GOT TO GO ON.

I've got to go on and do my work; I've got to go on to the very end, with never a moment for play. And, oh, when you think of it all, it is best. The glory of having to fight, The beauty of telling till lips of rest Sing slyly over the night!

I've got to go on as the others do, I've got to do my share; I've got to go on with the burden borne that I've been given to bear. But, oh, what a beautiful task it is, And how much it has sweetened my life. To think of the delicate brotherhood Of the bloom that is won from strife!

I've got to go on through the many years, there's no other thing to do; I've got to go on till the task is done and they tell me duty is through.

Gladly I go, and I sing of it With gladness, that day by day The sunlight falls with an equal grace Mid the shadows along the way!

I've got to go on, there's no such thing as stopping and letting go;

I've got to go on till a tale is told whose end I may not know. I've got to go on, and I'm glad, indeed.

Though the end of it all be dark; For, ah, how noble and true it is To set one's heart on the mark!

I've got to go on, though I sometimes feel by weariness overcome;

I've got to go on till the twilight falls and the mill wheels cease to hum.

Got to go on to the unseen end. But, oh, when we think of it, men, Isn't it fine to go on with your work And turn and go on again!

—Bentztown Bard.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING LAST EVENING.

With that charming refinement characteristic of the Kincaid family, the details of the marriage of Miss Anna Douglas Kincaid, of this city, and Mr. Arthur Harris Thompson, of Minneapolis, Minn., were planned and beautifully carried out.

The nuptials attracted to the First Presbyterian church last night a large and fashionable audience representing friends of Dr. and Mrs. Kincaid and of the young bride of the evening.

The pulpit and choir loft were richly adorned for the marriage of the loved daughter of the late and beloved pastor of the church. On a background of magnolia leaves and other greens, white carnations and brides roses stood out in charming relief, while towering over all, in queenly beauty was the Easter lily.

At no wedding has the church ever looked so pretty. The hour of the ceremony was 8 o'clock. As the clock struck the wedding procession left the manse, and entered the church.

The ushers, Dr. R. L. Gibbon and Messrs. J. M. Scott, J. W. Zimmerman and Buford Patterson, entered in pairs and stood either side of the pulpit.

Proceeding the bride was her sister, Mrs. Douglas Kincaid, of Wadesboro, who, gowned in a lovely dress of soft pale blue silk with Duchess lace and carrying an armful of white roses and carnations, walked alone, and with marked grace and dignity of bearing, down the bride's aisle. Following in a few minutes was the bride—the charming little woman in whom the affectionate interest of a city, centered.

As she passed along the white carpeted aisle to join the man of her choice who stood waiting for her at the pulpit, she was an ideal picture of grace and prettiness.

Her dress was of soft white silk, en train, veiled with marquisette and garnished with Old Point lace that was on her mother's wedding gown. Her veil was white tulle, held on either side of the well-poised head by rosettes of tulle. The traditional wreath of orange blossoms was conspicuous by its absence. She carried an exquisite bunch of bride's roses and white hyacinths.

Dev. Dr. A. A. McGeachy, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, heard the vows, and in an impressive manner joined the two young lovers in the holy bonds of marriage. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Douglas Kincaid. Her younger brother, Mr. Billie Kincaid, was best man.

Mr. J. H. Craighill was at the organ and rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march, as a professional "Traummer" during the recessional. The bride returned to the manse, and shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for Virginia, where they will reside. The bride is the only daughter of the late William Morris Kincaid, D. D., and Mrs. Anna Douglas Kincaid. She is one of the most accomplished and highly cultured young women of this city. The rich thoughts expressed by her distinguished father from Sunday to Sunday are beautifully reflected in her mind, and define her as a woman of brilliant mentality, as well as personal charm.

The groom has been prominent in business and social life in Minneapolis. He is highly esteemed there, having a wide circle of friends. He was accompanied on his happy mission here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, of Minneapolis. Mrs. Thompson was richly gowned last night in crimson satin veiled in black marquisette.

GREAT MUSICAL TREAT AHEAD.

There is only one David Bispham, and he will be heard in Charlotte next Thursday night at the Academy. A gentleman said this morning: "I don't care for singing as a rule—but I would walk a mile any time to go and hear Bispham sing 'Danny Deever'; he is simply great. That is why Mr. Bispham is always in such demand at great national conventions; men crowd to hear him sing. His genius and sympathy holds his audience and lifts his fellow man out of the rut of common every day existence and stirs him to noble sentiment and high aspirations. Moreover, Mr. Bispham is a speaker whose voice and diction are delights to the listening ear. Mr. Bispham on January 26th, at Indianapolis, presented the one act play 'Adelaide,' which shows a tragic incident in the life of Beethoven, in which he took the title roll in a most wonderful manner. Mr. Bispham is now on New York filling engagements with the Philharmonic Society.

All In Readiness Kress' Opening

Store With its Magnificent Effects Will Be a Revelation to City—Not Equalled in Paris, Says Kress Representative.

