

The City Bonds Executed Today

The City Bonds Purchased by the American Trust Co. Being Executed by City Officials Today.

The bonds of the city of Charlotte recently purchased by the American Trust Co. were received this morning from the lithographers in New York and are now being executed by Mayor Bland and Treasurer Wearn, of the city of Charlotte.

These bonds consist of 300 $1,000 bonds for the water works; 100 $1,000 for school purposes and 60 $1,000 for the Auditorium, making a total of 460 bonds of the denomination of $1,000 each.

It will be recalled that the American Trust Co. first purchased $300,000 of water bonds at a premium of $100.65, at a competitive sale, and their bid was the largest bid received by the city by about $6,000.

By tomorrow afternoon therefore, the city of Charlotte will have in their possession about $465,000 from the sale of these bonds, which money they will have for use of building new water works to the river, new school buildings and for the purchase of the Auditorium.

Board of Aldermen To Meet 10-night

The board of aldermen will meet tonight at 8 o'clock, the main object of the meeting being to consider an ordinance providing for the carrying out of the paving proposition according to the city charter.

The meeting of last Friday night was to have settled the matter, and Alderman E. L. Mason introduced an ordinance-resolution intended to cover all requirements, but as it did not cover the license feature, it was unsatisfactory to a part of the board and the ordinance committee retired with the city attorney to draw up an ordinance covering all the ground.

The committee had not returned when the board adjourned and hence the necessity of meeting tonight. Alderman to Be Elected.

Another matter of interest that is expected to come up tonight is the election of an alderman from Ward 3 to succeed Mr. F. O. Landis, who recently removed from that ward.

This matter also was scheduled for the last meeting. Mr. Landis himself being present to formally tender his resignation. At precipitate adjournment when only 11 members were in the room prevented consideration of the matter.

It is to be hoped for the good of the city that the board will proceed with its business and not adjourn because one side or the other who wants a certain man as alderman to succeed Mr. Landis, fear to have the election unless such and such a man is absent, or present.

The city's business is being detained by this kind of politics. Let the paving matter be settled so the permanent improvements can be started.

Farmers Are Storing Their Cotton

Farmers Union Locals of Morning Star, Sharon, Amity and Carmel Placed 158 Bales of Cotton in the Warehouse Today.

Representatives from the three Farmers' Unions of Carmel, Amity and Sharon, brought 53 bales of cotton to the city this morning, but not a bale of it was placed on the market. Instead it was driven through Independence Square into North Tryon street and on to the Farmers' Union warehouse out near the Swift Manufacturing Company's plant.

The star local of Morning Star township, however, went to the city 100 bales today, and all for the warehouse. The cotton from the star local had not reached the city at 2 o'clock, but phone message from Matthews stated that an imposing procession of wagons bearing 100 bales had already passed there on their way to the warehouse. All of it was for the warehouse and none for the market, it was stated.

These two demonstrations are evidence of the fact expressed determination of the farmers not to sell their cotton at the price now prevailing. They are heeding the call of cotton experts to farmers to store their cotton, with the assurance that the price will begin to rise before long.

It has not been a month since the Amity, Carmel and Sharon locals brought 100 bales to the warehouse here in one day, which together with that today makes 158 bales, representatives of the three unions have in the warehouse to stay until a higher price prevails.

The contribution of the Star local to the warehouse is unique in that the entire hundred bales comes from the one local union, indicating that there are a good many farmers in that section of the county who are able to hold their cotton.

All farmers who composed this not-ready-to-sell line-up are from the southern end of the county, and constitute a substantial and progressive citizenship.

The carmen saw him in time to stop the car and lifted him off the track, at the same time sending a call for the patrol wagon, which soon arrived. Honeycutt had a gun on his person and was brought to police headquarters and locked up.

Trial of Mrs. McRae Attracts Crowds

By Associated Press. Opelousas, La., Oct. 23.—The curious from all the countryside flocked to Opelousas today to attend the trial of Mrs. Zee Runge McRae, wealthy and socially prominent, for the killing of Allan Thurman Garland, the 24-year-old student who was shot down in her beautiful home here on Sept. 21.

Except for a brief declaration that she killed young Garland because he insulted her, Mrs. McRae has volunteered not the slightest information as to what precipitated the killing. Out of a mass of sensational street rumors, the true story of the tragedy will come out this week, for there is an apparent relentless determination to bring out everything at the trial regardless of the feelings of either family.

Mrs. McRae is the mother of three children, two sons, one 17 and one 12, and a 7-year-old daughter. Mrs. McRae slept well Sunday night, following a long consultation in the jail with her attorneys, and this morning she was up early. She greeted her children affectionately before she left the jail on the arm of her husband for the court room.

Against 26 state witnesses who were on hand this morning the defense submitted to the court a list of 53 who will be on hand to give testimony for the prisoner.

But 15 of the panel of thirty jurors were present, the others having been excused by the court before the trial opened.
