Four North Carolina counties-Rob eson, Sampson, Columbus and Halifax, now have temporary dispensaries and hospital service for the treatment of hookworm disease under the direction of Dr. John A. Fer rell. For each of these dispensaries there is a hookworm specialist and a laboratory man so that the exami ers close by their homes. It is expected that in this way large numbers of patients will be reached that would not be reached in the ordinary process of the campaign. The coun ties enjoying this special arrangement for the treatment of the disease have to make appropriations toward the maintenance of the dispen saries. To own a Westbrook Baby Protector means comfort and rest for the baby, peace for the mother. The absolute protection it gives to your little one gives it an inestimable value that cannot be computed in dollars and cents. Simple construction, easily handled, inexpensive. It is made of steel wire frame-work, which can be folded or unfolded in a second. Over and attached to the steel frame is a tough linen bobinet. This netting is stitched at the edges, which prevents fraying. It is reinforced by stout white tape wherever it is directly attached to the frame work. The netting extends for several inches below the foundation reds, making it self-tucking, preventing flies, mosquitoes or other insects from crawling under it.

When the baby is once asleep, it is only necessary to unfold the Protector, place it over the infant and the flounce causes it to tuck itself. The child can then enjoy peaceful sleep, undisturbed and not endangered by disease-bearing flies and insects. The open mesh of the netting allows full circulation of fresh air and admits the sunlight when desired. The construction of the frame work is such that there are no sharp points upon which a baby might possibly scratch or injure itself in the slightest degree. The Protector is light in weight, and should the baby become restless and kick its little feet against the sides or push it with its hands, the only result would be to move it from one position to another as it is not easily overturned. Medium size Baby Protector, special introductory price.... $1.50

Large size Baby Protector, introductory price....
THE MANY USES OF THE BABY PROTECTOR The uses of the Protector are many. It serves its purpose equally wellwhether the baby rests on a bed, on a couch, on a blanket or quilt on the floor, in the open air of the porch, under the shade trees or in summer

When baby is taken on an outing, the folded Protector is easily carried and instantly ready for use when baby has gone to slumberland and peace fuly rests on a soft, thick blanket.
