Littlejohn Speaks

President Asks For Student Aid

By David Littlejohn

The Charlotte Center of the University of North Carolina is now in its second year of existence. With the addition of a sophomore class to supplement last year's freshman curriculum (?), it is hoped that during this year the Center's achievements in education and student development may equal or, perhaps, surpass the fine record established in its first year.

The success with which our school will function depends largely on its student body, or, speaking more personally, on you, the individual student. At the steering wheel of our student body vehicle is the Student Government, consisting of student body officiers, sophomore class officers, freshman class officers, and representatives to the Student Assembly, all elected by you. The functions of these combined school officers, comprising the Student Government, is to serve the student body in any possible way, to form certain committees vital to the operation of the student government, and to formulate, with the students' approval, school policies.

The value of the privilege of self-government should not be underestimated. It is this freedom of participation for each and every student which contributes so greatly to his preparation for life and for the obligations in government which he must inevitably meet in later years. Self-government offers the student the opportunity to originate ideas and possibly to see these ideas put into practice; to make independent decisions which will affect not only his own welfare but the welfare of others. It is true, of course, that when students undertake to manage their own affairs and to solve by themselves the problems which confront them, certain mistakes may be made. However, it is evident that the inestimable value of student self-determination much more than compensates for any infinitesimal lack of efficiency which may be present. The vital part played by self-government is the difference in youth and manhood, the bridge crossing the gap between the natural dependence of the child and the assertive independence of the mature man.

In certain instances members of the College Center faculty will work with the various student government officers and committee members, and the Student-Faculty phase of our school government will be of much importance during the year.

Remember, (all of you) students, that this is your school, and your student government. Your full participation in and whole-hearted support of the Student Government throughout the year will assure the success of our College Center.

Queens Party

Twenty-five or more College Center students have been invited to be the guests of the Queens College students at a party to be given Saturday, November 15, beginning at 7:30.

The party will consist of a stunt program in the auditorium with refreshments and dancing afterwards.

It is still not too late to make reservations in the College Center office for this occasion.

Those persons who wish to attend this social event will please make their reservations in the C. C. office today.

Student Council Officers Elected

David Littlejohn, George Stockbridge, Jonsie Pyron, and Dave Foreman were elected president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, in the student government election last week as announced by Miss Bonnie C. Cone, director of the Charlotte College Center.

David Littlejohn, the new president, will take over the duties of the former president, Ralph "Red" Williams. However, this year a bigger job will be in store for the new chief because of the addition of both sophomore and freshman classes. David who is a sophomore, has held many offices and is a member of the C. C. U. N. C. Glee Club. He is also a first string defense man for Footsie Woods' Owls. The other nominee for president was Neal Forney.

George Stockbridge is the new vice-president who will be in charge of all programs for the College Center. He is a freshman. Those defeated for vice-president were Ed Charles, and Harvey Ritch.

Jonsie Pyron, only female officer, will hold down her job with a pen. She is the newly elected secretary of the student government. Tacky Smith was the other student on the ticket for secretary.

Dave Foreman, who was elected treasurer, is right along with Littlejohn in office holding. He is a very well known student, and he held several offices last year at the College Center. He is also captain of the "Owl Eleven"'. Runners-up for treasurer were Bruce Moody, Charles Wiley, and Bill Schliestitt.

COMMUNITY CHEST

This year, the first year that the Charlotte College Center has contributed as a group to any charity, was begun by the contribution of $85.81 to the Community Chest.

This contribution was the combined contributions of both the students and the faculty.

As a group, a good beginning has been made this first year, however, our goal for another year is higher.

Hope School Board May Operate Center

The hope that when the time comes that the University of North Carolina will no longer operate the Charlotte University Center, the city school board will be able to take over was expressed Wednesday night by Murrey Atkins, chairman of the board, and Dr. E. H. Garinger, associate superintendent of the city schools.

They were speakers at a meeting of the center's faculty and its advisory committee held at Kuester's. Mr. Atkins explained that many Charlotte persons will continue to be interested in the advantages offered by the center and spoke of its value for persons who would like to take terminal and functional courses there as well as for those who would like to take first and second-year college courses.

Dr. Garinger said that no division of education is growing more throughout the country than that of junior colleges and said he hopes the center will be continued through the years to fill the needs of the people of Charlotte.

C. E. McIntosh of Chapel Hill, assistant director of college centers for the university's extension division, told of the excellent faculties of the centers and said many of the teachers have master's and doctor's degrees. A check of the grades made in the centers with those made on the university campus shows that the students at the centers are doing work that is right up with that done on the campus.

Miss Bonnie E. Cone, director of the center, presided. It was announced that the Charlotte center has more than 300 students and there are many applications for enrollment. Last Wednesday's dinner was attended by 50 persons.

VOTING HIGHLIGHTS ACTIVITIES

C. C.'s second election was well under way when the paper went to press. Freshman officers were elected in 5 o'clock English classes, and Sophomore officers were elected by casting ballots outside the Library all day Thursday. Run-overs were held the same way on Friday.

The group who nominate and okay students for office holding positions were elected at the beginning of the year by all English classes. However, the names of the nominatory committee have not yet been released to the paper.

On the freshman ballot for president were: Buddy Harris, Frank Murphy, and Conrad Phillips; those for vice-president were Johnny Jones, Ralph Mulford, and Harvey Ritch; those for secretary were Tom Alexander, Tom Calhoun, and Doug Phipps; those for treasurer were Ralph Adkins, Buck Johnson, and Leon Kendrick; and those for student government representatives were Bennie Alexander, Phil Burkhalder, Bob Cook, Ed Mann, Fairfax Montague, and Lawrence Wilson.

On the sophomore ballot for president were: Richard Gordon, Harold Hailey, Marcus Henderson, and Neal Forney; those for vice-president were Lloyd Overcash, Betty Smith, Bill Williamson; those for secretary were Kathleen Ferguson, Emma Lou Presley, and Ann Sawyer; those for treasurer were Bruce Moody, Herman Noble, and Roy Perry; those for student government were Parks Berryhill, Arnold Bivins, Horace Harkey, Bill Hinkle, and Jack Rymer. The officers of both classes will be announced in the next issue of the "C. C. U. N. C. NEWS".

Glee Club

Under the direction of Mr. John Holiday, the Charlotte College Center has formed a glee club. Mr. Holliday would like a few more turnouts; moreover there are no girl turnouts as yet.

Members of the Glee Club are: Parks Berryhill, Richard Boward, Tommy Calhoun, Douglas Helms, David Littlejohn, Ike McLaughlin, Frank Newton, Bill Nisbet, Lloyd Overcash, Conrad Phillips, Henry Sigmon, Jack Stewart, Nita Whitby, and Robert Wylie.

Dramatics

It is not too late to join the dramatic workshop group. All phases of the thea re arts are considered—from radio to the stage, from makeup, speech and acting to scenery and lighting.

Whether you want to become another Helen Hayes or remain just Mary Smith, you can benefit by attending the dramatic workshop in Room 317 every Monday night from eight to ten o'clock.

Both these organizations, the glee club and the dramatic club can help to improve and add to the programs for C. C.'s coming year. Your support is needed.
