A.K.Psi Sees Thirty At Rush

By PERRY BLISS

Interested in becoming members of the Eta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, thirty students attended the fraternity's formal spring rush held last Wednesday in the Student Union.

The students were served cake and punch by several campus coeds and were introduced to the existing thirty-three members. A demonstration table was also set up to explain the campus activities including both the social and professional aspects of Alpha Kappa Psi.

After the meeting, a vote was taken on ten prospective pledges for the current year to be installed at the end of a four-week pledge

YDC Elects

Heidenreich

Students interested in reactivating the Young Democrats Club met Monday, March 25 in the Student Union.

In the officers' election, Hank Heidenreich was voted president. He is a rising senior and a political science major.

Vince Batts was elected vice-president of the organization. Vince is a senior chemistry major. Gene Herman, a senior political science major, was elected to the office of secretary, and freshman Ron Caldwell was elected treasurer.

"The purpose of the Young Democrats Club is to give the Democratic students on campus a chance to support their party. We invite the support of all interested students," Heidenreich commented.

The drive to increase membership is being headed by Butch Smith. Ben Chavis was appointed by the president elect to be chairman of the Publicity committee.

The first meeting was highlighted by the introduction of Mr. Ed Graham. Mr. Graham is a student who is state co-ordinator for the confederation of Democratic College Students. Graham said he was glad to see the YDC moving again.

Mr. Eric Anderson, instructor of Fine Arts in the Art Department here, will have an exhibit of paintings and sculpture in the J. Atkins Library. This exhibit is his first Charlotte exhibition.

The program for the second annual New Arts Festival was planned and arranged by a committee consisting of co-chairmen Bobbe Berry and Allen Wentz and numerous other interested students and faculty.

Many art objects created by students were entered last Friday in the Student Art Competition and the final judging was done Monday, April 1. As of this writing, the winner was not announced. The winner will be announced in next week's Journal.

An important part of the Festival this week is the production of "Waiting for Godot" by the Fine Arts Department. The play, to be presented April 4, 5 and 6 at 8:00 in C-200, features John Hostetter as Estragon, Paul Atwell as Vladimir, Roger Grosswald as Lucky, Gerry Dionne as Pozzo, and Tom Carmody as the Boy. Others involved with the production are Catherine Nicholson, the director; Richard Gant designer; Sue Garrett, stage manager; and Barbara Smith, assistant director.

The story is that of two tramps and their mutual waiting for Godot whom they feel will bring them meaning for life and existence. Admission of 75¢ will be charged.

program. A formal installation will be held today at 11:30 in C-120 for the pledges.
