IVEY'S

Social and Personal

By ADDIE WILLIAMS CALDWELL

"SWEET AND LOW."

Sweet and low, sweet and low, Wind of the Western sea; Low, low, breathe and blow, Wind of the Western sea.

Sleep and rest, sleep and rest, Father will come to thee soon; Rest, rest, rest on mother's breast, Father will come to thee soon.

Silver falls all out of the West, Under the silver moon, Sleep, my little one, sleep, my pretty one, sleep.

A DAILY THOUGHT.

That women are meant neither to be men's guides nor their playthings, but their comrades, their fellows and their equals, so far as nature puts no bar that equally, does not seem to have entered into the minds of those who have had the conduct of the education of girls.—Huxley.

TIMELY GOSSIP.

"Do you ever amuse yourself in your trips in the street car by reading the advertisements and comparing them with the person beneath?" suggested the girl in the car.

"This is not an original idea. I read it in the paper some time ago and have got through several entertaining minutes in consequence."

"I had a lucky morning about a week ago and came near disgracing myself, does it not look imbecile to see an person all alone, convulsed with laughter?"

"I was wild to call some one's attention to the humor of it and glanced several times at my companion in the seat, but she gave me such a forbidding look I glanced up there was 'Unaeda Biscuit.' That was not bad, was it? I sat on the aisle and she could not retaliate—there were no 'heavy hands' hanging over my head."

"The funniest of all—a peroxide blonde with a profusion of sweet peas on her hat sat right beneath 'Gather sweetpeas whilst they are fresh.'"

"Another—a man with a much-solled hat sat under the advertisement of a cleaning establishment.—'Now you try it.'—Baltimore Sun."

MISS LAW NOT TO TEACH Miss Lida Law, who was to have been of the faculty of music of the Presbyterian college, has decided not to teach this winter.

MRS. LAXTON RETURNS. Mrs. F. Laxton and little daughter, Corinna, have returned from Morganton, where they spent the summer with Mrs. Laxton's parents.

RETURNED LAST NIGHT. Mrs. Essie Blankenship and daughter, Miss Ruth Blankenship, who have been visiting in Rock Hill, returned home last night. The return of school days brought both home.

MRS. STEWART CAME TOO Mrs. Harris Wilcox and handsome young son, Harris, Jr., returned home last night. They came from Arden, where they have been spending about a month.

HOME TONIGHT Mrs. Stonewall Jackson and Mrs. E. R. Preston and baby daughter, Anna Jackson, will return tonight from Kanuga, where they finished their round of mountain sojournings.

MAYOR CRAIG TO BE VISITOR Mayor and Mrs. Thos. Craig of Gastonia, will be here this afternoon to spend Sunday with Mayor Craig's sisters, Mrs. E. W. Mellon, Mrs. T. M. Shelton, and Mrs. Archibald Brady, the latter of El Reno, Oklahoma, who has been spending the summer east.

MISS BALDWIN LEAVES Miss Minnie Mae Baldwin, of Atlanta, Ga., who has been the attractive guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Allison, on South Tryon street, returned home yesterday.

COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER The young ladies of the Groveton Presbyterian Sunday school gave the young gentlemen of the Sunday school and ice cream supper last night at the home of Mrs. John Kimbrell on North Graham street.

HOME ON VISIT. Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sloan and R. S. J., of Atlanta, arrived in the city last night from Linville, where they have been spending part of the summer.

HOWLAND-GURNEY MARRIAGE. A pretty house wedding occurred yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Rev. H. E. Gurney, No. 408 Park avenue, when Mr. Lynn Howland, of Derita, and Miss Marian Gurney, of Rochester, N. Y., were united in matrimony.

Dr. Shaw's Poem Title is "The Limit"

Rev. Dr. Shaw, of the Tenth Avenue Presbyterian church, has seen ears. He heard something while at Barium, well told in "Our Fatherless Ones."

"THE LIMIT." "After spending a few weeks at Edgemont, Dr. A. R. Shaw, pastor of the Tenth Avenue Presbyterian church, Charlotte, N. C., came to Barium Springs to spend a few days. Shortly after reaching Barium Lodge he overheard conversation near his door in which the following statement was made by a lady from Georgia:

"Well, two preachers here now, and a third one is coming. When he arrives I am going to leave." This playful remark was made for the benefit of one of the ladies present whose husband is the "third preacher."

Next morning Dr. Shaw composed a poem, the reading of which produced considerable merriment in the Lodge. The poem embodies the Georgia lady's sentiment, or point of view.

Dr. Shaw has yielded to a request to publish the poem in "Our Fatherless Ones." This original production goes to the reading public in support of his contention that poets are born, not made.

Some days ago I left my home In search of needed rest; I surely thought at Barium Lodge, There'll be nothing to molest.

So I packed my trunk and hurried off In eager expectation; After a long and dusty ride I've reached my destination.

Well, here I am; and is it strange That I should be dejected? Two preachers on the ground, I find; A third is soon expected!

The day he comes I'll either go And buy a first-class ticket; Or, if I find the train is slow, I'll make right off for the thicket.

If a corn is on your toe, you can trim it; If the cream is on the milk, you can skim it; If a river's in the way, you can swim it; But three preachers at a time, that's the limit!

"I thought you wanted a sweet heart?" "I did." "And now you are tired of him!" "That's all right; you prayed for a month for rain, and now you are tired of it, you didn't pray to have it all the time."—Houston Post.
