RESUME OF FIRST LECTURE.

Prof. Durham Again Delights a Large Audience.

The second in the series of Trinity College extension lectures was given by Prof. Plato Durham in Tryon Street Methodist church last evening. The last lecture will be given at 8:30 o'clock this evening. These lectures will be of immense value in quickening the literary impulse of our town and will give an opportunity for keeping in touch with the educational progress of our colleges. The public is invited to join in the movement. In the lecture of last night Prof. Durham gave a resume of the first lecture for the benefit of those who were not present to hear it. He took up the thread of his discourse and went on to show how the Bible stands in the light of modern thought. The speaker evinced clearly that he has put himself in touch with the greatest Bible students of the present time, both in America and Europe and was able, therefore, to lift his audience to a higher plain of thinking on the subject. He gave a new way of looking at the Bible—a better way. He proved conclusively that there is no conflict in reality between science and the Bible, and that science, philosophy, astronomy, biology, music, literature, history, all are simply God's instruments and that all of life is an expression of the life of God; every force a direct manifestation of the will of God. All are processes of the Master Workman of the universe. The human race shows God in His highest work. Attention was called to the fact that God works with imperfect instruments—as for instance Himself. Lo, in His great revelation to the world of Bible truth he worked through imperfect beings, Moses, David, Paul and so on, only in Christ was a perfect manifestation.

Prof. Durham spoke of evolution, showing that it means only development from small, dark beginnings to the brightness of civilization, the divine, eternal life underlying all. That God worked in a progressive way in revelation was illustrated by morals in the time of Jacob compared to what Christ taught, and by the development of the ideas of immortality as shown by the Bible, how the light flashed more and more until it became a steady light. The changeless and eternal is God.

Higher criticism was explained in a very clear and forcible way; that it does not mean destructive comment but simply study; that it has never ouched the essential truths of the Bible, which is the most perfectly authenticated book in the world today. Attack on the Bible has been thrown aside and the best colleges and universities are now making a text book of it. And so the most profound thinkers of the old and new world believe that the Bible is the Book of all books the eternal word of God.
