

Mystery Of The Millionaire Milkman's Daughter Solved

Ramona Borden is in Charge of Her Father At Last After A Widespread Search Lasting For Three Days.

Father of The Girl Announces There Will Be No Legal Proceedings, As He Wishes The Matter to Be Closed.

Ramona Borden, 17 years old, taken from Washington by her father ten days ago and placed in a sanitarium at Pompton Lake, N. J.

Two women, one believed to have been Mrs. William H. White, wife of the "chewing gum king" of Cleveland, O., drove to the sanitarium in an automobile last Wednesday afternoon and met Ramona on the road.

The girl jumped into the machine, accompanied by her nurse who protested against the action, and the party drove to Newark, N. J.

At Newark the women gave the nurse the slip and the entire party disappeared.

Gail Borden, the girl's father, from his rooms in the Manhattan hotel, New York City, declared his belief that Mrs. White had a strange influence over the girl and told her he had taken his daughter away from the older woman through detectives who found them together in an apartment in Washington.

Borden called in a detective agency and the police of three cities and the search began.

Thursday night the missing girl was reported from the hotel at Taft, New Haven, Conn., where it was said she and Mrs. White and another woman had spent the night and left for Boston.

Detectives traced the women to Boston but could not find them until today, when Borden was sent for.

The girl was found ill and on the verge of a nervous breakdown in a private house in the Back Bay section. Mrs. White had left the city. Her father took her in charge.

Boston, April 26.—Ramona Borden, the 17-year-old daughter of the millionaire milk dealer, Gail Borden, was in her father's care tonight after her sensational escape and a widespread search of three days.

The slender young girl was said to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown when she was rescued by detectives in a Back Bay residence in company with Violet and Gladys Spence, nieces of Mrs. William H. White, with whom, it is believed, she had run away from the sanitarium at Pompton Lake, N. J., last Wednesday afternoon.

Borden announced tonight that there would be no legal proceedings and that she wished the incident to be considered closed.

Mrs. White and her nieces could not be found and it was believed they had left the city.

The girl was too ill to be taken from the city and will remain here Monday with her father in the home of some friends in the Back Bay.

She was reported to have welcomed her father warmly and expressed herself as being very contented and happy and that she had brought on the family by her flight from the sanitarium last Wednesday.

Borden arrived in this city early this morning after being notified by private detectives who had tracked the girl there, they had located her in a place where she was met at her hotel by detectives but when they tried to take the girl she had given them the slip again and it was not until late afternoon that the truth was picked up and the girl was to cover.

Borden was on the point of offering a large reward for her return and threatening to bring criminal action against the women with whom the girl ran away when she was suddenly located. He immediately announced that all prosecution would be dropped.

L. W. W. Strike Leaders Arrested at Patterson

Patterson, N. J., April 26.—Cheered by thousands of their followers, three L. W. W. leaders of the great silk mill strike were arrested here today and taken to jail under indictments charging inciting to riot and "preaching anarchy."

They were Elizabeth Curley Flynn, Carlos Treves and Patrick Quinn. Although Leslie, the local leader of the workers' union, had been arrested and released on bail Friday.

A warrant was waiting to be served on William D. Hayward, the L. W. W. leader, who had been commuting between New York and Patterson, N. J., and was to be taken to jail to make a speech tomorrow and submit to arrest.

Hayward urged the other leaders to continue to counsel the strikers against violence.

Miss Flynn and Treves were released on bail but it was impossible to get enough bail until Monday to meet the demand in the case of Quinn, who was held in $7,000.

Smith Faces Charge In Alabama

Special to The News. Raleigh, April 26.—President Ector H. S. Smith, of the States Trust Company, wanted for fraudulent bank schemes, is not to be extradited to this state.

The governor of Alabama has reconsidered honoring the requisition since it developed that Smith is wanted in Jefferson county, Alabama, on the charge of embezzlement.

Governor Craig has granted a pardon for Wiley House, of Wilson county, who has served eight years of a twelve year sentence for manslaughter. The plea for pardon was based on the belief that he has undergone sufficient punishment already.

Governor Craig has added to his office force Clarence McKain, a stenographer from Lenoir who will assist Miss M. Jones in stenographic and clerical duties of the executive office.

MRS. WILSON SENDS FLOWERS TO DYING CHILD

Washington, April 26.—There is a baby girl dying of tuberculosis in southeast Washington tonight. She is seven years old. She does not know that she is dying, neither does her mother, the only parent left.

