

Entertainment at the Barringer

tour scheduled to begin in June. The "Candle" has an extensive repertoire consisting of tunes by Ian Tyson (of Ian and Sylvia), Gordon Lightfoot, and including what could be considered tunes by folk purist authors, (ig., Bob Dylan) The amazing thing about this duo is that they sing very well together making one believe that they couldn't possibly have been together for just three short months. They have a sound and performance unmatched by any other group in the Charlotte area.

Dick has about ten unpublished original compositions that will go into their first album slated for release in the fall. This summer on the Roga label they have a single coming out. Their tour this summer is under the auspices of Charmack Productions. The itinerary of the tour is still in the planning stages.

Things are happening fast for this duo of extraordinarily talented young men. To be sure, their career is snowballing at an ever increasing rate. For a refreshingly different night out, filled with folk music in the traditional vein, coupled with two fine musicians, (not to mention the fact that they are two distinct, pleasing personalities) drop in at the Hornet's Nest in the Barringer Inn in downtown Charlotte.

For my money it is plain to see that with groups like The Sandlewood Candle and The Wayfarers, who were here on campus twice last year, that there is a resurgence in folk music. After all, wasn't it folk music first becoming commercial in the late 50's, that portrayed real life and that came to us with many, many messages? The Sandlewood Candle—perhaps the messiah bringing back our beloved songs of life as it really was—and is.

From the Editor

Bud has some very important appointments coming up soon. He will be making decisions that will determine the course of student government for the next year. I wish him all the good luck in the world and apologize for graduating - I'd like to be here to share what can be a great year.

In a final word of farewell to Mr. Stewart as Feature Editor of THE JOURNAL, I would like to thank him for the diligent effort that he put out most of the year (we've all had our bad weeks). As for his column, I haven't always agreed with what he said or what he chose for topics, but I have supported him in his decisions, because it was his column. He had never written a column before, so "Oh Year?" was as much an experiment for Bud as it was for you, the readers. According to technical journalistic canons, he has been subject to criticism. So have I. But we have been more concerned with doing the job to the satisfaction of the people who pay for THE JOURNAL - you, the students.

Bud got the job of Feature Editor on more than friendship - he got it because I respected him. As he leaves us for a more important job, he still commands that respect.

I extend my thanks and good wishes to Mr. Stewart's administration, and I encourage you all to give him the support that he deserves. Thank you.

Golf Team Is Compiling A Winning Record

By Mark Klafter

During the course of the present season, the University of North Carolina at Charlotte golf team has received far from the proper amount of notice that its accomplishments deserve.

Let us remedy that injustice. A young, inexperienced squad has amassed an 8-4 overall record and a 7-4 conference record in matches played up to the present. The conference record places the 49ers third among all teams.

It should be noted that the Dixie Conference Golf champion is not decided by regular season play (as in basketball), but puts everything at stake in the conference tournament, which climaxes the entire season.

Most significant element up to this point has been the steady development of the golfers as the season has progressed. Scores are not fluctuating as violently as earlier and much needed confidence is being instilled.

With one more regular season match remaining (against Belmont Abbey, whom the 49ers defeated earlier), the team is hopeful of "peaking" just about the time of the conference tourney, May 1 and 2. The squad has captured its last three matches against Lynchburg, Methodist, and UNC-G, and a win over the Abbey might propel the 49ers with enough momentum to take the crown.

Commenting on the team's tournament possibilities Coach Paul Fleming said, "We have as good a shot as anyone. Lynchburg and St. Andrews should provide the stiffest competition. Nevertheless, anyone can win."

The boys responsible for the team's current success will all return next year, already buoying hopes for future seasons. They are freshman Chester Melton, sophomores Steve Hillen, Tom Elliot, John Rickleton, Charley Alexander and junior Fred Rees and Pete Townsley.

As was mentioned, the Dixie conference golf tournament will be played Thursday and Friday May 1 and 2 at the Cypress Lakes golf course in Fayetteville.

University Governance Committee

Dr. Otis Singletary, Executive Vice Chancellor of the University of Texas System, spoke to an open session of the University Governance Committee Monday, April 14. Dr. Singletary spoke as a consultant on the problems of governing a University.

According to Dr. Singletary, the problem on the campus today is "the collapse or disintegration of the college campus' sense of community." The solving of this problem is vital to the future of higher education. The problem stems from the fact that there is no longer a clear understanding of the roles of student, faculty, administration, and trustees. None of the groups are sure any longer just where their authority begins and where another group's ends.

Dr. Singletary then went on to define what he considers each group's role. The major ingredient of the change was the "new student" that is appearing or has appeared on campus. He believes that there is a great deal of misconception about these student activists. Many college officials have failed to recognize these individuals and have failed to learn to deal with this new phenomena.

The three primary issues on the campus today are the war, civil rights, and university reform. These issues must be cleared campus by campus. And all that he could advise the committee and assorted interested visitors was that we recognize these problems immediately and prepare to deal with them.
