Dwayne Spitzer, next year's University Union chairman, recently described some of the activities he and his co-workers have planned for 1967-1968.

During the first week in June, the Executive Council of the University Union will be traveling to New York to decide from a selection of entertainers who travel to college campuses, what groups this school would like to have appear on campus next year. Each show, given in a coffee-house atmosphere, will cost about $200.

Dwayne is planning two big weeks for next year. The Lettermen and The Impressions have been contacted about appearing here during the first weekend in October.

The other important weekend will be the first weekend in May. For this affair, Smoky Robinson and the Miracles, and the Tams and Catalinas may come.

The Union will sponsor a lecture third Wednesday of each month during next year. Bill Cosby and Hal Hobrook (Mark Twain Tonight) are two of the people who have been contacted about possible evening lectures.

"We are going to have some good dances this summer," says Dwayne, "and I hope to see a lot of the summer school students coming out."

The Fine Arts Festival will be held again next year, as well as possible concerts by the Charlotte Symphony orchestra.

The activities sponsored by the Union will be publicized to the high schools in the surrounding area in order to increase proceeds.

Dwayne commended the work done by this year's officers and committee chairmen.

"Frank Jones, Sally Hagood, Tish Schenck, Kay Watson, Nick Stavrakas, and Bobbe Berry have done tremendous things within the Union program this year," he says.

"The Union is always open to advice and ideas from the students," assures Dwayne. "There are several vacancies in committees which need to be filled," he adds.

Students interested should contact Dwayne.

Roman Fest Coming Soon

Friends, Romans, and fellow UNC-C students, lend me your ears? We are on the verge(!) of having a great event on campus . . . a Roman banquet.

This is open to anyone who wishes to come at only a nominal fee: fifty cents.

Chariot races for the kiddies, skits, and fashion show are on the agenda. (Seriously, there will be no one under the age of 17 allowed.)

Two Romans on campus, the Russian-oriented one, Dr. Morrill, and the American-oriented one, Dr. Robbins have forecast for us:

Dr. Morrill: "I predict that the banquet will be a total flop because most of the student are so apathetic that they are best-suited to be placed in the University lake and fed pre-digested goldfish food. But, if the banquet does occur, I predict that Miss Fowler will be late."

Then, Dr. Robbins delivered his oratory: "If Dr. Morrill shows up for the banquet no one else will get anything to eat, particularly since Dr. Morrill is champion goldfish feeder." The end is not yet!!

Dr. Morrill has graciously consented to do anything, within reason for fifteen minutes, to the highest bidder. (No, he will not change all the grades in his classes to A's.)

What Is Proper For Campus Attire?

BY ELLISON CLARY

"I think it should be the choice of the individual. Students should have the prerogative to choose what to wear." That's how Cheryle Leatherbury explains why she's passing her petition requesting a liberalization of dress regulations on this campus.

Cheryle would like to see the day come here when students are allowed to slacks, jeans, or Bermuda shorts on campus "...if they so choose."

The official dress regulation here, as stated in the Student Conduct Regulations section of the 1966-1967 Gold Digger, are as follows:

"Shorts are not considered proper dress for class attendance because of aesthetic considerations and the fact that our buildings are completely air-conditioned. Jeans and slacks are also prohibited for women students."

Cheryle says she plans to present the petition to the Ways and Means committee of the Student Legislature. The committee will, in turn vote to decide whether to present the petition to the legislature for consideration.

According to Bill Billups, new vice president of the student body and chairman of the legislature, if that body wishes to take favorable action in regard to the petition it could recommend to the administration that the dress code be changed.

There are four petitions being circulated on campus at this time. All are worded identically.

Cheryle says she has "at least 200" signatures on the petitions.

"We've only circulated it for three or four days and then not the whole day," she said. "We got 30 names in 20 minutes once."

"More boys than girls have signed," she admitted. "Students are generally in favor of it but a few are against it. They say there's a time and place for everything," she said.

Cheryle has been known to wear slacks frequently on campus on weekends when the dress rule doesn't apply. She wore slacks to classes on a recent Friday and "...it didn't bother anyone."

"Some girls were afraid I was going to get in trouble," she said in regard to slacks-in-class incident. "I guess they were shocked that I'd have the nerve."

"I think 1000 students will probably sign the petition if it will get around to that many people," said Cheryle. "I'd like to see that many."

The petition reads as follows:

"It is apparent that an essential part of the educational process is to develop individual character. It is also apparent that certain regulations are imposed on the Students of UNC-C which prevent this development. These restrictions have the effect of furthering the high-school-like atmosphere which must be removed in order to destroy the overwhelming apathy of the college student on this campus.

"Therefore, we the undersigned express the desire to begin the change to true university status by requesting a liberalization of our

Athletic Field To Be Sodded, In Use By Fall Semester

Not Future Site Of Stadium

About a month ago, tractors and trucks began moving volumes of dirt and rocks from an area behind the Student Union, just far enough away to cause curiosity as to the purpose of the excavations.

Rumors had it that the area was a future football stadium site or the site of a physical education facility.

These rumors were dispelled by Mr. Sanford who assures that this field is simply a "playing field."

"It will be for some time our only outdoor athletic facility," he added.

Because of dry conditions, the area has not yet been plowed and seeded, but the field should be sodded by this fall for use of the physical education department.

The field will be used for track and field events, with a track skirting the perimeter of the layout. Probably touch football and soccer will be played on the area also.
