Student Legislature Acts on the Security Guard Situation and Initiates a Petition

Stewart Auten calls meeting to order.

Auerbach Assumes Editorship of the Literary Magazine "3"

The Publications Board met on Wednesday, February 26. For the first order of Business, Dr. McCall reminded the Board that nominations for the Journalism Award should be brought to the magazine, this year known as "3". Last semester's editor, Roger Grosswald, explained to the Board the reasons for the delay in the publication of the magazine and showed the proofs of the Board agreed after a long discussion in which its members were assured that the problems plaguing the magazine during the first semester has been overcome and that the second edition of the next meeting. The Award is given each year to the staff member who has, in the Board's opinion, given the most service to his publication and has contributed the best quality writing.

The next order of business was the approval of Eileen Aurbach as the second semester editor of the campus literary magazine. The editor is elected by the BARNSTORMER staff subject to the approval of the Board.

The major portion of the meeting concerned the literary magazine which came out yesterday. Among the difficulties the staff experienced were lack of experience in putting a magazine together and the failure of people to turn in promised literary and art contribution.

Mr. Grosswald then explained that due to a misunderstanding with the finance committee of the Student Legislature, he had spent almost his entire allocation; he then asked the Board to approve his going before the Legislature to ask for additional funds. The magazine could be published before the second semester ended. The Board also approved an additional allocation of $200 from its remaining funds. This allocation left $200 in the Board's account with which to deal with any emergency that might occur in the other publications.

The election of the editors of the ROGUES 'N RASCALS and the CAROLINA JOURNAL were set to coincide with the class elections in April.

Students, Faculty Retreat

A chartered bus will leave from the University Union parking lot next Friday, March 7, carrying 60 persons composed of 7 administrators, 20 faculty members and 33 students to the Betsy-Jeff Penn 4-H Center in Reidsville, North Carolina.

The purpose of the three-day Retreat will be to help "create a total community atmosphere, to ensure that there is always a line of communication open between the component parts of the university community, and to realize the true equality of the various roles existing within the university family."

The retreat, which is the first of its kind for UNC-C, was organized by a committee of students and faculty under the direction of Mr. Howard Winniman, assistant director of the University Union. The plans when completed were presented to Chancellor Colvard,

"who approved it and found private funds to make the trip possible."

Mr. Winniman, when questioned by the JOURNAL, said that the "names were picked fairly and objectively." The group of students were chosen from among the student leaders and a random selection was made from students at large. This is to insure that an accurate cross section of

Governor Scott to Be Contacted Soon

About twenty black students walked out of the Student Legislature meeting of Feb. 24 in protest to the legislature's refusal to meet their demands. The meeting was held at 11:30 A.M. in the hope that some students would attend, and attend they did - in excess of a hundred.

The meeting began with the rather routine swearing in of four new members and the rejection of Gordon Lawrence's resignation. In the President's Report, next on the agenda, Bill Billups spoke of the possibility of a student discount plan by next fall with several local merchants and encouraged students to participate in the investigation of possible discount locations. Mr. Billups then introduced Student Court Chief Justice John Lafferty, who announced the vacancy on the court and suggested several possible candidates. Two of these were nominated from the floor; both were interested juniors who fulfill the quality point requirements. Jerry Hammond was present and was asked to leave the room, which he did. Gus Psomadakis questioned the legitimacy of voting on the two candidates with the limited information available. The vote was taken and was a tie - nine to nine. Chairman Stewart Auten broke the tie by voting for Hammond. Mr. Billups then suggested the following dates for Spring elections: SGA elections - March 31 through April 3 (with nominations to fall between March 24 and 26), Class elections - April 21-25 (with nominations to fall between April 14 and 16). The legislature passed a motion to this effect. Mr. Billups then charged the legislature once again, explaining that the body had only two-and-a-half months in which to do something.

Mr. Psomadakis stated in his Judicial Committee report that the committee had approved the constitution of the Forty-Niner Sports Car Club. The Legislature then passed the constitution. Then he stated that he had received constitutions from both the Flying Club and the Black Student Union, but that both would have to go through committee.

Under new business Mr. Psomadakis questioned the role of the security force that is now on campus. He wished to know where the ultimate authority concerning the force was concentrated and just exactly what were the correct rules governing parking and traffic on campus. Mr. Billups replied that the force was responsible to Mr. Batchelor and the Chancellor. He was corrected on this by Rick Arnett, who stated that the force is directly under the Governor of North Carolina. Mr. Arnett suggested that the legislature draw up a petition to the effect that the force be placed under the jurisdiction of the Chancellor and that this petition be placed in the hands of the History Club for distribution. The petition is to be sent to Governor Scott.

While Mr. Arnett was conferring with a legislator concerning the wording of the motion, Mr. Ben Chavis and Mr. Ron Caldwell speaking on behalf of the Black Student Union, demanded that the legislature forego all normal procedure concerning the submitted constitution and vote on it immediately. After much discussion, the legislature declined to suspend the rules, and the black students filed out (see related article on page 4).

The motion concerning the petition to Governor Scott was passed unanimously. Sherry Drake suggested that more pay telephones be installed in the Union and that stamp machines be made available to students. Steve Rayborn suggested that the barbed wire around construction areas be removed. The legislature voted to address a letter to the phone company concerning the telephones, and President Billups said that he would see to it that the wire was removed. Sophomore Representative Sonia Mizell brought up the missing clapper that belongs to the campus bell. It was decided to investigate the matter. The meeting was adjourned until March 7 at 11:30 in the Parquet Room.
