

Miami Out? Try H.P. Van Hoy's Farm

So you can't get enough money together for the pop festival in Miami or Fort Lauderdale, and it seems as if there's nowhere to go? Don't resign yourself to spending a dull Easter Vacation because there is somewhere. It is more unique than all the pop festivals rolled into one; it's the "Fiddler's Convention" on H. P. Van Hoy's Farm at Union Grove, just off Highway 901.

If you love the flavor of blue grass, it's the place to be. Fiddles, banjos, and guitars. Lots of happy sounds!

There will be at least 150 bands present to entertain over the three-day competition. Camping and dining facilities will be available at the festival grounds.

Admission charges are as follows: Thursday, $1.00; Friday, $2.00; Saturday, $3.00. Camping is $3.00 per vehicle for the entire event.

A special attraction for UNCC students will be the "Mole Hill Highlanders." One of its members is Mr. Charles Dunlop, a philosophy teacher at the University. This band specializes in Scottish and Irish tunes, which are mostly ballads. The "Mole Hill Highlanders", whose style has been influenced by the Grand Old Opry, has participated in numerous fiddler's conventions throughout the southern area.

This will be the 46th Annual World's Competition held at Union Grove. It will feature old time as well as blue grass music. It remains the only convention of its type.

Alan Hicock informed the legislature that the Union is in violation of its present constitution.

Union officials are in the process of restructuring the Union government.

Had the legislature not chosen to waive the Union's present constitution, the Judicial Committee could have found the Union in violation of its constitution because the election clause has already been violated.

David Sanders, Barbara Rockecharlie, and Gordon Lawrence were named as members of the co-ordinating committee for the Student Advisory Committee.

Powell Jones was named as SGA representative for the Student Activities Committee, filling a vacancy that has existed all year.

In other business, the legislature recommended to the Student Activities Committee that Kappa Alpha Psi, formerly Phi Nu Pi, and Kappa Sigma, formerly Sigma Tau, both national social fraternities, be chartered.

An amendment that raised the number of regular female cheerleaders from 7 to 9 was approved for the cheerleader's constitution. All other cheerleader ratios remain the same.

The Ways and Means Committee named the Course Evaluation Committee members and announced that the first meeting would take place on March 23, 1970.

Rules governing placement of campus and off-campus publicity were approved for the first time this year.

The presidents of each class were designated a committee to nominate a recipient for the Student Government Award. Nominations will be considered and a recipient elected at the March 23rd meeting of the legislature.

Cor's 'War Children' Depicts Horror Of Man's Inhumanity

"War's Children," a movie put out by the Committee of Responsibility, was shown here last Friday picturing not only what has happened to children in Vietnam but what COR is doing to help some of them. The Committee of Responsibility for War-Burned and War-Injured Vietnamese Children was organized in 1967 by medical professionals and other private citizens horrified by the casualty toll among Vietnamese citizens. C O R doctors traveled Vietnam studying the hospitals, villages, orphanages, etc. The situation was assessed and the committee's plea sent to the people.

At first, Saigon and U.S. officials were reluctant to allow admittance of severely war-damaged children into American communities. After several months the first children were evacuated in October of 1967.

Since that time, over 63 children have arrived; 25 returned and 38 still being treated. Considering the cost of maintaining field representatives and medical consultants in Vietnam and New York, the cost-per child figure is $10,000.

The Durman-Chapel Hill Chapter of COR was formed in Nov., 1968, to raise funds for two children to be treated at Duke hospital Ngo Long, a 10 year old boy and Pham Thi Huong, a 6-year-old girl; arrived July 1969 and have been moved into temporary foster homes in Durhan and Chapel Hill until they may be returned to their families in Vietnam. COR hopes to return them physically rehabilitated and believing in something other than man's inhumanity.

The national Committee plans to continue this type of program indefinitely, but they are also planning for the cease-fire day when resources can be shifted to Vietnam and there multiplied in effectiveness.
