THE CHARLOTTE NEWS.

VOLUME VII. CHARLOTTE, N. C., THURSDAY EVENING, JANUARY 21, 1892 NUMBER 1050

Seigle's JAN. 21 1892.

It is a conservative statement that the offering of two hundred Women's Long Wraps at one third prices is unprecedented in North Carolina. It is our greatest stroke in Wraps.

FOR

The forms and finish, quietness and elegance combine all the latest touches of Paris and Berlin taste in their production. This is one of those exceptional offers that occasionally happen in the retail business. This is a specimen: $10 for $5; $12.50 for $6; $15 for $7.50; $18 for $9; $22.50 for $10; $25 for $12.50. How can you resist such values? These Wraps must go. There is no alternative. We mean business. Six long Capes also in the sacrificial lot—one grey and five black ones. One fur trimmed Reefer that was $35 must go at $18. We know no end when we say stuff must go. Fur Muffs, Boas and Collars. Do you want one? Fifty cents buys a dollars worth in the Furs. Cold weather yet, and plenty of it too, so wraps are just right to buy. Our Hamburg sale is actually paralyzing competition. Four and a half yards of embroidery for 4c that is worth 3c per yard. Direct from St. Gall. We are in it to expire flamingly.

Street Work Now in Order.

Now that the rainy spell has passed away, and work can be resumed on the streets, THE NEWS is asked to point out a few places needing immediate attention. First of all is the Mint street crossing at the government building, on West Trade street. This is the most important crossing in Charlotte, the main bridgeway to the postoffice, yet it is the worst in town. The fragmentary rock that in fair weather serve well enough, have been buried under mud for a week or more. A new crossing is needed there, and it should be put down at once.

Another place requiring attention is the street along the platform of the Carolina Central passenger depot. That street was recently filled up with red clay, and the mud is hub deep. It needs macadamizing.

On East Ninth street is a ditch that turns vehicles a block out of their course.

Personal.

THE LATEST SLOT MACHINE.

It Looks Like a Redbush and is Only Operated in the Dark, but it Fills the Bill—Another Invention Growing Out of Necessity.

The new nickle-in-the-slot machine, it is reported, has struck the town. It is a machine invented to do business in towns where bars are prohibited. As it is made to work only in the dark, THE NEWS has not been able to get a good view of it, but from descriptions by one who felt for the slot in the dark with his nickle, and experienced an exhilarating result, we are enabled to give a cut illustrating the way in which the machine is supposed to perform its nefarious functions. It's as plain as daylight. You can, in imagination, see the man with the chin whiskers carefully place the nickle in the slot which is slyly exposed. Then the lid of the box flies open and he reaches in and pulls out a drink, ready mixed and guaranted to give satisfaction or furnish a subject for the undertaker. The machine, it is said, can be encountered in almost any convenient corner about town.

WORKING THE SLOT MACHINE.

Sad Death of a Young Lady.

The sad news of the death of Miss Clara McLenna, of Johnston, S. C., was received here this morning. The grip was the cause of her death. She was eighteen years old, and is a daughter of Mr. E. W. McLenna, editor of the Monitor at that place. The town of Johnston, S. C., is grieved over the loss of such an estimable and beautiful young lady. She was the favorite of all who knew her.

South Boston's Whiskey.

When they bought up the whiskey in South Boston, in consequence of Mr. Fife's meeting there, the question was asked THE NEWS by several people here in Charlotte what became of the whiskey. A drummer who was in town today, volunteered to answer the question. He said that he was in South Boston a few days ago and that he learned that the parties who bought the whiskey didn't pour it out into the gutters. They are now selling it at a slight advance on the old rates.

Mrs. Jackson Goes to Richmond.

Mrs. M. A. Jackson, widow of Gen. Stonewall Jackson, left this morning for Richmond. She goes there to consult Dr. McGuire. She has been suffering for sometime with neuralgia in her head.

CALDWELL TAKES IT.

Charlotte's Morning Paper to Undergo a Change.

Mr and Mrs. Joseph P. Caldwell, of Statesville, arrived in the city this morning. Mr. Caldwell comes to arrange the final details with Mr. D. A. Tompkins, for the future management of the Charlotte Chronicle. THE NEWS mentioned a few days ago that Mr. Tompkins had bought that paper, and that he had offered Mr. Caldwell the exclusive editorial management of the same. Mr. Caldwell has accepted and will take charge as soon as the transfer can be completed. The details of the trade is a matter concerning the two and with which THE NEWS has nothing to do. It is sufficient to say though that Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Tompkins are mutually agreed, and that they will set out to give Charlotte a good morning daily. THE NEWS knows when a man is busy, therefore it has not bothered Mr. Caldwell with questions. It understands though, that Mr. Caldwell has not sold the Landmark, and will not do so until he gets a good price for it, and that in the meantime, it will be conducted as usual, in the hands of capable parties and under the management of Mrs. Caldwell. THE NEWS extends a most cordial welcome to Mr. Caldwell. This is not exactly his native heath, but he has been here before and has a warm place in the hearts of our people.

