

On Campus

How many students know the true role of publications on the UNC-C campus? Just exactly how does one become editor of a campus publication? Why is it difficult to get students to work for the campus publication? Are the present editors power hungry, or are they just trying to instill some kind of pride into journalists on campus? What can an editor promise a prospective staff member in order to get him to work? These questions and more are answered tomorrow night as the University Union Special Activities Committee presents "On Campus."

'On Campus' this week presents a revealing look into the publications on campus, an area that has offered much controversy in the past. A panel of representatives from each publication discusses with host Lanier Jones the pros and cons of election of editors, the rivalry (if there is one) between the Carolina Journal and the new magazine Comment, the problem of acquiring trained and enthusiastic staffs, and other areas of vital interest to the students here on campus.

See Dr. Darryl McCall, Chairman of the Publications Board, R. T. Smith, Roger Grosswald, Dale Berry, and Phil Wilson give the inside story on publications tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 42.

CHAVIS SPEAKS OUT:

"Black Power Is My Only Love."

They sat and observed their players and one wondered what was on their minds.

Ben Chavis, former Chairman of the Union, was then recognized. Before he spoke, Mr. Arnette gave a quick apology, stating that, "The History Club has no connection with ACTION whatsoever." Mr. Chavis, instead of giving a gripe, proceeded by saying, "Student Power, Black Power, and University Power are interrelated. Black power is the medium through which we can achieve student power, student power being an effective student government, effective leaders, and academic freedom." He continued, "Black Power is my only love." He advocates Black history, Black language, Black professors, etc.

At the close of the meeting, Dr. Rieke explained the parking regulations, new parking spaces, and the use of money for parking fees.

Mamie Zillman, reporter for the OBSERVER, stated that, "A revolt took place on the campus of UNC-C." Obviously, Miss

Zillman did not take into consideration the fact that sixty students out of a possible 2350 could hardly be a revolt—maybe a small skirmish that perhaps, could be the beginning of a more harmonious UNC-C.

Another "Bitch-In" is scheduled for the Parget Room today at 11:30.

Children In Viet Nam Need School Supplies

By Donna Raley

Old pencils? Used crayons? Half-used paper?

Despite all the fighting and animosity currently happening on this campus, there is one benevolent soul who wishes to do something for someone else. His name is "Sarge" Muscat. He has spent twenty eight months in Viet Nam helping three schools in Bac Hai. One was a village school, another an orphanage and the third was a school for refugees. He is now retired and a student here. He said that he has recently received a letter from a priest in Viet Nam requesting school supplies. School supplies are the most difficult items to obtain because there are not enough in the country as a result of the war.

Mr. Muscat stated that last year the supplies were provided by Auburn University and a New Mexico branch of R.O.T.C. He would also like to see the supplies sent for the New Year in Viet Nam. The Viet Nam New Year is a Tet Holiday which starts about February 1.

So how about it? Are there any organizations, non-organizations, clubs, friendly groups, etc. who would be willing to help Mr. Muscat in gathering supplies? With an all out effort and some effective backing Mr. Muscat should be able to obtain his goal. Remember, the items needed are pencils, paper, chalk, crayons, notebooks, erasers, etc. And most important, it doesn't matter if they are used or unused. Surely everybody has an old pencil or a half-used notebook.

If interested in taking on this worthwhile project, contact the CAROLINA JOURNAL so that the information may be conveyed to Mr. Muskat.

LATE

BULLETINS

There will be a meeting of legislators, trustees, and University officials in rooms 209 and 210 at 10:30 a.m. on November 22 to discuss the University's budget request.

The E.P.E. 15-Minute Report for College and University Trustees reports that, "a student pays, on the average, about $1,160 in charges at a state college or university in his home state this year."

Comparable charges at UNC-C for 1968-69 are $1,100. That gives students at UNC-C $60 per year to throw away. Or does it?
