Britton Wins Student Body Presidency

Stokely Is New VP; Jones Wins Union Job

Tim Britton was elected president of the student body and Bud Stokely vice-president in elections held April 6 and 7. Britton was backed by the Student Party while Stokely was the choice of the University Party.

In a comparatively large turnout at the polls, Britton defeated Wayne Furr who ran as an independent, by a count of 370 to 159. Bud Stokely scored a victory over his Student Party opponent, Sam Scott, 331 to 199.

The race for secretary of the student body was won by the independent Martha Caton. Her victory margin over Student Party candidate Wilma Happy was 330 to 196.

Sue Garrett of the Student Party was elected SGA Treasurer unopposed.

The Student Party's slate of candidates for University Union offices ran uncontested and was elected. Frank Jones attained the position of Union chairman while Nelson Lemmond received the nod for vice-chairman and the office of secretary went to Tish Schenck.

A write-in candidate, Phyllis Henline, won the treasurer's position.

Ellison Clary Jr. ran unopposed for the editorship of the Carolina Journal and was elected.

Tim Britton saw UNC-C "... in a crucial growth stage." He added that it "... must be guided and supported by more than just a few students.

"With the help of the entire student body, we can make this next year the year in which we truly attain university status," he said.

Newly elected vice-president Bud Stokely commented, "I was most gratified by the vote of confidence which the student body gave to the two-party system. As vice-president I shall do my best to be worthy of the trust bestowed upon me, and I shall, in all sincerity, attempt to keep an open mind concerning matters brought before the Student Legislature."

Frank Jones indicated he would need the help of all interested students to serve on University Union committees such as social, fine arts, lecture, and publicity.

In regard to his plans for next year, he said, "I hope to plan at least one social function each month. With the new ballroom, these functions should be the highlight of each month.

"I want very much to have interesting and educational lectures here. One person I have

We hope that headline will attract a few bugs—camera bugs, that is.

The Carolina Journal needs photographers. It has none at the present time. The golf picture on page three was taken by the editor. When you see it you will begin to realize how badly the Journal needs photographers.

Why don't some of you camera bugs leave your names and addresses at the Union desk. We'll get in touch with you.

SL Voting Thursday, Friday; Speeches Will Be In Library

32 Students Vie For SL Spots

Dr. Colvard Honored By Charlotte C Of C

By SALLY HAGOOD

Dr. Dean Colvard, newly selected chancellor here, was honored at a formal reception and dinner by the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce at the Queen Charlotte Hotel Tuesday, April 12.

Following a welcoming address by W. T. Harris, president of the Chamber of Commerce, an impressive list of North Carolinians, including Mayor Stan Brookshire and Dr. Bonnie Cone, spoke.

Watts Hill Jr., Chairman of the Board of Higher Education of North Carolina, praised Charlotte for working with the Board instead of by-passing it as East Carolina has done and expressed his admiration for the Chancellor Selection Committee for their choice of Dr. Colvard as Chancellor.

Dr. William Friday said that Dr. Colvard has proven himself an important part of the administration of N.C. State where he helped initiate policies which still guide the school.

Following Dr. Friday's remarks, Dr. Colvard addressed the reception by praising Dr. Cone and her associates.

"I must pay tribute to Dr. Bonnie Cone and those who have worked with her. I salute them for the solid foundation for a university which has been wrought with skill, diligence, and sensitive insight, and for the spirit which guarantees that noble public purpose takes precedence over all other considerations. In building the fourth campus of our great University system, Dr. Cone has been both gracious and helpful to me as I become a member of the team," he said.

Dr. Colvard quoted the Spanish philosopher Jose Ortega Gasset who described the role of the university in the community.

"The university must be open to the realities of its time. It must be in the midst of real-life and saturated with it. The life of the people needs acutely to have the university participate, as the university, in its affairs."

Accelerated urbanization in America has resulted in a society of relocated people with the desire for bigger and better educational facilities.

"... the development of society has taken emphasis away from the muscle and upon the mind of man. All over our country we are now witnessing the burgeoning of new universities rising up to meet the demands as cultural centers and as seats for undergraduate, professional, and post-graduate learning," Colvard said.

Closing, he said his purpose at that time was "... NOT to enunciate long range plans but rather to place emphasis upon planning. We shall strive to
