

Consultants to Advise On Masters in Management

A team of prominent consultants will advise the University of North Carolina at Charlotte September 22 and 23 on its proposed master's degree program in management.

The consultants are Dr. Donald John Dart, president of St. Andrews Presbyterian College; Dr. James F. Kane, dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of South Carolina; Dr. William A. Owens, Jr., Director of the Psychometric Laboratory at the University of Georgia; and Luther H. Hodges, Jr., Senior Vice President and City Executive of North Carolina National Bank in Charlotte.

Dr. Hart was formerly dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Florida and president of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business in 1967-68. Dr. Kane was formerly executive secretary of that Association.

Dr. Owens was formerly with the Occupational Research Center at Purdue University.

The UNC-C graduate program must go through the appropriate channels for the approval of graduate work by the University of North Carolina and then to the North Carolina Board of Higher Education.

The 1969 General Assembly gave the Board of Higher Education authority to recommend approval of the spending of $2.3 million for new programs at state universities. Officials at UNC-C hope to receive funds from this source for the graduate program in business.

Dr. Allan Palmer, chairman of the Division of Economics and Business Administration at UNC-C, said that the new program will be called the Master of Management rather than the Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) because it covers a broader scope than just business administration.

The proposed program would allow options in financial management, industrial management, marketing and transportation management, and public administration.

Dr. Palmer said that the proposal for the master's degree program in management is made in response "to a large and increasingly acute demand for versatile and well-trained managers and administrators in a dynamic urban environment."

He said that there are at present no opportunities for graduate-level education in management in the Charlotte area.

The proposal documents the case for the program and lists the number of persons from area industries expressing an interest in graduate study in management. Some of the firms with larger numbers of employees expressing interest include Duke Power Company, 76; North Carolina National Bank, 75; Fiber Industries, 50; First Union National Bank, 44; Collins & Aikman Corp., 34; Union Carbide Corp., 27; Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., 20; and Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., 17;

The total number of requests for the program to date is 660.

Blacks Hired

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte has appointed its second Miss UNC-C as an admissions counsellor. Miss Scoggins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scoggins, Sr. of Charlotte was appointed after completing her requirements for the B. A. degree in English.

Miss Scoggins was Miss UNC-C in the Spring of 1969. She was the first black student to win a beauty title here.

Miss Scoggins will work closely with the predominantly black high schools and with disadvantaged students in area high schools, according to admissions director Robert Grogan. Miss Scoggins stressed the fact that her duties will not be limited to black students. All area high school students and any potential UNC-C student are of concern to Miss Scoggins as an admissions counsellor.

In the coming months, Miss Scoggins will be attending college days in North Carolina high schools. She will also work with community and junior colleges as well as area technical institutes. Miss Scoggins' first trip as admissions counsellor to an area school will be this week in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg system.

"I know that I am assuming a lot of responsibility and that the position will require a great deal of energy and emotional involvement," Miss Scoggins said.

Originally from Kingsport, Tennessee; Miss Scoggins is a graduate of Allen High School in Asheville. She attended Beloit College in Wisconsin and Livingstone College in Salisbury before transferring to UNC-C.

Dr. Joseph F. Schell, Chairman of the Mathematics Department at UNC-C has announced the appointment of Mr. Julian Pyles as instructor of mathematics. Mr. Pyles, a native Alabaman, is the first full-time black teacher to be employed at UNC-C. Mr. Pyles received his Master's Degree in Mathematics from the University of Michigan.

In addition, two part-time black faculty members have assumed duties at UNC-C. Mrs.

Elsie Woodard, who also teaches at Johnson C. Smith University, has joined the English department. Part of Mrs.

Woodard's duties will be team-teaching with other English professors. Mr. Hoyle Martin, also part-time, has joined the Economics and Business Department here at UNC-C.

New Miss UNC-C

Paula Gallant

By Jackie Haney

Miss Dianne Scoggins who was elected Miss UNC-C for 1969-70 last spring graduated at the end of summer session and is now employed by the university as an admissions counselor. Due to her graduation, Miss Scoggins will relinquish her title as Miss UNC-C to Miss Paula Jean Gallant, last year's first runner-up. Miss Gallant is a sophomore majoring in nursing. She was Charlotte's Junior Miss in 1967 and was first runner-up in the North Carolina Junior Miss Pageant. As a student at UNC-C, Miss Gallant is presently chairman of the Coffee House Committee and was elected as a representative to the Consolidated University Student Council.

Diane Scoggins

On Campus Saved

"On Campus", UNC-C's weekly television program may very well be bi-weekly this year. The show will be telecast on Thursday nights at 8:00 p.m. with a possible re-run broadcast on Sunday nights.

Wayne Eason, one of the producers, has promised that this year's show will be entertaining as well as informative. Whereas last year's "On Campus" was almost exclusively a "talk show", this year's version will be "experimental." Wayne indicated that the staff of the show will try to cover as wide a range of topics as possible. The telecasts will involve anything from music, poetry and local talent to discussions of campus, local and national issues. In general, the staff will try to cover all aspects of University life and those things that affect it.

The staff consists of Wayne Eason and Roland De Loche, co-producers; Paul Ferguson, host and moderator; Ron Foster, Special Activities director; and Clay Owen, Public Relation's director.

Stewart Returns

CHARLOTTE - When the nation's university presidents and the presidents of their student bodies gathered this past weekend in Washington for a "Presidents to Presidents Conference," the University of North Carolina at Charlotte was represented.

UNC-C Chancellor D. W. Colvard and Student Government Association President Bud Stewart participated in the program sponsored by the Association of Student Governments.

They heard talks by Robert Finch, Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; Commissioner of Education Dr. James E. Allen, Jr.; and General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director.

Stewart is not only president of the UNC-C student body but is also chairman of the presidents of all six campuses of the University of North Carolina.

Topics at the conference included, the draft and ROTC, campus disorders and possible legislation, and the role of the government in higher education.

IFC News

Alpha Kappa Psi

Alpha Kappa Psi is the professional business fraternity here on this campus. It is the oldest professional fraternity of its type in the nation. On September 29, their formal rush program will begin and it will run thru October 3 with a six week pledge period beginning soon after. All business administration, economics, and accounting majors are cordially invited to attend the smoker that will be announced. Watch the posters on the bulletin boards for time and date. Our mid-east regional conference convenes October 17 and runs thru October 19. It will be held by Alpha Tau chapter at Chapel Hill. The UNC-C chapter (Eta Omega) will have two official delegates attending as well as all the brothers who wish to attend. The brothers of AKPsi hope that all UNC-C students will express their school spirit both in intramurals and during basketball season. Support our 49ers.

Academic Calendar

Fall Semester

September 26, Friday - Last day to withdraw (or drop a course) with refund

October 10, Friday - Last day to drop courses without grade evaluation

November 4, Tuesday - Reports of unsatisfactory grades by faculty

November 25, Tuesday - Last day of classes before Thanksgiving holidays

December 1, Monday - Classes resume

December 1, Monday - Last day to file degree applications for May 31, 1970 commencement

December 8-12, Monday-Friday - Pre-registration for spring semester 1970

December 16, Tuesday - Last day to drop a course

December 17, Wednesday - Last day of classes before Christmas holidays

January 5, Monday - Classes resume

January 13, Tuesday - Last day of classes

January 14, Wednesday - Reading period

January 15, Thursday - Final examinations begin

January 23, Friday - Final examinations end

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"YOU THINK ENGINEERING SUPPLIES ARE EXPENSIVE! YOU SHOULD SEE WHAT I'M OUT FOR JUST THIS ONE COURSE IN MARRIAGE & FAMILY!"