

Summer Scene At UNC-C

Bill Billups performs the "wetting" ceremony for Mecklenburg (Dwayne Spitzer) and Charlotte (Earleen Mabry) as Father Haus and Bridesmaids Gerry and Cathy Ledford look reverently on.

City Water Comes

A spectacular "wedding" highlighted the summer activities here on campus.

In order to publicize city-county cooperation in bringing city water to our campus, a "wetting" ceremony was performed on campus. Student Body Vice-President Bill Billups, posing as the parson, joined together Charlotte (Earleen Mabry) and Mecklenburg (Dwayne Spitzer). Charlotte was given in marriage by her "papa", Mr. Lauren Haus. In the "wetting" party were bridesmaids Gerry and Cathy Ledford. At a reception following the ceremony, the couple was presented with useful "wetting" gifts -- a pipe wrench and a plumber's friend! The ceremony was attended by many dignitaries -- among them Chancellor Colvard, Mayor Stan R. Brookshire, and Mr. James Martin,

Chairman of County Commissioners. All three made short, informal speeches prior to the ceremony.

On campus to bring a message concerning the University's function of producing new leaders was the Honorable Charles R. Jonas. He laughingly called his address a "non-political speech."

Bill Curry, of WSOC-TV, spoke to a small gathering of students and faculty members on the various problems involved in getting really big intercollegiate sports on our campus. Many of the barriers Mr. Curry mentioned seem removable only by growth and the passage of time--even though, as he says himself, he is more enthusiastic and anxious to have such a program on campus than we are. Mr. Curry, as always, entertained as well as informed--and he is very good at both.

Charles R. Jonas spoke to students

Bill Curry entertained a student gathering

Photos
By
Fred
Jordan

Even though the "wedding" is mock, the bride groom seems to have some reservations about this important step!

The "wetting" was complete with appropriate gifts for the newlyweds--a plumber's friend for the bride and a pipe wrench for her groom.

Dance?? Sure! Everybody dances at a UNC-C party. . .

Tuesday Nights with Dr. and Mrs. McEniry became a sure way to spend enjoyable and informative Tuesday nights in exciting and controversial conversation with fellow students and friends and faculty members.