

Two Students May Work In Central America

home nursing, and mother and baby care; and they will train a corps of instructors to carry on the work. They will also assist the development of Red Cross youth service with emphasis on such activities as hospital volunteers, disaster preparedness, recreation services and international friendship in cities designated by the host Red Cross Society.

Lenore worked as a Red Cross volunteer while attending high school. She took part in the Red Cross Exchange Scrapbook Program, which went to numerous foreign countries. She is also trained in Red Cross home nursing and mother and child care courses. She is a Spanish major and attends many lectures and speeches which pertain to her studies. She also takes part in many outside activities.

Erik has taken part in the Red Cross first aid program and was a member of the Red Cross Council while in high school. He also has many outside activities and interests. Erik lived in Puerto Rock from 1955 until 1962 and while there took part as an extra in the film, "Lord of the Flies."

Both Erik and Lenore expressed pleasure that they had been selected to take part in the Atlanta competition.

Busy Spring Schedule Of Lectures, Concerts

There will be a Grimm beginning, but the University has a busy schedule of concerts and lectures for the spring semester.

Activities will begin with a Green Garter coffee house February 21 through February 24 and featuring the Grimm Brothers, a trio of satirists.

Headliner for the spring activities will be Barry Goldwater, who ran unsuccessfully for president against Lyndon Johnson in 1964. Goldwater will speak on April 17.

Benad Avital, first secretary of the Israeli Embassy in Washington, will speak at 11:30 a.m. today.

The Southeastern Regional Conference on the Professional School and World Affairs will be held at UNC-C, February 28 and 29 and will bring to the campus some national authorities on education and world affairs.

A highlight of the campus year is always the University Forum, scheduled this year for March 1. Four nationally known authorities on international relations will participate.

The new morality will be discussed by Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall, an authority on family life, sex and marriage, on March 20.

Hal Holbrook had been scheduled to do his "Mark Twain" on March 30. However, he has opened in a show on Broadway, which if successful may preclude his coming to Charlotte.

The New Arts Festival April 1-7 will feature displays by North Carolina artists and a campus production of "Waiting for Godot."

Raul Spivak, UNC-C musician-in-residence, will present his fourth and final piano concert in a year-long series titled "Perspectives in Music Through The Keyboard" at 3:30 p.m. April 7.

Another Green Garter coffee house beginning April 29 will feature a UNC-C produced melodrama.

Cameron Conducts Health Planning Workshop Here

The University played host February 20 to a regional workshop on comprehensive health planning for North Carolina.

Dr. Charles M. Cameron, Jr., director of the Office of Comprehensive Health Planning of the North Carolina Department of Administration conducted the workshop, which is one of four being held during February in the state.

The purpose of the workshop is to inform health oriented people of the statewide comprehensive health program announced recently by Governor Dan K. Moore.

Invitations to the four workshops were mailed to more than 2,000 persons. Many in the Piedmont area attended the one on this campus.

The Governor's Advisory Council on Comprehensive Health Planning is designed to provide more local participation and control of federal funds spent in local areas in the interest of better community health.

Dr. Bonnie E. Cone, vice chancellor for student affairs and community relations welcomed workshop participants to the meeting in the University Union on campus.

Two Travel To ACU-I Tourney

Two representatives from this campus traveled to Greenville, N. C. to participate in the ACU-I regional recreation tournament on February 8-10.

Elbert Tillotson, winner of the school billiards championship participated in that event, while Robert Welch represented Charlotte in the Chess matches. Other local winners in Bridge and Table Tennis were unable to attend.

In the Billards match, played under double elimination, Tillotson lost in the first match to last year's runner-up, and the eventual champion in this year's tournament, and in his second match was outdistanced by a boy from N. C. State.

In chess competition, each player was scheduled to play in five matches, with the winner determined by the overall record. Welch drew a bye on one round, won one match, and lost his other three.

Joe Myers, 'Soothsayer' Will Warn Of Disaster Today

By PARRY BLISS

A man who some have described as a "bearded soothsayer" has been invited to speak on campus by Alpha Kappa Psi, and he will appear here today in C-122 at 11:30 a.m.

Joe Myers, who spoke on campus last February to a large audience, will air his views on the economic situation of the United States today.

In reply to the above charge, Mr. Myers states, "The proof of the pudding is in the eating. I'm making a fool of myself sure."

This is an outlandish prediction. But I'm not interested in selling a bill of goods. You had better prepare yourselves." The prediction he refers to is one he made in his last lecture here--the collapse of the American currency system in 1971. Myers bases this prediction on certain "psychic experiences and personal research."

Joe Myers will once again inform students of the coming disaster today.
