On this page appears Twenty-six Separate Bargains, every one worth reading, for it represents a chance to save money. This is a regular Sunday feature of THE NEWS and most of the ads will be changed weekly. These ads alone make mighty interesting reading, but to make it still more attractive THE NEWS will print each week a silhouette of one of the advertisers. Each advertiser is a well known business man or woman and you may be able to tell who it is at a glance, but to make it easier we print a write up of each advertiser.

Revised Handbook Of Panama Canal --Interesting Facts

(By JONATHAN WINFIELD.)
 Washington, Aug. 12.—The secretary of the Isthmian Canal Commission has recently re-published a revised and enlarged edition of the official handbook of the Panama Canal, which contains many interesting facts concerning the canal which are not generally known to the public.
 The canal zone contains about 448 square miles. It begins at a point three marine miles from mean low water in each ocean, and extends for five miles on each side of the center line of the route of the canal. It includes the group of islands in the Bay of Panama, Perico Noas, Culebra, and Flamenco. The cities of Panama and Colon are not included in the zone, but the United States has the right to enforce sanitary ordinances in these cities, and to maintain order in them in case the republic of Panama should not in the judgment of the United States be able to do so.
 Of the 448 square miles of zone territory, the United States owns the larger portion. The exact amount of the land owned by the United States being determined now by a survey. Under the treaty with Panama, the United States has the right to acquire by purchase, or by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, any buildings, lands, water rights, or other properties necessary and convenient for the construction, maintenance, operation, sanitation and protection of the canal. This government can therefore at any time acquire the lands within the zone boundaries which are now owned by private persons.
 The entire length of the canal from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific is about 50 miles. Its length from shore line to shore line is about 40 miles. In passing through it from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a vessel will enter the approach channel in Limon Bay, which will have a bottom width of 500 feet and extend to Gatun, a distance of about seven miles. At Gatun it will enter a series of locks and be lifted 85 feet to the level of Gatun lake. It may then pass at full speed through this lake, the channel varying from 1000 to 500 feet in width for a distance of about 24 miles to Bas Obispo where it will enter the Culebra cut. It will then pass out through the cut a distance of about nine miles. At Pedro Miguel it will enter a lock and be lowered 30 feet to a small lake, at an elevation of 41 feet sea level and will pass through this to Miraflores, a distance of one and one-half hours in the lock at Gatun, and about the same time in the locks on the Pacific side.

 The total excavation of the canal, wet and dry, as originally planned, was estimated at 103,795,000 cubic yards, in addition to what the French companies did. Changes in the plans of the canal made by the order of the president, increased the amount to 174,666,594 cubic yards. In 1910 more than 31,000,000 cubic yards were removed, the monthly average exceeding 2,000,000. The total for the three years that the United States has been digging aggregated nearly three-fifths of the total amount required to complete the canal.
 The canal force is recruited and housed by the U. S. A. quartermaster's department. There have been brought to the canal zone 43,432 laborers, of whom 11,797 came from Europe, and 19,448 from Barbadoes, and the balance from the other islands of the West Indies. About $12,000,000 worth of supplies are purchased annually, requiring the discharge of one steamer each day. The commissary department has 22 general stores in as many villages along the route of the canal. It is estimated that counting the employees and their dependents, 65,000 people are supplied daily with food, clothing and other necessities. A supply train of 21 cars leaves Cristobal every morning at four o'clock and distributes supplies to the stations along the line.
 A careful estimate has been made by the Canal Commission of the value to the commission at the present time of the franchise, equipment, material, work done, and property of various kinds for which the United States paid the French canal company $40,000,000. It places the total value at $42,799,826.
 There can be little doubt with the progress that has been made that the completion of the canal before 1915 is assured and that it will give to this country more glory than any other of its achievements has since the Revolutionary war.

Buried Herself Alive In Grave
 Vienna, August 12.—Some workmen at Grosse Warden, on the great central plains of Hungary, found the body of a girl lying in a newly-dug grave and as life was not extinct a doctor called and animation was restored.
 The girl then stated that she lived in a village some two hundred miles away, but had tramped the whole distance to see her soldier lover. When she got to the barracks, her sweetheart was ashamed of her because she was ragged and dust-stained and declined to speak to her. The broken-hearted girl attempted to tramp back home, but as she had no money and had eaten nothing for three days, she decided to commit suicide and bury herself alive.

