FOR SALE
Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—Inquiry among local baseball men fails to throw any light upon the ownership of the Atlanta baseball club, a dispatch from that city stating that Philadelphia capitalists are believed to be interested in their purchase of the Southern team's franchise.

Who Owns Atlanta Team's Franchise?

By Associated Press.
Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 21.—Inquiry among local baseball men fails to throw any light upon the ownership of the Atlanta baseball club, a dispatch from that city stating that Philadelphia capitalists are believed to be interested in their purchase of the Southern team's franchise.

Connie Mack, manager and one-fourth owner of the Philadelphia American League Club, denies he is a party to the reported deal. The other party owners of the local Americans also say they know nothing of the sale.

Horace Fogel, head of the Philadelphia Nationals, is in Chicago with the team but friends close to him say they do not believe the National League here is interested.

Sam Lederer, manager of the Olympic Theatre, where Miss Brown is playing, professed absolute ignorance of the reported engagement. "I know nothing about Miss Brown's affairs," said the manager, "and if I did I would not disclose them."

BLIND JUSTICE.

From the Jersey Journal.
A gang of ticket speculators in a New York Police Court were allowed to go after paying fines of $3 each, and the next case was that of a young blacksmith who was arrested for carrying live stock.

It was shown that his little girl was sick and had begged for a kitten to play with. The young man got three kittens and had them in a basket, carrying them home. He was sent to the work house for five days.

It is such things that bring the laws into disrepute. This blacksmith had committed no crime, he had injured nobody, yet he was sent to jail and his family was deprived of his presence and support. He was kept from his work and disgraced by imprisonment, while men who were engaged in a crooked business were allowed to go with a nominal fine.

Bryan Will Build New Home as the Result of a Bumper Crop.

Mission (Texas) Story in New York Press.

W. J. Bryan, who owns a farm of 200 acres in the valley of the lower Rio Grande, near Mission, made such a success this year raising Bermuda onions and other products that he has turned his handsome new country residence over for the use of his superintendent and the superintendent's family, and has plans prepared for a more magnificent new home for himself. He will build the house this fall at a cost of $25,000.

From Peace Institute.
Another session of this institution has opened with most gratifying prospects. Only two changes have been made in its faculty with two additions. Miss Demarest, an A. M. from Columbia University, is in charge of science and Miss West, an A. B., from Wellesley, comes to the English department. Miss Wilson, an A. B. graduate from Vassar, is an additional instructor; her work will be in the department of modern languages. Miss Booker, a graduate from the Winthrop College, becomes assistant to the lady principal, thus enabling the latter to take charge of the new department of domestic science.

Possibly there is a wider representation of states in the enrollment than has been in recent years, and the increase in local patronage is very satisfactory.
