The broken plate weighed 37 tons and had been hurled 225 yards. The Republique was so badly damaged that she will be out of commission for months while repairs are being made.
Twelve bodies were taken from the wreck this morning. The search above the water line is difficult owing to barriers of crumpled steel that oppose all advance into sections of the holds. Nothing was discovered leading to the belief that other living men were imprisoned in the wreckage although this remained a possibility.
The roll of the dead was increased by a half dozen deaths during the night.

CIGAR MAKERS WILL CONTINUE ON STRIKE

By Associated Press.
Tampa, Fla., Sept. 27.—The 1,200 striking cigar makers who walked out yesterday refused to confer with the manufacturers this afternoon and remained away from their benches. They have voted to continue the strike and have asked sanction of the National Cigar Makers' Union, headquarters of which are in Chicago. They have received no reply yet. A general strike in this district is not looked for because the men are not closely organized.
Tampa, Fla., Sept. 27.—The threatened extension of the strike of cigar makers, which was called yesterday, failed to materialize this morning. Instead it was announced that the manufacturers and representatives of men would meet probably today and settle their difficulties.
The trouble was precipitated by a notice posted by the employers that they would not be held responsible for cigars the men used outside the factories and on which the internal revenue had not been paid. The order was the result of a ruling by revenue agents that cigars used by the men should bear the tax stamp the same as those sold.
It is expected that all the 1,200 men will return to work pending negotiations.

Telling him he had better get out she walked down stairs and informed the other occupants of the house that the negro was there.
Apparently the negro was about as collected and the lady for it is said that he walked down stairs and out of the house before the men of the house could be summoned.
The police were then notified but on going to the residence could not find out which way the negro went. It is thought that he entered the house for robbery as some money was missed from one of the rooms although some jewels and a watch in the room in which he was discovered were not taken.

Want Little Blonde Stenographer Of "Frantic Financier"

Feature of Today in Case of Jared Flagg, Accused of Using Mails to Defraud, Was Hunt for Girl in the Case.
Officers Think She Knows Things Which the Grand Jury Should Know—They Think She Knew of His Methods.
By Associated Press.
New York, Sept. 27.—Hunt for a little blond stenographer became the feature event today in the case of Jared Flagg, "Frantic financier" and his friends, who are accused of using the mails to defraud.
The "Quarry" in the girl hunt is Madeline Russe, who is supposed to know things about Flagg's business that the grand jury wants to discover.
Since the raid of Flagg's offices last Saturday the postoffice inspectors have sought Miss Russe in vain, but today they had reference that she will surrender herself. Meanwhile the federal officials have been building up their case mainly through the examination of other young women employed by the broker and of customers who were frequent guests at the luncheons de luxe given by Flagg's firm every Saturday.
Through her sister Miss Russe has declared that she has intimate acquaintance with her employer's business methods. "Mr. Flagg" she said "Never closed a transaction without a handsome profit to the investor. His method was a simple one, known as the pettibone progressive system. This scheme is merely to place a substantial cash margin on a small lot of stock so as to cover any possible fluctuation. One is bound to win in this way if he is content to wait until it goes up. The only reason that the outside investor loses on margin deals is that he goes into the game with insufficient funds or else loses his courage."
The authorities have been baffled to a large extent in the preparation of their case by the unwillingness of Flagg's investors to give evidence against him.

DISPENSARY CASE CAUSES LAWYERS WAR

By Associated Press.
Columbia, S. C., Sept. 27.—The trial of the so-called state dispensary "graft" case, involving the purchase in 1905 of $35,000 worth of labels, was marked today by frequent passages between opposing attorneys as to the admission of documentary evidence. The principal witness for the prosecution this morning was State Senator Nellis Christensen of Beaufort, who was a member of the legislative committee appointed in 1905 to investigate the state dispensary and who with Attorney General Lyon, then a member of the house of representatives, constituted the sub-committee which dug up much of the evidence concerning the conduct of the state dispensary. Mr. Christensen today identified vouchers found at that time in the dispensary's records and also put in evidence certain of the labels themselves. As a member of the investigating committee he had obtained from other houses bids on similar labels, in order to ascertain whether the prices paid Nivison-Welskopf were extortionate. Much lower bids were obtained from concerns in Louisville, Columbia and Charleston.
The trial will last several days. The defendants now on trial are L. W. Boykin, of Camden, member of one of the most prominent families in the state, who was a member of the board of directors of the state dispensary; John Bell Towill, of Lexington, nephew of a former lieutenant governor and legislative member; W. O. Tatum, of Orangeburg, formerly dispensary commissioner and before that a member of the legislature.
The charge against Boykin, Towill and Tatum is conspiracy to defraud the state. The indictment against M. A. Goodman, a liquor salesman on the same charge, has been not pressed. The indictment against Dennis Welskopf, of Cincinnati, also for conspiracy to defraud the state, will likely be not pressed after he has testified in the present case. There is also an indictment standing against Welskopf charging perjury in his testimony when the investigating committee when he swore he had not paid rebates to any one connected with the state dispensary.

Miss Annie Crawford is a beneficiary of insurance policies on the life of her sister Elsie and is said to have been named as the beneficiary in policies on the lives of her mother, father and the sister who died last year.

Arkansas Mob Forces Way Into Jail And Takes a White Man Out and Lynched Him

By Associated Press.
Dumas, Ark., Sept. 27.—Forging their way into the Desha county jail here between fifty and one hundred men, members of a mob formed so quietly that the authorities had not the slightest warning, overpowered the deputies in charge and took Charles Malpass, Sr., white, to a water tank and hanged him early today.
The mob then dispersed without demonstration. None of its members is known to the authorities, according to their statement.
The lynching followed a pitched battle late yesterday at the home of Malpass, in which Sheriff W. D. Preston, of this county, Deputy Sheriff Barney Stiel and two mulatto sons of Malpass were killed and Malpass wounded. Malpass' injuries were at first believed to be mortal but when he was brought here and placed in jail his wounds were found not to be serious. The wife of Charles Malpass, Sr., a negro and Malpass' younger son, a mulatto, escaped from the house during the fighting. The authorities say they do not think the negro and the boy engaged in the battle yesterday and for this reason, it is not thought the two will be sought further in connection with the affair.
The sheriff's posse had gone to the Malpass house to arrest the two mulatto sons of Malpass. The authorities say the community lived in a state of almost constant terror because of the Malpass family against which prevailed intense feeling owing to the head of the family's being a white man. No further trouble is expected.
