Three Vie For SGA Presidency

Bill Billups

Phil Wilson

Candidates To Give Campaign Speeches Today

By BARBARA JEAN SMITH

Today, in the cafeteria, the candidates for the Student Government offices will give their speeches. These campaigns have been developing hotly since Monday, April 1 when the candidates officially began soliciting votes.

When asked why he is running for President of the student body, Bill Billups, the University Party candidate, answered that he has a deep feeling for the growth and welfare of the students of the University.

Mr. Billups feels the President should be receptive to all students, faculty, and administration on any question. Also he feels the President should be a clear thinker and realize the challenges presented by a growing University. "The president should be an idealist as well as a realist," Mr. Billups commented.

Mr. Billups' qualifications include freshman representative service, sophomore class vice-president, vice-president of the Junior Class, and Vice President of the Student Body.

He feels that communications between students on this campus as well as the greater University is an important phase of University life that he would like to develop.

The Student Party candidate for President is Phil Wilson. "One of my basic reasons for running," said Mr. Wilson, "is the support I found among students."

Mr. Wilson would like to see more authority delegated to the Presidency by the students. He wants the office to be more than a liaison between students and administration.

He feels the office is for the students, and that therefore it should be representative of the students.

Mr. Wilson realizes this stand is a difficult one to take, but he feels he can fulfill it.

New Arts Festival Offers Cultural 'Enlightenment'

This week has been an exciting one on campus due to the New Arts Festival being sponsored by the Fine Arts Department. The objective of the Festival "to stimulate interest in new directions in art and to serve as a general cultural enlightenment," has been carried in effective ways through the appearance on campus of outstanding people in the field of the arts.

Still to take part in the Festival are Mr. Wallace Kaufman who will give a poetry reading in the Parquet Room today and the showing of the film, "Romeo and Juliet Ballet".

Mr. Kaufman is presently a Creative Arts Professor at UNC-Ch. He has co-authored a book with Jesse Rehder entitled, "The Art of Writing".

Gilbert Carpenter, chairman of the Art Department at UNC-G, will lecture on "Minimal Art," on Thursday, April 4. He has exhibited work in many art galleries and shows.

The Festival features artist and educator John Kehoe on Friday, April 1. He is professor of art at UNC-G. Mr. Kehoe, after studying for seven months in Italy, brought to UNC-G a unique method of bronze casting. His lecture is entitled, "The Sculptor's Art of Bronze Casting."

46 Student Teachers In Classrooms

The University has sent 46 student teachers into area classrooms, the largest group to date.

For these 46 their stay on the campus has ended. All that remains is for them to pick up their diplomas at commencement on May 26. The remainder of their undergraduate days will be spent in the public school classrooms.

These student teachers represent 13 elementary teacher candidates and 33 secondary teacher candidates. The total number is a 57 per cent increase in student teachers over the 1966-1967 school year.

Spivak Concert April 7 Deals With Nationalism

Raul Spivak, musician-in-residence will deal with some of the music of South America and Spain in his final public concert in a series on "Perspectives in Music Through the Keyboard."

The concert, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Sunday, April 7, is part of the "New Arts Festival" this week.

This fourth concert is titled, "Twentieth Century Composers and Nationalism in Music." It will feature for the first time in Charlotte the complete version of the 12 American preludes by Alberto Ginastera, a fellow Argentine who dedicated the preludes to Mr. Spivak.

The preludes are brief compositions inspired in rhythms and moods by the composers of the Americas.

Mr. Spivak says that Ginastera is not only one of the leading composers of Latin America but is also one of the most outstanding of contemporary composers. According to Mr. Spivak, Ginastera's two operas, "Don Rodrigo" and "Bomarzo" when presented in this country stirred the musical world.

Mr. Spivak's three previous concerts have been presented before full houses and to enthusiastic audiences.

In addition to the Ginastera works, Mr. Spivak will present "Marche", "Prelude Op. 12 No. 7", and "Evil Suggestion" by Prokofieff; "Rumanian Folk Dances" by Bela Bartok; "Chorus No. 5" (Brazilian Soul) by Villa Lobos; "Triana" by Albeniz; "Three Preludes" by Gershwin; "The Maid and the Nightingale" by Granados; and from the Ballet "Petruška" by Stravinsky.

The concert is free and open to the public.

New Dormitories Are Begun Here

Contracts were awarded Wednesday, March 27, by this campus for the first air-conditioned dormitories to be built on a state-supported campus in North Carolina.

Grading began that day for the two twelve-story structures to house 500 men and 500 women.

The air-conditioned feature is expected to be a boon to summer use of the dormitories for summer school and conferences as well as to year-round comfort for students.

In fact, the sweltering in late spring, summer, and early fall that most students remember will never be experienced here. All classrooms, laboratories, library areas, and offices on campus are being air-conditioned as they are built. The only exceptions to the air conditioning rule are some warehouse, storage and other large open-space areas.

Contracts were awarded to the following firms:

Little Construction Co., $2,183,500, general contract; Westinghouse Electric Corp., $28,168, elevators; Hensley & Mosley, $239,550, electrical; Shanklin Air

Conditioning Co., $198,000, plumbing; and Gamewell Mechanical

Contractors, $374,272, heating and air-conditioning.

Grading began March 27 on the new high-rise dormitories which will be completed in 15 months. (Journal Photo by Charles Howard).
