

Legislature Meets, Lafferty on Court

A called meeting of the Student Legislature took place on April 23, in the Parquet Room after the regular Monday night meeting was called off for lack of a quorum. The body entertained committee reports first and spent much time discussing the possibility of outer covers for the outside trash cans in order to enable student organizations to post publicity. Mr. Gaiter then gave his final President's Report, in which he appointed John Lafferty to fill the vacancy left on the Student Court by the resignation of Mr. Smith. The assembly approved the appointment unanimously. They also approved unanimously the allocation requests by the Union and the Pub Board. After a heated debate, the Legislature passed a bill to recommend that the new Legislature consider the passage of an interclub council. Mr. Herman's motion concerning the recommendation to the State Legislature that they keep the present regulations concerning speakers on state campuses was defeated by an overwhelming majority. Following Miss Trexler's Treasurer's Report, the meeting was adjourned.

SHORT AND SWEET
The human body rids itself of alcohol chiefly by oxidizing it in the liver. As the liver normally burns up a little less than one ounce of liquor in an hour—and it is time, and nothing else, that does it—a way has been suggested that should cut auto accidents enormously. The suggestion is, we simply change the pattern of our entertaining slightly; "close the bar" an hour before guests leave, and make the last hour a coffee, snacks and conversation time.

Pledges Clean Up

Alpha Kappa Psi and Alpha Phi Omega pledges gathered on campus last Sunday to clean up and straighten up the campus grounds. Approximately 30 men met in this joint service project.

This project is the first in a series of service projects which will be performed by fraternities to augment relations between the brotherhoods and administration.

Library Adds To Service, Collection

The latest edition of Collier's Encyclopedia has just been added to the reference collection of the Atkins Library.

Published earlier this year, the 24-volume encyclopedia has over 10,000 editors, advisors, and contributors from universities, learned societies, government, and industry. Names of these individuals appear in the front of volume one. Most articles are signed by the individual contributing the article. Each article follows a pattern which provides for definition of the term or concept, a simple explanation, and presentation of basic facts. To insure objectivity, articles involving key issues were submitted to authorities representing all major points of view.

The new edition of Collier's is arranged alphabetically, indexed by subject, illustrated to enrich the printed text, and supplemented by an 11,500 title bibliography. Aimed at the college level, the style of the new edition is "popular, clear, and concise" in the words of Constance Winchell (Guide to Reference Books (eighth edition)).

Volume 24 includes a bibliography, study guide, subject guide to bibliographies, and an analytical index to the entire set.

The new edition is edited by Dr. Louis Shores, dean emeritus of the Florida State University Library School, and is published by Crowell-Collier Educational Corporation.

The 1963 edition of Collier's Encyclopedia has been moved to the circulating collection of the Atkins Library and is available for a two-week loan.

Blythe's Book In Fourth Printing

A fourth printing of LeGette Blythe's William Henry Belk: Merchant of the South has just been released by the University of North Carolina Press. This edition of 7,000 brings to 75,000 the number of copies thus far published by the press. The book develops the story of the Lancaster county boy born during the Civil War who became one of the nation's foremost merchants and of the phenomenal growth of the Belk family of stores, now numbering more than 400. It is one of the biggest selling Press books, excelled, however, by Bold Galilean, Mr. Blythe's first Biblical novel, which the UNC Press published in 1948 and which has sold well in excess of 200,000 and was the choice of two book clubs.

Mr. Blythe's next book to be released is the text of The Horner's Nest, the Charlotte bicentennial symphonic drama to be presented in UNC-C amphitheater June 20-July 13. This book will be available in hard covers early in June.

Gold Digger Under Construction, Final Copy Deadline May 8

The 1968-1969 edition of The Gold Digger is now under construction by the Handbook Committee. The funds for this student handbook are allocated through the executive Council of the S.G.A. This year's book will follow the format of last year's edition pretty closely, according to Gold Digger Editor Rod Smith.

Mr. Smith stated that the cover will be green with white lettering and must feature the year, the name of the publication, a picture of a forty-niner, and must convey the idea of simplicity. Within this framework, all students and professors are invited to submit cover designs.

The final deadline for copy from organizations is May 8th. Mr. Smith encourages all organizations presidents and chairmen to write the copy or have a member of the organization write it to alleviate any friction which might arise concerning the contents of the copy. If any questions about The Gold Digger arise, Mr. Smith and his assistant editors, F. N. Stewart and Mike Combs, welcome all of them and will be glad to assist any organizations requesting aid.

Boyette, Mathis To Give Recital

Dr. William Mathis and Mrs. Rosalyn Boyette of the Fine Arts Department here have begun a "Faculty Concert Series", the first program of which will be given on Sunday, May 5 at 5:00 p.m. in the Parquet Room of the Union.

Mrs. Boyette will sing selections from early Italian repertoire, German lieder, operatic selections by Mozart and Charpentier, and songs by American composers Barber and Ernest Charles. Dr. Mathis will accompany her on the piano.

Mrs. Boyette has studied at Salem, Chapel Hill, and Converse College under Jane Coker. She has been singing for fifteen years.

Dr. Mathis is chairman of the Fine Arts Department, and was previously a dean at Hope College. Both are in their first year here.

Man Eater

The University of Colorado Student Senate has recently passed a recommendation to the administration that they change the name of the campus grill from "The Flaming Fork Grill" to "The Alfred E. Parker Memorial Grill". Parker, a prospector, became the only American ever to be convicted of cannibalism when he returned from an excursion sans companions and forgot to destroy the evidence.

The students wanted to see the grill dedicated to the famous Mr. Parker because they felt that the management has constantly striven to obtain the standards exemplified by the life of Mr. Parker.

Soul Dance Draws 150

The Union sponsored a Soul Dance on Friday, April 26 in the Union Cafeteria which featured the Soul Sensations and the Soul Syndicate. The cafeteria was decorated with psychedelic posters and flashing lights. Arthur Gentile painted phosphorescent flowers on the willing ladies.

Bill Lynch plays with The Soul Sensations, and Thomas Sterling plays with the Soul Syndicate. Both are UNC-C students.

The 150 or so students who attended seemed to be enjoying themselves.
