Carmichael Lectureship

The Consolidated University has been endowed with a Lectureship in honor of the late William C. Carmichael, former Vice President of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. Mr. Carmichael was a strong advocate of consolidation and co-operation among the state supported institutions of higher learning in the state. He was also a very effective fund raiser for special programs and the prime force behind educational television for North Carolina.

The Carmichael Lectureship will be shared among the branched of the consolidated university. This will be the first year that Charlotte has received the lectureship. After Chancellor Colvard decided that the honor should go to one of the Forum speakers this year. Dr. Mario Pei, Professor of Romance Philology, at Columbia University, is the speaker at the third session of the Forum and is this year's recipient. It was thought by the Forum that he would fit the model of excellence of which Mr. Carmichael so often spoke.

Speak Out Against Service Selective

Dear Friend:

As you may recall, two years ago I introduced S. 1275, a bill substituting a voluntary armed force for the present selective service system. The bill was not directly considered by the Armed Services Committee and efforts to incorporate amendments in the Selective Service Act were defeated. The draft's continuance emphasizes the inconsistency of government coerced service with America's concept of freedom. This was the principle reason that I introduced S. 503, the Voluntary Military Manpower Procurement Act of 1969.

This year, the chances of passage are somewhat better than in 1967. Major news magazines such as TIME and NEWSWEEK have contained articles commenting favorably upon a voluntary military; President Nixon supports the concept as well as well-known figures from both sides of the political spectrum including John K. Galbraith, James Farmer, David Dellinger, Milton Friedman, and Barry Goldwater. However, well-known political leaders, economists, and even the President may not be the catalyst for ending the draft. In order to move the nation it will be necessary that those who have fought conscription over the past few years enter the discussion and make their views known. The present Selective Service Act will not terminate until 1971 unless we take action to change that situation now.

Efforts aimed at securing committee consideration by generating and influencing local forces would be instrumental in building support for draft abolishment. In addition to letters to your own Congressmen and the Armed Services Committee, I would recommend letters to the editor of your local newspaper; encouraging labor, business, farm, and professional leaders as well as civic and educational organizations to express their views.

Sincerely,
Mark O. Hatfield
United States Senator

Union Elections Held This Week

Nominations for Union offices were held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of last week. Judging from the results, the student body either did not know when the nominations were, or they simply do not care.

The requirements for holding or running for an office were relatively simple and not very confining. The nominee must hold a 2.0 overall Q.P.; he must have worked on a Union Committee for a year; he may not hold another office while serving as a Union officer; he must have completed at least 24 hours.

Which one of the requirements was preventing the majority of students to file for an office? Where were the people who griped and complained all year, saying that the office holders on this campus are incompetent? Where are those people who could have filed but didn't want to accept responsibility?

The two candidates who did file for a Union office are: Mary Lou Ingram for Chairman and Carolyn Bobbitt for Vice-Chairman. The positions of Secretary and Treasurer were not even filed for. Mary Lou Ingram, a junior, is presently serving as Treasurer of the Union office and Treasurer of the University Forum Council. Carolyn Bobbitt, also a junior, is Co-chairman of the Arts Committee, a position which allowed her to be a member of the Program Board, a member of the Student Court and a member of the Steering Committee for FAC.

Miss Bobbitt stated that the Union officers will be carrying much more responsibility next year because of the new Dorms. It will require traveling and correspondence; a good relationship with other schools must be maintained."

Mrs. Ingram, on the other hand, says that this year the "Union is going to have to take a position as to what its purpose or philosophy is" she also says that she plans to emphasize "organization" instead of each Committee working as a separate entity.

Hudson Stars In "Ice Station Zero"

While watching "Ice Station Zebra" at the Carolina Theater, I almost forgot about the story because of the sharpness and splendor of the photography. The process of cinerama contributing to the sharpness, I could almost imagine the ocean mist spraying into the audience as the submarine would burst through the ocean's surface from below. Not only is some of the scenery keen but also quite unique-at least to myself. Because of my little familiarity with such scenery as the North Pole and miles beneath the surface of the ocean, I found the scenery amazing and original.

Not only is the scenery in "Ice Station Zebra" original, but also is the story. In contrast to the usual glamorous spy story, "Ice Station" has an all-male cast and the action takes place either in the submarine or at the stark-white North Pole site. "Ice Station" also has the unusual aspect of "believability". The story of international intrigue is not preposterous as most of the recent spy stories are. It's believable and possible.

Rock Hudson stars as the captain of a submarine who has been commissioned to take two British undercover agents to the North Pole to recover something of which he has no knowledge. Patrick McGoohan has stereotyped himself as he plays the "James Bond-type" spy who is hard-nosed, arrogant and aloof. McGoohan stars on the television series "Secret Agent" in which he plays a similar role. Ernest Borgnine is McGoohan's confident, both British spies although Borgnine is a defected Russian. Athlete-Actor Jim Brown plays a tough sergeant in charge of the submarine crewmen.

The intrigue progresses as the men begin distrusting one another-each suspects the other of being a Russian spy. The Russians are interested in the North Pole site also.

"Ice Station Zebra," showing now at the Carolina, Charlotte's only Cinerama theater, is an unusual movie. The story and photography are both unusual and very entertaining.