The father died more than two years ago. He left a mother and daughter strong and vigorous. But there was no insurance. And the mother and the baby girl lived as best they could on the earnings of the woman.

They got along well for a time. Three months ago, however, the baby took sick. The doctors said she had rheumatism. But the applications suggested gave no relief.

Then one day recently Dr. Cary Grayson, naval surgeon on the Mayflower and personal physician of President Wilson, was called into consultation. He diagnosed the malady as tuberculosis.

The original physicians said no. They knew better. But the case progressed and when Dr. Friedmann came here the other day with his "cure" Dr. Grayson asked that the baby be treated. The German savant said no. He stated that he did not guarantee a "cure for death."

Then Dr. Grayson appealed to Mrs. Wilson, wife of the president of the United States. He told her the story. He asked her whether she would go and see this child. She did. She has been there several times since. Today, with the president or a brief vacation, Mrs. Wilson took the great white house automobile and went over to the house where the baby is ill. She took with her a big bunch of red roses.

DUNBAR TANGLE NOW BELIEVED TO BE SOLVED

Opelousas, La., April 26.—The mystery of the identity of the child found at Columbia, Miss., by Robert C. Dunbar, wealthy planter here and which he and Mrs. Dunbar claim as their son, who was kidnapped eight months ago, finally cleared late this afternoon when telegram from O'Bardman, S. C., signed by Julia Anderson, who had previously claimed the boy, stated the kid was not hers.

The boy taken from J. P. Walters is not mine," she wired. "He had none of the scars mentioned in the description sent here. I guess Walters disposed of my boy, sold it, or gave it away."

Mr. Dunbar immediately made his will in which he named the little fellow, whom the parents, relatives and the whole town say is Robert, Jr., as equal heir to the estate. The other half—aside from the mother's portion—is to go to Alonzo, 6-year-old brother of the stolen and recently recovered law.

"He's the lost boy," declared Dr. F. C. Shute, the family physician. "I know him among a thousand. I have treated him since he was two days old."

When all this came to pass the fire bells of this little town were rung and the population assembled at the Dunbar home. Only one person was absent and that was the man ringing the bell.

It is believed he will be charged with the kidnapping of six different boys. Mrs. E. G. Flair, of New Orleans, is among his accusers. She says he took her son and kept him a prisoner on a flat boat three months.

Walters objection in kidnapping the boys is not known. He is not a degenerate, but abuses the lads by whipping them with a strap.

"I hate brats," was his frank admission in jail at Columbia.

Governor Brewer, of Mississippi, will not grant extradition writs until the excitement at Opelousas blows over, as Walters is certain to be lynched if brought here.

"No Vote No Taxes," Is Duchess's Defi.

(Duchess Adeline of Bedford.)

London, April 26.—"No taxation without representation," is the ultimatum issued by Duchess Adeline of Bedford, one of the most prominent society women in England and an ardent suffragette, to the British government.

The Duchess declares she will not pay a shilling of taxes to the British Empire on her vast estate to the British Empire until she has been given the right to vote.

"SUFFRAGE NEARS FLOOD TIDE OF VICTORY"

Washington, April 26.—Viewing with something akin to exultation the fact that the greatest national equal suffrage leaders today for the first time pleaded their cause before a friendly committee of the senate, Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, tonight declared that the cause is nearing the flood tide of victory.

"The event of today signalled the presence in the United States senate of eighteen members from states where women exercise the right to suffrage. It marks the turning point, beyond which a powerful group in the upper branch of congress is constantly exerting its influence toward the general enfranchisement of American women. The fight is on in congress until we shall have won."

"The women who addressed the committee today," said the cause could not have received more dignity and consideration. For once a majority committee, by its very organization, proving the present importance of the issue, heard and agreed with our speakers. We are confident of the future."

The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. William Kent, wife of the California representative; Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette, wife of the Wisconsin senator; Mrs. Helen Varrick Boswell, Mrs. Helen Gardner, Senator Shafroth of Colorado, Representative Bryan of Washington, and Gifford Pinchot, were among the speakers at today's hearing. A written argument was submitted by Mrs. Rosamond Sutherland, wife of the senator from Utah.

The closing address by Dr. Shaw, in which she discussed the educational qualifications of men and women, and in which she pointed out the antagonism to equal suffrage maintained by "all groups and forces undermining and corrupting the character of our young people," fairly swept the committee and audience of suffragists into enthusiasm.

