

KILGO'S DANCELAND

The Charlotte College Social Committee went into much care and preparation to present to C.C. one of the most enjoyable and sociable dances ever to be presented at Charlotte College. The gymnasium was the scene of masses of swirling swinging dancers on the night of February 20 when Charlotte College was the site of a radio broadcast and at the same time a danceland haven.

The special guest at the dance was Jimmy Kilgo who presented his well known "Kilgo's Corner" program over station W.I.S.T. Instead of having an orchestra to "reel and deal" the music, the students were serenaded by varied musical arrangements played by the most popular instrumental and vocal groups of the country. Of course this music came to us via a hi-fi record player.

Jimmy is a graduate of Charlotte College. After having graduated from C.C. he attended the University of North Carolina to earn his A.B. degree in radio. While at U.N.C. Jimmy served as president of the Communication Club. Jimmy joined station W.I.S.T. in 1952 and has since built quite a name for himself around Charlotte and vicinity. As for his announcing qualities, tune to station W.I.S.T. and listen for yourself.

A coffee hour was presented in accordance with the dance and the guests had everything they needed for a special evening.

Another help in making the activity a success was the presence of nurses from Presbyterian Hospital who were invited to attend. The fellows that came stag didn't have any trouble finding a partner and we've heard that some good friendships blossomed from the occasion. In retaliation to C.C.'s invitation the Presbyterian nurses invited C.C. students to a dance at the hospital. There was a big response to this invitation also.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA MEET

The Future Teachers of America held their last meeting February 19, in the cooking lab. The purpose of the meeting was a discussion of the Special Education Department of the city schools. Many of the members of this group are in this field of teaching.

There were seven members present at the meeting and a number of members of the Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary society in education, who sponsored the meeting. The group also boasts of having one male at the meeting, Jim Babb.

Any one interested in the teaching profession is invited to attend these meetings.

STUDENT COUNCIL

It was 8:05 o'clock on a Thursday night. The halls were quickly emptying and the noise and confusion was dying in the distance. I had time for just one more cigarette before crossing the threshold into a new world of unsolved problems.

Upon entering the library annex I became spellbound by the dead quietness of the people seated around the Student Council table. Right away the thought struck me that someone had died. But upon a hurried investigation into this impossible situation I soon discovered the cause for such a profound quietness. Darrel Avery was absent tonight. His Studebaker had become lodged between two ant holes and he was trying to get it out before the ants tore it to peaces part by part. He told me the other day that his car was the only automobile spoken of in the Bible. The Lord said "Have mercy on all creeping creatures."

The roll was soon called and Bill Vickery was asked to give a financial report for the quarter. This was a very precarious situation because Bill was in the middle of a deep snooze. After an eye opening moment he began searching through his pockets for his report. Bill Reid finally became annoyed and blasted out "I know good and well that we're not broke." Finally Mr. Vickery came out with the report. It was on the back side of an adding machine tape of which he had used to total his poker winnings of the night before.

Suddenly Ken Harris jumped out of his seat like Tarzan capturing gorillas and yelled, "The annual needs more money." Ann Padgett quickly retorted with, "Who do you think I am, Superman?"

John Scroggs was asked to give a report on the assembly committee and since he wasn't present at the meeting everyone took advantage of the opportune moment and a vote was taken to do away with the planned assembly. I'll give anyone in the Council two to one odds that he'll be at the next meeting with a shotgun.

The Student Council has been thinking of getting together outside of planned meetings for the purpose of getting things off their chests without taking up time at meetings. They have decided that if they can have so much fun together at the scheduled meetings that the fun they can have outside a meeting will be immeasurable.

After reading this column one might think that the Council is all fun and no work. If you think this you are only half correct. The Student Council controls all activities that are held at C.C. and also controls much of the money paid by the students for extracurricular events. If you have any "beefs" about what your money is being spent for, come and argue with us.

By the way, we'd like to say that Gus Travis doesn't have anything on this column.

FRESHMAN DANCE

Plans are being drafted for the Freshman Dance which will be held May 17th at the Elk's Club. Further information concerning this dance has not been released but should be known sometime in the near future.

PHILOSOPHY

Don't speak too harshly of your enemies. You made them.

ROOST GETS COAT OF PAINT

In order to keep the fashion trends up to the standard of equipment to be found in the Owl's Roost a new coat of paint has been added to the store. Now along with the ninety-nine, forty-four, one hundredths per cent pure cleanliness rating, the Roost can boast the same of the paint. Visit the Owl's Roost and see your friends.
