Trinity Will Give "Irwin Avery Prize"

Durham, N. C., November 15.— In addition to the already numerous prizes that are offered each year for various attainments by the students of Trinity college, the Fortnightly Club, the scholarship organization, has come out with another offer. This is a set of books that will be given each year to that student in an undergraduate class who writes the best original story in poetry or prose. The story must be of real literary merit and must appear in the college magazine. This decision. which has been under consideration for some time past, was reached at the last regular meeting of the Fortnightly Club. The prize this year will cost in the neighborhood of fifteen dollars, and will be known as the "Irwin Avery Prize." Mr. Avery was a student at Trinity college, and during his stay here made a name for himself as a man of literary attainments throughout the state of North Carolina, and it is but fitting that this prize should bear his name. Trinity May Have Annual.

For the past week members of the enior class have been engaged in meeting various classes and organizations of the college in the interest of getting out an "annual" at Trinity this year. For a number of years there have been many students here who have been in favor of getting out an annual, and several times an effort has been made to issue one, resulting each time in a failure. The present agitation began at a meeting of the senior class two or three weeks ago, and the members of that class have been trying to work up interest in the move. No organization has as yet been perfected for the issuing of the publication, but the various committees have been feeling the pulse of the students, and estimating the support that they can get in the matter. It has been estimated that in order to get out the annual, three hundred copies, meeting it is not a soft and lovely or thereabouts, must be subscribed, in realized from advertisements. There seems to be considerable sentiment in favor of the move, and the general opinion of the men who have the matter in charge is that the book can be gotten out. Thus far about 250 ctudents have signed for a copy
