

S. S. Workers at Sugar Creek

Important And Helpful Gathering of Sunday School Workers at Old Sugar Creek Church Yesterday And Today.

Sunday school enthusiasts, specialists, teachers and the rank and file of members made up a large attendance for the second annual convention of the Mecklenburg County Sunday School Association.

After the generous picnic dinner, the song service of the opening exercises Mr. Collins presented the subject of "Adult Organized Classes" in the place of Supt. H. M. Wade, who was unavoidably detained.

Mr. Collins gives his entire time to Sunday school work and with the advantages of experience, talent, magnetism and training his influence has been most pleasant and inspirational among the Mecklenburgers.

When President Fonville had called the convention to order at 10:30 Saturday morning the devotional exercises were led by Mr. H. R. Berryhill.

Miss Julia Alexander, superintendent of the Elementary department, followed Rev. Lewis Collins' talk on "How to Secure a Township Organization with one of the treats of the convention, a clear concise, practical and specific but perfectly bright and interesting address on the details of Sunday school work with the child under ten years, from his enrollment in the cradle till he wins his diploma and Bible promotion to the "Bib Sunday School."

Hon. W. C. Dowd had next place on the program. His subject: "What to Do With the Big Boys and Girls." Sunday school experts acknowledge as difficult but Mr. Dowd's study of it evolved practical remedies for the usual exodus from Sunday School among adolescents.

Rev. J. G. Kennedy, superintendent of the Teachers' Training Department, presented definite plans for securing supplies and organizing a teachers' class in each school in the county.

LAST WEEK WAS A GREAT WEEK FOR FARMERS IN MECKLENBURG COUNTY

The week just closed has been a rather eventful one among the farmers of the county, and the tillers of the soil have had the right of way and have been in the spot-light almost all week.

It was conceded by all who heard him that Dr. H. Q. Alexander, president of the State Farmers' Union, made a notable address at Lake-wood Friday. It was an address calculated to make the farmers think and the close attention accorded him, as well as the frequent applause which interrupted him, was proof that he was striking a responsive chord in the minds of his hearers.

Among the ideas that stood out prominently in the address of Dr. Alexander and that were no doubt carried away as food for thought by many farmers present was that relating to alien ownership of land in our country, a fact which is not confined to Alaska, according to Dr. Alexander, but a fact all over the country, in the South and many parts of North Carolina.

"God made the farmer," he said, "but all other professions are man-made. Mother earth was made for man's home and things are badly perverted from their proper and natural condition when a few own the land that should be divided among the many and I appeal to you farmers to wake up before the United States and the South become like Ireland, a country with a few landlords and many tenants.

Such conditions, said the speaker, can not be remedied at once, but they should be remedied as soon as possible and he contended that the American farmer is to have a large part in applying the remedy.

The greatest step toward a realization of this condition of things, Dr. Alexander said, was such schools as that authorized by the last legislature, called "Farm Life Schools," provision by this act of the legislature being made for a small agricultural college in each county of the state.

The speaker was led to this remark by his argument against the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few.