Pope Is Safely Convalescent

Rome, April 26.—Pope Pius X, tonight was considered safely convalescent and Professor Marchisavi, on his last visit for the day, promised the pontiff that if nothing unforeseen occurred, he might sit up longer tomorrow than on any day since his last relapse.

But the holy father was disappointed nevertheless. He wanted to receive American pilgrims and other consoling year visitors in audience tomorrow, and this his physicians positively forbade. They told the Pope that if he refused to take an absolute rest he might never hold another audience.

Angelo Sarto, the aged brother of the Pope, departed this morning for Mantura, near Venice, where he is a rural mail carrier.

Congressmen Have Narrow Escape

Washington, April 26.—Members of the senate and house naval committees, back from a visit to the target grounds of the Atlantic fleet, in lower Chesapeake Bay, were congratulating themselves tonight on a narrow escape from being blown to smithereens by the monitor Tallahassee while Dolphin. The big coast defence ship at a vessel near the Dolphin, mistaking her for the ram Katahdin, the target.

"It was an excusable mistake," said Representative Witherspoon, of Mississippi, one of the naval committee members. "It was made by gunners confusing a white spot on the smokestack of the Hercules, which stood directly in front of the Dolphin, for a white spot on the target."

"The missile sounded like an explosion when it whizzed over the Dolphin. It evidently went between some ropes and our smokestack and sunk in the water only fifty yards away. Windows on the Hercules were smashed by the air concussion and an officer on the Dolphin felt the hot air caused by the vacuum of the shell's passage."

The navy department has wired for an official report on the matter.

J. B. IVEY CO. TO HAVE MAGNIFICENT STORE

The lease signed yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the J. B. Ivey Co., for the handsome new building to be erected by Mr. D. P. Hutchison on North Tryon immediately north of the Realty Building is the most important event in the mercantile life of the city that has transpired in years.

It almost marks an epoch in the business center of the city, as it means not only the addition of a large and elegant new building on the Square, but enlarged mercantile business, the building which Mr. Hutchison will erect making it possible for Ivey & Co to enlarge their business and carry it on on a most extensive scale.

The lease covers a period of ten years. Since Mr. Hutchison first announced his intention of replacing the small buildings on his lot between the Realty Building and Kress—the latter building also owned by Mr. Hutchison—a number have desired to rent it, several from a distance having desired to rent it, but the Ivey Co. were fortunate enough to secure the prize, and the building to be erected will be built to suit its first tenant.

The plans will be drawn by Mr. Louis Asbury, who will be architect in charge of the entire construction. The plans call for a building three stories and basement, the latter to be up-to-date in every respect. The building will be 55 feet wide and 160 feet and it is to be completed by August 1914.

Mr. Hutchison will spare no expense to make the building one of the handsomest in this section. The front will be very ornate, and will have one of the new receding fronts with court allowing space for ten show windows. It will be the building south of Richmond with this style of front, and there being only one in Richmond, Mr. David Owens, of the Ivey firm, and Mr. Louis Asbury the architect recently took a trip North to look at the large store buildings and get points for the new Hutchison building that is to be the J. B. Ivey Co's home.

They decided on the receding court, beautiful designs of which are to be seen in New York. Several features for the interior were decided on by Mr. Ivey while in Los Angeles, he seeing there several new and very elegant stores recently erected, the stores of the great metropolises of the West being no exception.

The interior plans are in charge of several architects working under the direction of Mr. Asbury. Among the many features will be a rest room and library for the women clerks, a ladies' parlor on the mezzanine floor, stairway leading thereto. There will also be a dining room where lunch will be served at cost to the clerks; sanitary drinking fountains and every feature of a big city department store of the most up-to-date plans.

The building will allow 35,840 square feet of floor space—$860 on each floor—making the largest retail selling floor space in the state or several states.

The Ivey Co. consists of Mr. J. B. Ivey, Mr. David Owens and Mrs. Murray Long. The firm has but recently increased its capital stock.

Los Angeles, Calif., April 26.—Chief of police Sebastian, notified the assistant district attorney handling the grand jury investigation of the alleged millionaire white slave ring today that when the grand jury meets again Monday other prominent men than George H. Bixby will be summoned as witnesses.

Bixby, a millionaire banker of Long Beach, who is wanted in connection with allegations of certain young women, is still in hiding, but his attorney has promised that he will appear Monday if he will not be arrested on the bench warrant that was issued for him. The lawyer insists that Bixby, in common with others has been victimized for some time of a blackmail ring of young girls.

