

Gladiators, Vultures Post Intramural Wins

Playing one man short of the nine-man player limit, the Vulture team fashioned a 22-0 victory over the Sophomores Monday the twenty-first. Scoring opened as Mike Combs tagged the Sophomore quarterback in the end zone for a safety. The sophomores never were able to mount an effective drive as the Vultures kept picking off the passes that they were throwing. Quarterback Rick Ray of the Vultures heaved touchdown strikes to Ronnie Payne and Jerry Ruhl. Mike Armstrong and Payne added the extra-points. On the final play of the game, the Sophomores lofted a long pass which was picked off by the Vultures. In ensuing razzle-dazzle fashion, the Vultures continued passing the ball back and forth across the field and finally into the end zone for the final score. As the Vultures called the huddle for the extra point attempt, they were told to forget it by the referee.

The Gladiators remained undefeated this week by beating previously undefeated APO twenty to twelve. Both teams showed strength defensively, allowing no score until late in the second quarter when Bill Billups intercepted an APO pass and lateraled to Dan Wilson, who chalked up six for the Gladiators.

During the second half, Sammy Phillips and Howard Webb scored for the Gladiators. Jerry Overcash scored twice for the APO. The Gladiators, again being plagued by penalties, also had one touchdown called back.

The APO suffered its first casualty of the year when Jack Layton separated his shoulder.

Williams Wins Freshman Presidency

In the run-off election to determine the President of the freshman class, Gary Williams of the Student Party was elected by one-hundred votes. Rick Sabates, an Independent, received seventy-three votes in this election.

The voting turn-out for this run-off was somewhat less than that for the first ballot. Two-hundred-and-twenty-one out of over seven-hundred voted in the initial election, as opposed to one-hundred-and-seventy-three out of over seven-hundred in the runoff.

From the freshman class the Legislature gains two new members from the Student Party, two from the University Party, and one Independent. This leaves the balance of the Legislature as follows: Student Party, fourteen members; University Party, three members.

Williams now accepts the responsibility of representing the freshman class in the legislature and administrating to the needs of the class in matters of importance. He has the power to call class meetings and initiate class projects.

This election was somewhat unusual from a publicity standpoint. "This election just goes to prove that you can't buy an office with expensive publicity," said John Lafferty, Union Publicity Chairman.

T.I.G.E.R. Tops Wheelers

Last Tuesday, October 22, marked the beginning of a new movement on campus... girls' football. The undefeated team of T.I.G.E.R. (undefeated, that is, in volleyball) wiped out the hard-working Wilborn's Wheelers (6-0). The T.I.G.E.R. team is composed of the volleyball team from last year, formerly called The Sexy Six. Wilborn's Wheelers is composed of a group of out-of-town freshman girls, the majority of whom live at Memorial Hospital nurses' quarters. The teams met, full of energy, strength, many plays, and want of one another's blood. The T.I.G.E.R. team, expertly coached by George Lloyd and George Michael Armstrong was spurred to victory by masterminded plays of strategy. The first touchdown ever executed on this campus by a female was scored by Lynn Stavrakas. The Wilborn Wheelers, coached by Gayle Rogers (who was the coach of the Sexy Six) kept the spirit and strength of his team up remarkably well. The next game was scheduled for October 28 when the football field again was in habited by the girls of UNC-C.

border area withdrew them completely from Sinai, forcing the U.A.R. to consume itself or lose face among the Arab States. Asked by a faculty member, "given the wisdom of hindsight, do you consider U Thant's decision...correct?", Mr. Burns replied to the negative. "He shouldn't drug the withdrawal out, taken it to the general assembly...anything to get time. The Israelis could've set tight and given the West a chance to respond. As it was, it took the West five days to decide to react...Neither side wanted war and an extra couple of days might've made the difference—they might've gotten lucky."

The complexities of international affairs are not, it seems, quite as rational or open to manipulation as they sometimes appear—luck and the unknown still play major roles on the State of world politics.

A K PSI Hears Jim Carson Speak

On Wednesday October 23, the brothers and pledges of Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity heard Mr. Jim Carson, Republican running for re-election to the North Carolina House of Representatives.

Mr. Carson spoke informally concerning the Republican Platform in the coming elections. Emphasizing a need for change in North Carolina, he expressed hope that the Republican Party would gain much ground in both the State House and Senate. Mr. Carson also expressed that he was not impressed with the way the Democratic Party had handled state government over; their many years in power, and hoped that this election year would bring the needed change.

From Mr. Carson's platform, he stated that he was for a sales on tobacco even though he feared that this would hurt the Republican Party in the eastern part of the state. He also plans, if re-elected, to help change the Highway Commission which would improve this facet of state government. In this area, he hoped that in the future the Highway Commissioners would not be appointed by the Governor as in the past, but that a qualified engineer would be put in the position.

After a brief round of questions asked by the brothers and pledges, Mr. Carson left the initiation ceremony for the pledges then took place and the meeting was adjourned.