Senator LaFollette Is After Political Scalp Of President

(By SIDNEY ESPY.)
 Washington, Aug. 12.—A series of recent developments in the senate plainly demonstrates that Senator Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, is after the political scalp of President Taft, and that Senator LaFollette will assuredly be a candidate for the republican presidential nomination.
 No other construction can be placed upon the activity with which the Wisconsin senator is pursuing the task of tariff revision. The insurgent leader of the senate is just as anxious today to get a tariff bill up to the president as is any democrat of either the senate or house, and in the event that the president vetoes the bill, there is a general feeling that LaFollette as well as the democratic party, will profit politically.
 Strange politics has been played in the senate during the past ten days. Even Senator Penrose, who seldom says anything to acquaint the country with the fact that the senate is not in control of the regulars, has admitted that the insurgents and the democrats have the upper hand, and the nominal leaders of the once powerful republican majority has virtually thrown up the sponge. Senator Penrose, a chairman of the senate finance committee, and heir to the mantle of leadership which fell from the shoulders of Nelson W. Aldrich, stood on the floor of the senate and made the admission that "the republicans no longer have a majority here."
 This admission is but incidental to the fact that the insurgent-democratic coalition in the senate jammed through the LaFollette substitute for the wool bill, and that the same group of insurgents and democrats have put through the Farmers' Free List bill, with amendments proposed by the insurgent wing.
 It is practically certain today that these bills will be agreed upon in conference, and that they will eventually reach the White House. The president is admittedly in an embarrassing position, and Senator LaFollette, believing that he knows the temper of the country, is biding his time and anticipating that the president will vote not only these, but all other tariff bills that may be sent to him.
 Once this is done, it will be a feather in the cap, not alone of LaFollette, but the democrats of the house and senate, and the insurgents and the democrats will go immediately to the country, making the tariff an issue cent difference in the rates of the LaFollette wool bill and the measure that originally passed the house, but both the senate insurgents and democrats of the lower body are anxious to get some sort of a wool bill up to the president, and it is not doubted that with this common end in view a compromise may be reached in conference.

 The democrats want to go to the country and say that a republican refused to stand for a revision of the tariff. Senator LaFollette, leading insurgent and political enemy of Mr. Taft, wants to be in a position to make exactly the same claims. So the insurgents are willing to combine with the democrats and vice versa.
 The neat political game of "putting the president in a hole" is now well under way, and Mr. Taft realizes it as well as anyone else that the president may well be concerned about the outlook goes without saying, despite the assurances of some standpat republicans that the voters will accept the president's excuse that he deemed it best to "await the report of the tariff board."

King and Queen Come to Canada
 London, Aug. 12.—The Duke and Duchess of Connaught will go abroad for a month, returning in September to pay a visit to the King and Queen at Balmoral.
 Their royal highnesses are already making preparations for their departure for Canada on October 6. Extensive outfits are being prepared for them and for Princess Patricia, who intends to avail herself of the facilities for tobogganing, ski-ing, curling and skating which are the chief pastimes of the winter season in Ottawa and Montreal.
 Her Royal Highness became expert at these games while visiting her sister in Sweden.
 The Duchess of Connaught is fond of golf, and has played a good deal in the early part of the season at Bangshot, where there is a short private course. As the daughter of the famous "Red Prince," the duchess was a bold and fearless rider, and she will probably be seen in the saddle frequently in the Dominion, as she is taking out several horses.
 Under the "regime" of a Royal Duke Government House, Ottawa will be a centre of magnificent hospitality such as obtained in the days when the Duchess of Argyll was hostess there.

Newly Founded Criminal Club

Rome, August 12.—The Neapolitan press is full of the doings of the newly founded criminal society (in contradiction to the local Camorra), the Neapolitan Black Hand. The founder is an emigrant criminal lately returned from New York, named Raffaele Nazarro.
 The society has formal statutes. It aims chiefly by deeds of blood and blackmail at coercing all local free-lance delinquents into its obedience. Its leading spirits, each commanding a patrol of followers, have been scouring the criminal haunts of the city at night, armed with revolvers and bludgeons, and dealing out severe chastisement to all who refuse to return to their salutes and recognize their jurisdiction.
 The "Mattino," the principal Naples newspaper, states today that these cases of outrage are to be counted by the hundred, that all trades people in certain populous quarters are terrified of their lives, through the impositions of the Black Hand gangs, and that within the last few days pitched battles, have been fought between rival criminal hordes, in which several casual spectators were shot dead or mortally injured.

Abdul Hamid Is Now Recovered

Constantinople, August 12.—Ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid has evidently completely recovered from his recent serious illness.
 In a letter addressed to his brother, the reigning Padiashah Mehmed V, he asked him to be so good as to send him a number of female slaves and a quantity of birds. Abdul was always exceedingly fond of birds, especially pigeons, and in his seclusion at Yildiz-Kiosk used to spend hours in their company.
 The kindly Mehmed readily complied with the wish of his banished brother, and a wagonful of women and birds have just been dispatched to Salonica.
 Geneva, Aug. 12.—The Begum of Bhupal, after spending a fortnight here has left Geneva for Bombay. She arrived with 82 boxes and departed with 243, which filled two large trucks.
 Each box was heavily laden with Swiss goods of all kinds, from silks and chocolates to wood-carvings and musical boxes. The Begum cleared out some jewellers' shops. She bought a large quantity of jewels, including 4,022 gold and silver watches. Such a customer has not visited Geneva since the time of Byron and the English milords of long ago.
