The Charlotte News MOROCCAN MA

Berlin Nov18-With the setlement of the Franco-German negotiations concerning Morocco and the removal, so far as France and Germany are concerned of this potential menace of war, a violent campaign has been opened by wide sections of the press and political groups against the government for having, as it is charged, indulged in prolonged negotiations, upset the credit of the country and brought Europe to the verge of hostilities only to score a full flasco and reap the pettiest of profits for the abandonment of its rights in Morocco. "Jingo" papers, influential national liberal leaders and broad classes of patriotic Germans attack the government for closing the bargain without having obtained a slice of the Moroccan empire. Other parties and papers assail it for saddling itself with what is described as a vast area of pestridden and gold-engulfing Congo swamp and jungle, worth far less than the small cessions of German colonial territory in Togoland and the Kameroons which France receives in the settlement. The doctor's previous visits to the wildernesses of northern South America have convinced him of the existence of a strange tribe of Indians somewhere in the direction of the source of the Orinoco. The women of the tribe are said to live apart from their husbands in a secret city the greater part of the time.

> Henri Cheron, in a report on the Budget for 1912, which will shortly be presented to the chamber of deputies, calls attention to the growing burden of taxation in France, which, including State, departmental and communal charges, amounted in the year 1901 to over $26 per head of the population as compared to $22 in 1903. Since 1907 the increase, for which the figures are not yet communicated, is described as having been still more striking.
