Welcome Freshmen

(Editor's note: The writer is chairman of the Freshman Advisory Council. The purpose of this council is to aid freshmen and transfers in their transition from high school, etc., to the UNC-C way of life.)

Dear Freshmen:

On behalf of the Freshman Advisory Council and the student body, I take great pleasure in welcoming you to the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The members of the Freshman Advisory Council and myself hope to make your transition from high school to college as smooth and easy as possible.

This year during orientation we have planned some new and, we hope, interesting events for your participation. First, today we have planned a picnic and dance. During the picnic Miss Barbara Harding from WIST radio station will be the commentator for a fashion show sponsored by Milton's Clothing Cupboard here in Charlotte. At this event you will see the latest in fall campus fashions. Later, at the "Boom Boom Room," you will be entertained by Chester Mayfield and The Casuals. Refreshments will be served and at intermission some nice door prizes will be given away.

Wednesday morning will bring more of the orientation program. First you will be assembled to witness some skits depicting college life. Next, you will learn the meanings of the Honor Code and the Judicial Code. Gus Psomodakis, president of the student body of UNC-C, will speak to you on the organization of student government and the constitution.

After the assembly, each of you will be put in groups of 12 to 15 students for discussions of the skits and the topic "What should I know as a freshman?" These discussion groups will be led by an FAC advisor. Do not fail to ask your FAC advisor questions on things which are not clear to you. The FAC members and myself will be more than glad to assist you with any problem which may confront you during the coming year. Also, during registration the FAC will be at your service again to help you with registering for classes. Please call on us for any help you may need.

I earnestly hope that each of you will have a most enjoyable and fruitful year.

V-P Burgess Plans To 'Outlaw Apathy'

By RICK DANCY

Jim Burgess, vice-president of the student body, has reported for the fall semester with a long list of plans which he hopes to put into action during his nine-month term.

Burgess, a successful candidate on the Student Party ticket last spring, sees no increase or decrease in the work load of the student body vice-president as a result of changes made last year in the student body constitution.

These changes shift many of the duties formerly assigned to the president to the vice-president's schedule. They were intended to free the president from his customary overload and add prominence to the position of vice-president.

Burgess plans to use his position as speaker of the legislature to "insure that the legislature will become meaningful instead of a coffee hour."

Also on tap for legislative scrutiny will be the judicial branch. Burgess hopes that a means will be found to "bring added prominence and responsibility to the student court."

The vice-president also hopes that certain flaws in the student honor code can be worked out.

It is Burgess' personal belief that the clause stating that the student "has the responsibility, but not the mandatory obligation

New Profs Added To Roster

Twenty-seven new faculty members have been added this year to the already outstanding list of academic leaders at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

To the Biology Department come Edward S. Menhinick, Assistant Professor of Biology, Ph. D. University of Georgia, and Marilyn Hatch, Instructor, M. A. Indiana University.

Two assistant professors in chemistry, Henry M. Smith, Ph. D. U. C. and James C. Crosthwait, Ph. D. Duke University, will begin the fall term.

In the Physics Department Drs. James M. Tanner and Robert Vermillion have been added. Dr. Tanner received his degree at Georgia Institute of Technology and Dr. Vermillion got his at Vanderbilt University.

The Nursing Department has widened its faculty to include Elinor Caddell, who received her M. S. Degree at Duke University and will be Assistant Professor of Nursing.

Six new teachers will be located in the History and Political Science Departments. They are: Saul Brenner, Ph. D. candidate at the University of New York; Angelo T. Randazzo, M. A. Rutgers College; and Henry J. Wise, M. A. Emory University—all instructors in political science—and Michael W. Brantley, M. A. University of Alabama; Edward S. Perzell, M. A. University of Cincinnati; and Lowell T. Young, M. A. UNC-G, who will be history instructors.

The Foreign Language Departments will receive two more members. They are David H. Littlejohn, Assistant Professor of Spanish and a Ph. D. candidate at UNC; as well as Ester Wruck, Instructor in German, A. M. University of Rochester.

Edwin S. Godsey, Associate Professor of English, Ph. D. Yale University; Margery H. Watson, Instructor, M. A. NYU; Patricia Stewart, Instructor, M. A. UNC, will join the English Department.

Joining the faculty as Assistant Professors of Mechanical Engineering are Rhyn H. Kim, Ph. D. candidate at Michigan State University; and Walter E. Norem, Ph. D., University of Tennessee.

A Ph. D. candidate at the University of Illinois, Harvey F. Murphy, will be Assistant Professor of Health and Physical Education.

Joseph F. Boykin, Jr. comes with his M. S. degree from Florida State University as Instructor of Acquisitions for the Library.

Associate Professor of Education, Dr. John F. O'Neil, will also conduct classes this year. He has his Ph. D. from Cornell University.

The Geography Department adds instructor James W. Clay, now a Ph. D. candidate at UNC.

Three new faculty members who will be teaching mathematics are Edwina R. Beam, Instructor, B. A. USC; David D. Teague, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Ph. D. UNC at Raleigh; and David G. Herr, Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Ph. D. candidate at UNC.

Dr. Bonnie Will Welcome 1800 Students

... New Title

New Title: Acting Chancellor

On hand to greet the expected 1800 students enrolled for the fall semester of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte will be a familiar personality with a new title.

Dr. Bonnie Cone, former president of Charlotte College, has been named acting Chancellor of this branch of the Consolidated University. Dr. William Friday, president of the Consolidated University, made the interim appointment pending the selection of a permanent chancellor from a long list of prominent educational administrators.

Although Dr. Cone is new to the title she is hardly new to the duties and responsibilities accompanying the position. The perseverance and diplomacy displayed by Dr. Cone during her struggle to bring a branch of the Consolidated University of North Carolina to Charlotte gained her nationwide fame through a story in Time magazine.

The 1965 fall session enrollment of around 1800 students marks a 17 per cent increase from the 1500 students enrolled for the fall semester last year.

Director of admissions Robert Grogan expects little or no trouble in accommodating the additional students. According to him, if it was necessary, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte could handle as many as two thousand.

Help Wanted

Students, you now have a chance to serve your school in a most notable capacity. The Journal needs people—people to write stories, people to write headlines, people to do layout, people to sell ads, ad infinitum.

The Journal plans to come out every two weeks first semester and every week second semester. To do this we will need more people than we presently have.

It does not matter whether you have had experience in newspaper work. If you have any kind of inclination toward this field, we have a place for you.

See Ken Sanford in the Administration Building for information.

UNC-C Checks Available To Students

Students attending the University of North Carolina at Charlotte are to be offered a unique new checking account program from the Charlotte office of the First-Citizens Bank and Trust Company this fall.

To those college students, members of the faculty or others connected with one of the twenty schools located in communities served by the statewide banking firm who wish to use the special checking account service, they will be given free personalized checks bearing their college's official emblem or name. Each packet of checks also has a vinyl checkbook cover in the college's two basic colors and the seal or college name imprinted prominently on the outside cover.

With the college (UNC-C) name on every check as well as the student's name and college address the student is offered the advantages of safety as well as identification when cashing checks. A straight minimum charge per check used instead of a service charge on the total number of checks cashed or average balance on hand is an added feature for students.

According to First-Citizens officials other schools included in this program are Asheville-Biltmore College, Gaston College, Brevard College, Lenoir Rhyne College, Johnson C. Smith University, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Greensboro College, North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College, Fayetteville State Teachers College, Methodist College, Campbell College, Meredith College, Peace College, St. Augustine's College, Shaw University, North Carolina State University, Wilmington College, Atlantic Christian College and Louisburg College.