Removal of the tax on raw wool in this bill," he said, "will enable finer foreign wool to come in, give a selection to the manufacturer for the increased output of clothing, with cheaper clothes for the country, and give more employment to labor."

"We're not here to destroy the sheep industry. And we're not here to build it up. What peculiar right has the sheep 'baron' to a tax upon the people? Compared with production of other great agricultural products wool growing is one of the least important in the country."

"No tariff baron dictated what should go in this bill," Representative Hefflin, democrat, of Alabama, declared.

"The small remnants of progressive secret tariff caucus. They held their open. Why not? They have nothing left to caucus about. The republicans have nothing to discuss except to plead guilty to deceiving the people."

"The people will judge what we do and not what we say when we set out to do it."

Hefflin said the progressives and republicans moved alike "when they heard the pop of the whip of the tariff baron."

"Here they sit in this house," he said, "hand in hand together, obeying the will of the tariff barons, one recommending tariff revision by a 'board' and the other by a 'commission.' That's a wide gulf between them. No tariff board will ever have the right in this country to levy taxes on the people, usurping the functions of congress."

McReynolds is Opposed To Undue Delay

Washington, April 26.—Attorney General McReynolds today told the supreme court that an extension of time to July 1st for dissolving the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger might be greatly to the public interest, but he "emphatically" opposed an extension beyond that date, or the granting of discretionary power to the lower courts to extend the time.

The attorney general's position was stated in a brief in reply to the request of the Union Pacific attorneys for modification of the mandate, so as to authorize the lower court to extend the time for submission of a plan of dissolution.

"This case has been before courts for more than five years and the public is entitled to early relief in harmony with the provision of the statute which declares that such cases shall be given precedent over other cases in every way expedited," the brief states.

Tariff Measure Runs Gauntlet Of Open Debate In House

Yegman Paroled by Blease Takes "French Leave"

Columbia, S. C., April 26.—James Johnson, a notorious yegman known as "Portland Ned" who was serving a ten year sentence in the state penitentiary for cracking the safe of a manufacturing company in Spartanburg in 1902 and stealing $10,000 in stamps was yesterday paroled by Governor Blease, and today calmly walked out of the governor's office and escaped while in an adjoining office and not ten feet away, a government officer was waiting with a warrant for the yegman's arrest for robbing a post office at Plymouth, N. C., June 18, 1898.

The governor and another person who were in the room with the yegman went into another room for a moment and while they were gone "Portland Ned" opened a door leading into the corridor of the state house and got away.

He served seven years in the Federal prison in Atlanta for robbing the Enoree postoffice.

Friends Defend And Forsail New Measure In The Most Extended Debate It Has Thus Far Evoked.

"No Tariff Baron Dictated What Should Go on in This Bill" Emphatically Declares Representative Hefflin.

Washington, April 26.—Heavy artillery of the democrats, republicans and progressives, was trained on the Wilson-Underwood tariff in assault and defense in the most extended open debate the measure has been given since its consideration was begun last Wednesday. The discussion will be chopped off short Monday, when "general debate" closes and the bill is taken up paragraph by paragraph. The debate continued until a late hour tonight.

That the government's taxing power has been freely bartered by the republicans to the "special interests" of the protective tariff was charged by Representative Collier, Mississippi democrat, a member of the ways and means committee.

"This open barter has stifled industry," said Collier. "We promise to divorce the partnership of the government on one hand and a few tariff-swollen favorites on the other."

"The beneficiaries of this protective tariff system were indignant before use in the committee room. They were accompanied by skilled lobbyists. But the consumer upon whom the burden of these taxes fell was not there; he was not represented except by the democrats of the committee in their handling of this bill. All the friends of protection were there; those who use to write in the tariff law the provisions to suit themselves."

"A tax on wool does not compensate the farmer for the millions of taxes wrung from his hands by high tariff on his necessities," Collier asserted. He centered his attack upon the wool schedule of the Payne-Aldrich act.

"Removal of the tax on raw wool in this bill," he said, "will enable finer foreign wool to come in, give a selection to the manufacturer for the increased output of clothing, with cheaper clothes for the country, and give more employment to labor."

"We're not here to destroy the sheep industry. And we're not here to build it up. What peculiar right has the sheep 'baron' to a tax upon the people? Compared with production of other great agricultural products wool growing is one of the least important in the country."