A Bale of Cotton for $10.80.

Some of the cotton buyers in adjoining towns wrote here yesterday to know what sort of cotton it was that sold at 3 cents per pound. They had seen the quotation in THE NEWS but they didn't believe it. THE NEWS quotes daily the lowest and the highest price paid for cotton. That covers all. If the lowest bale brings 3 cents, and the highest 8 cents, it says so. It really did happen yesterday, that the lowest price paid for cotton was on a bale weighing 300 pounds. It was yellow and full of dirt, but trought 3 cents per pound. There were some bales of good cotton that brought 7½ cents. THE NEWS quotes the market as it is.

The Weather.

Following is a synopsis of weather prevailing at 8 a. m., to-day: A high barometer remains stationary over this section, which is accompanied by clear and cold weather. Temperatures are generally rising over the entire country, except in this immediate vicinity. An area of low pressure has developed in the Dakotas, which has caused temperatures in that section to rise 5 to 10 degrees. Very little precipitation has occurred over the country.

Sudden Death of a Merchant.

Mr. J. N. Thompson, one of the most prominent men of Davidson College and one of the oldest merchants of that place died this morning, of heart disease. He had been sick for a week past, but yesterday he had apparently recovered. He got up this morning to start out for his store, when he suddenly expired.

An Electric Car Conductor Succumbs to Typhoid.

A Cabarrus man named Furr, who has been employed as conductor on the electric railway is very sick at the residence of Mrs. Wilson, in ward 2, with typhoid fever. He has had a case of "walking typhoid" for a few days pat, but yesterday he became delirious and had to be confined. His condition is serious.

CHILI CRAWFISHES.

Minister Montt Speaks by Authority of President Montt—No Fight.

Special to The News.

New York, Jany. 21.—The New York Herald to-day publishes an interview with Minister Montt who speaks by authority of President Montt. Minister Montt says "Chili has warmest feeling for the United States Government, and is trying to get at the bottom of the facts from which the present trouble originated.

"The guilty parties," Minister Montt continues, "will certainly be punished but it is impossible to do this until they are apprehended and their guilt established. Chili has no desire to fight the United States."

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—There was a decided fall in the war market around the Navy Department this morning. It was quite evident that the bears had taken hold of the Chilian situation and the effect was that a more peaceful feeling prevailed. Secretary Tracy had a comparatively quiet morning, though he found plenty to occupy him. Yesterday afternoon he saw Senators Stanford, Stockbridge, Hale, Gibson of Louisiana, Chandler and Blackburn of the Senate naval committee. This morning he had calls from Senators Cameron and McPherson, the two members of the committee who did not put in an appearance yesterday.

It is understood that the Secretary laid before the committee a statement of the expenditures he has recently incurred in his preparations for a naval demonstration against Chili, and asked that when his estimates for an appropriations should be submitted he receive the support of the committee. A week ago, he is alleged to have said, these preparations seemed to be absolutely necessary, but now he believes that there will be no war. It is further understood tht the Secretary received the assurances of the committee that he would be supported in every proper and necessary expense involved in his precautionary movements.

This expression on the part of the Secretary of a belief that the crisis has been passed is taken as an indication that the overtures of the Chilian government, mentioned in connection with yesterday's cabinet meeting, are regarded as paving the way to an ultimate act of reparation on the part of Chili. At all events it is quite certain that the entire tone of affairs around the Navy Department, which is the most active branch of the government just at present in this affair, has been considerably modified. No single step has been taken, however, to undo all that has been so hurredly done by the department during the past few weeks to put this country on a fighting basis. There is no less activity in the navagation bureau in the prparation and translation of cipher dispatches, and it is evident that the department is spending quite as much money as ever in transmission of intelligence over the wires.

A Schoolboy's Arm Broken.

Willie Bason, a son of Capt. Geo. F. Bason, had an arm broken this afternoon. He was playing with a party of companions on the graded school ground-, when he stumbled and fell against a fence. One of his arms was broken below the elbow. He was sent to his home in a carriage.
