no hope of recovery. I had faith in myself, however."

"The rheumatism was in my case, as in nearly
