Pineville Dinner Theater

It's "Just Fine"

Chef

By Wayne Eason

The Pineville Country Dinner Theatre of Charlotte is presenting the World Premier of "Just Fine," a brand new laugh riot by David Wiltse, thru May 4. The play enters around two bachelors living in New York. When Alan, played by Millie Fields, Follows Bric, Tye Heckman, home one day in response to an advertisement for a roommate that Eric and Ron, played by John Blakeny, have played in the newspaper, the fun and laugh riot begins. Chuck Hadley plays the part of the landlord of the apartment building. He is against the arrangement at first, but then decides that perhaps a woman wouldn't hurt the appearance of the apartment as well as be control over Ron and Eric. Alan's brother Mike, protrayed by Stu Williams, discovers the setup. Mike works for a trucking firm and he is more muscle than brawn. Nevertheless, he concedes and allows his young sister to remain. Barbara Barton plays Dominique, one of Eric's many the girlfriends. She and Mike have the much in common, intellectually. brilliant cast under the

Dr. Diament Studies Sexual Attitudes

By Tim Britton SEX? before or after dinner, or

"Premarital sex does necessarily lead to neurosis, nor should it be treated as an indication of such. " Dr. Louis Diamant, Clinical Psychologist, Chairman of the Psychology Dept. at U.N.C.-C., further explained that pre-marital sex is not necessarily correlated to emotional instability, and that if neurosis was observed, it was most likely existant previously, and was merely expressed by premarital further discussion, Dr. Diamant explained that if one has to attach sex to neurosis, it would be more correct to hypothesize that the repression of sex, instead of sex itself could be directly connected to a form of neurosis. When asked if he would comment on the "liberalization" of sexual attitudes, Dr. Diamant stated that he would interpret this as an indicator of the movement away from the traditional, conservative values, to a new more liberal life-style.

When questioned about his most recent study, centered around the sexual activity of our upper level liberal arts majors, Dr. Diamant brought out the fact that his study showed that contemporary University culture frowns on a male student with a purtanical attitude towards sex. while at the same time allowing a choice to female students. Also worthy of mention is the assertion that there seems to be more of a demand for a responsible relationship, of a more meaningful nature before traditional values are discarded.

When asked his opinion of indiscriminate distribution THE PILL, Dr. Diamant declined to comment because he didn't feel that he was qualified to discuss the physiological aspects of continued use. He did make some pertinent comments though. One in particular dealt with his observation that the introduction of the pill, and its control by M.D.'s has set them up as guardians of our sex morals. We were in agreement, that this was certainly an interesting area of study, and quite controversial. The largest portion of research dealing with pre-marital sex is done by sociologists, but Dr. Diamant consented to an informal and was interview cooperative in demonstrating that he was abreast of the issues.

trash.....trash that was once in neat piles by the roadside, time has strewn all over the place. One of the most detestable conditions of a ghetto is an almost complete lack of public service. The lack of trash collection is manifest. Only a detailed study could survey the additional lack of public services less obvious. Urban Renewal and other anti-poverty programs have good intent, but often their implementation is uncoordinated. It will be impossible to effectively eradicate slum areas without careful attention to the needs of the inhabitants. Present policy is merely a transfer of a ghetto from one area to another. It is hoped that enlightened thought as well as civic involvement, coordinated with the new black voice in local politics will re-evaluate urban renewal, and immediately implement the necessary changes.
