On this page appears Twenty-six Separate Bargains, every one worth reading, for it represents a chance to save money. This is a regular Sunday feature of THE NEWS and most of the ads will be changed weekly.

These ads alone make mighty interesting reading, but to make it still more attractive THE NEWS will print each week a silhouette of one of the advertisers.

Each advertiser is a well known business man or woman and you may be able to tell who it is at a glance, but to make it easier we print a write up of each advertiser.

LAST SUNDAY'S PICTURE

It was easy to identify C. R. Mayer in last Sunday's pagehe is perhaps as well known as and druggist in the city-three gentlemen got an extra hustle and called at his place of business on Tryon street, informed him of the fact that they were there to claim the reward. Others appeared while they waited too late-the three "early birds" were given the prizes just as you will be given if you are one of the first to recognize today's picture and tell the advertiser at his place of business first on Monday morning.

The name of the advertiser and those receiving the rewards will be published next Sunday.

(Copyrighted 1911, I. C. Chamberlyne.)

The Man You're Looking For

we publish today is not a clergyman, a justice or a matrimonial agent, he has helped many deserving young people to marry by supplying them things as necessary to their happy union, as a marriage license. It's a pretty good idea for any who contemplate matrimony him taking before important step. has a pleasant way of doing business which makes it unne cessary to take your purse when you go to his store. It will be worth more than the reward we give for you to get acquainted with this man.

The first adult who cuts out the advertisement of the man whose picture appears here and presents it at his place of business Monday morning will be given $1.00 in cash. The next two adults who bring the advertisement will receive 50 cents each. Employes of the man or concern are barred.
