APO Holds Annual Turkey Shoot In Lot

BY RODNEY SMITH

The Brothers and new Pledges of Alpha Phi Omega are holding their annual turkey shoot today through Friday in the Union parking lot. The event is being held from 9:30 'til 4:00 on all three days. Both daily and grand prizes will be awarded for the best scores. The price for entering the competition is a quarter for three shots. The shoot is being held both as a service project and as a part of an extensive pledge program under the direction of pledge trainer Dave Taylor. The pledges are dressed as Indians today in an attempt to advertise the event and to let everyone see who the new pledges are.

In other fraternity news, the APO athletic department, which fielded a 9-5 intramural football team, is beginning competition in the newly formed basketball program and encourages all Alpha Phi Omega fans to come out and support the team. The games are to be played at the Derita and Garinger gyms.

Jim Stafford, a Brother, was named by the cheerleaders to be the 49ers' official mascot, and Pat McNeely, APO vice president, has been elected assistant-head cheerleader.