When Charlotte walks into Kress & Co.'s magnificent new store this afternoon, and again in the morning, it will hold its breath in admiration.

The whole interior will be a revelation. Not in New York, not in London or Paris, says Mr. F. C. Dallmer, of New York, special superintendent of the Messrs. Kress for the opening of their mammoth new store in this city, is there a ten-cent store comparable to this new Charlotte store.

The News of Sunday told in detail the main facts which go to make up the magnificent ensemble of the store but not until today, when the goods were all in place, the clerks behind the counter, the lights turned on and the store flooded with an illumination which is surpassingly beautiful, could the real significance in commercial and aesthetic detail, be appreciated.

To the beauty of light and elegance of goods, is added the fragrance of flowers. Banks of palms, ferns and Easter lilies adorn the main salesroom. The mural tints are pink—side walls—and light green—ceiling.

To the right as you enter the north door is the most beautiful candy counter in the United States. The entire counter is patented. The flooring of glass divisions is of white glass imported from Belgium. It is non-absorbent. The reserve stock receptacles are of block tin which have passed under the eye of the chemist and been pronounced perfect in every way. The counter is provided with a white porcelain sink for the clerks to wash their hands. Over the counter is a row of Tungsten lights suspended from the ceiling by heavy and ornamental iron chains. The illumination of the counter and the entire store is wondrously beautiful.

The stock of goods is but little less marvelous than decorative settings.

In the china department there are 2,000 vases of royal Japanese china.

In the embroidery department there is $1 embroidery for 25 cents. In the hosiery line $1.50 silk hose are to be sold for 25 cents—60 dozen of them.

In their music department all the latest music will be sold for 20 cents. There is a piano and a pianist to play the pieces for customers.

On the second floor of the building is the receiving department and the cloak room and lunch room for the saleswomen.

The opening sale will be in charge of Mr. F. C. Dallmer, of New York, representative in Chicago, assisted by Mr. B. C. Ferrell, the popular local manager, Mr. P. Fox, private secretary to Mr. C. W. Kress, and ten other associate managers of the Kress stores.

The doors were thrown open to the public at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in an informal reception.

Tomorrow morning the store will open for business.

Friendless Girl Must Leave City

Adrift upon the streets of Charlotte, a girl of seventeen years was arrested by the police yesterday afternoon and this morning in the Recorder's court she was placed along with white and negro criminals who had to answer accusations. She came from Pineville, so she said, and wanted to go back home. But she had no money.

Under the law she was a vagrant, yet Recorder Smith did not find her guilty. He talked to her kindly, asked her to return to her home, to leave Charlotte, to begin anew. And she promised. Some time this afternoon she will start back to her home. Her name—but she said her people were good people, and maybe they'll feel badly if her name is published.

North Carolina has no home for such girls.

Civic Department Passes Resolutions
One in Regard to Keeping Independence Square Clean—The Other in Regard to a Traffic Manager—Both Interesting and Pertinent.

An interesting meeting of the Civic Department of the Woman's Club was held yesterday, the chairman, Mrs. C. B. Bryant, presiding. The most important business transacted is embodied in the following resolutions:

Resolution.
Whereas: It has always been the aim and intention of the city administration to keep Independence Square as free from congestion as possible, and Whereas: This congested condition grows worse every month, due to the increased traffic of the city, and Whereas: This will be a greater problem each year, if we are to "Watch Charlotte Grow," and Whereas: This law would make for the safety of pedestrian and driver alike,
Therefore Be It Resolved: That we urge the board of aldermen to pass an ordinance prohibiting pedestrians from walking diagonally across the intersection of Trade and Tryon streets, generally called "H" Square.

Resolved, Further: That we urge all public-spirited citizens to co-operate with us in this movement, by observing this suggestion, whether it is enacted or not.

Traffic Ordinance Resolutions.
Whereas: Charlotte, North Carolina, is a city of some thirty-five or forty-five thousand inhabitants, with a prospect of as many more, in the next few years, and Whereas: There have been several accidents within the past year to pedestrians, bicyclists, drivers of vehicles and autoists, due to ignorance or disregard of the "rules of the road,"
Therefore Be It Resolved. That the Civic Department of the Woman's Club heartily endorses the traffic ordinances as proposed by the Charlotte Automobile Association.

Resolved, Further: That this department urges the board of aldermen to enact this ordinance, in its entirety, into a city statute.

Resolved, Further: That provided this ordinance is enacted into a law, that the executive board procure the services of some competent traffic policeman from Atlanta or other city, where these rules are enforced, to inaugurate the system in Charlotte.

Stole Fresh Meat And Will Work Twelve Months
Convicted of stealing fresh meat from the abattoir Brevard Pharr, a negro, was sentenced to the public works for twelve months by Recorder D. B. Smith this morning. He made no plea in defense, having been caught with a sack filled with meat as he was leaving the meat packing establishment.

For two weeks or more the Union Stock Yards' officials have been missing meat. A watch was fixed and a special officer caught Pharr as he was leaving the place with a sack containing about thirty pounds of shoulders, heads, livers and haslets.
