

Park Fest This Week

By STEVE JONES

What is a University? What are the different aspects of college life? What is the average college student really like? These questions and many more are being answered for the estimated three-fourths of a million people who will visit Charlotte's annual "Festival in the Park" this week.

The answers are found at the exhibit sponsored by this campus. This is the first year the University has been invited to participate in the Festival, and much work has been done to insure our display an outstanding representative of college life.

The work has been done under the guidance of Mr. Brenton Steele, director of the Union, and Miss Barbara Kasler, director of crafts.

The theme, "The University Coming into Focus", has been divided into four major areas of student life: Student Government, Publicity, Athletics, and Campus Life. These major subdivisions are explained through a display of pictures taken all over campus and by the distribution of various college publications.

The display is housed in a 22' x 10' striped umbrella tent with a large pole in front symbolizing UNC-C. The tent is being manned by a representative from each of the four major areas of college life.

Special entertainment will be provided at the tent at various times. A discussion will be led by Dr. Witherspoon, an exhibit will be presented by the Fine Arts Department, Jerry Vincent will play the guitar on Friday, and "The Minority," a campus group, will play on Sunday.

The Festival began yesterday and will continue through Sunday, September 24. The times are 6 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. on week nights, and from 10 to 10 on Saturday and from 2 to 10 on Sunday.

The Festival was opened by a concert given by Raul Spivak, the University's musician in residence. The famous Serendipity Singers will be on hand to entertain also.

Students are encouraged to visit the colorful festival for an entertaining evening.

The UNC-C Festival Tent.

Faculty Expands

The new full time teaching faculty members are: Philip E. Hildreth, Professor of Biology and Chairman of the Department; Thomas D. DuBois, Assistant Professor of Chemistry; Rashad Abdel-Khalik, Instructor in Economics and Business Administration; Jack B. Evett, Instructor in Engineering; Richard Hogan, Assistant Professor of Biology; Kermit Burnside, Instructor in Biology; Charles K. Bush, Instructor in English; Samuel Watson, Instructor in English; William S. Mathis, Professor of Fine Arts and Chairman of the Department; Ronald E. Anderson, Instructor in Fine Arts; Roselyn Boyette, Instructor in Fine Arts; Louise Nugent, Instructor in Fine Arts; Newell Bush, Associate Professor of Foreign Language; Edward Hopper, Instructor in Foreign Language; Esther Wruck, Instructor in Foreign Language; Julius Alker, Assistant Professor of Geology; Larry Bosnian, Instructor in Health and Physical Education; Paul Fleming, Instructor in Health and Physical Education; Frank Biglow, Instructor in Political Science; Frances L. Starnes, Associate Professor of Political Science; Henry Deal, Instructor in History; Cloyd S. Goodrum, Professor of

(Continued on page 2)

Grant For Faculty

The opportunity to earn a summer study grant to Europe will be offered to faculty members here. A grant from BASF Colors and Chemicals, Inc., which has become the first regular Patron of Excellence, makes possible the trips to Europe for one and possibly two members of the faculty.

Dr. Hugh McEniry, vice chancellor for academic affairs, said that a faculty research committee will recommend eligible faculty members from whom he will choose recipients of the grants. With a very small additional supplement, the $1000-a-year grant will pay the round trip fare for two faculty members to Europe.

According to Dr. McEniry, the first goal would be to use the money to increase the knowledge of the German scientific world in this country and second priority would be given to increasing the knowledge of the German industrial and commercial world. If there are no applicants for these areas of study, consideration will be given to other scholarly fields.

Chancellor D. W. Colvard was pleased with the grant and commented that it would enable this institution to become more aware of and more involved in international affairs. He indicated that the grant would boost faculty morale and be an incentive in recruiting faculty.

Leon F. Moody, vice president and general manager of the Charlotte BASF organization, made the grant. He hopes the funds will be used to promote better international understanding by exposure of the staff here to matters of international concern through visits to foreign countries.

BASF is the United States subsidiary of Badische Anilin & Soda Fabrik AG Ludwigshafen A. Rhein West Germany, a large international chemical corporation.

Barnstormers To Add Variety

By KAY WATSON

The Barnstormers, the literary club on campus, was formed in the early spring of last year. Its major purpose is to publish the material written by its members. The name Barnstormers was chosen because the Barnstormers were slick aerial artists who toured the country giving dramatic performances, and in a sense, the literary group is performing. Also, according to Editor Jerry Hancock, "The names of other literary magazines tend to frighten people off."

This year the magazine will be published a total of six times. Issues will come out in October, November, December, February, March, and April. Part of this year's first issue is a remnant of last semester's work. Hopefully, this issue will be off the press by the time that you are reading this. This issue will serve to introduce new freshmen and transfer students to the Barnstormers.

Jerry's plans for the magazine include a desire to use more satire and humor. The magazine will maintain its serious mood, although the variety of articles will be greater. By doing this, Jerry hopes to interest more people into reading and writing for the Barnstormer. Like last year, the magazine will have twenty pages, but Jerry hopes to expand this as much as finances will allow.

Anyone interested in writing for the Barnstormer should submit his material in duplicate, typed and double spaced. Articles for the magazine should be left at the Union desk. The only other stipulation is that the article must not have been published before.

If space allows, Jerry would like to publish letters to the editor and comments on students' reactions to the magazine. He also wants to publish faculty work.

Membership is open to all those who have an interest in writing or in literature in general. Members

(Continued on page 4)

Chorus Is Still Open

Students interested in singing may join the UNC-C Chorus for credit up to September 22. The Chorus meets in two sections, one at 10:00 a.m. under the direction of Mr. Harvey Woodruff. The other is led by Mrs. Roselyn Boyette at 11:30, and both are on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Many new students hesitate to sign for Chorus until their schedules have been stabilized, and this one-week extension of time is granted especially for them. One credit hour may be earned to each semester of choral activity.

The Christmas program being prepared by the Chorus includes the presentation of a number of folk carols and light "listenable" anthems. In addition, the Chorus will participate in the community presentation of Handel's "Messiah" on December 3rd.

Students who have sung in high school, college, and church choirs are urged especially to take advantage of the opportunities offered in the UNC-C Chorus. Voice instruction is a vital part of every rehearsal. You may indicate your interest by signing at the English and Fine Arts office, Room B213.

ACTION To Get Truth

"To gather together a dynamic, vibrant group of people who are interested in not pulling any punches--in getting to the truth--that is what UNC-C Students for Action wants to do," says Gene Herman, head organizer of the movement on campus to establish a group of students interested in meeting and discussing pertinent political issues and crises of the day in an open atmosphere.

Mr. Herman, a senior political science major, continues, "We want to promote, foster and stimulate an intellectual climate here on campus through discussion and debate of local, national, and international affairs."

ACTION stands for Active Committee for Truth, Individualism, Opportunity, Now. The organizational meeting will be held today at 11:30 a.m. in Union, Room U-231.

Prominent and controversial personalities will be invited to speak to the group. Any interested student is welcomed to membership.

DEAD-STICK

Keep a tight rein on flights of fancy--too often they end up in forced landings.

THE BARNSTORMERS