Melatyre & Marshall say: Taking the market as a whole we are inclined to legard it as high enough and hardly believe a further advance will be sought by the leaders.

Ridgely says: I would be inclined to old long stock over the holidays. From what I can see now, the expected September break may not come. Suit ourself, about taking profits on bulge. We have come to the dividing of speculative ways. My judgement is that except in the case of Southern Pacific sticks are high enough and profits ought to be taken on rallies but the very best information, and from reliable sources, too, is that prices are foing away higher. ### THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Wheat—Long what came out at the start on fine conditions in North West and decided weakness abroad. Receipts were large in North West and promise to run big There was good commission house buying at 70 for September and this option was firmly held. Trade was light in other options, the cash report testraining the bears. While we would advise leaving September alone, but sales o fother options on hard spots should prove profitable. . .

Corn-Receipts light but weather conditions very much improved with prospects of higher temperatures. Ad Fices from South West were quite bear ish but there were good commission house buying and prices were firmly held. September is a cangerous month how as manipulation can put the price where ever they want it. Decembe seems a good sale at 43 and above. Oats-Were strong on account of We receipts and shorts covering. Egypt and Manchuria. We (Gn't believe present prices can be maintained and favor sales.
