

Spring Sports For CC

Now that the basketball season is over, there are efforts underway to promote new sports squads to represent Charlotte College. The sports under consideration are: tennis, golf, and bowling. There are innumerable facilities in the Charlotte area which could be used for practice and matches, and such squads would not need daily practice, so work or school would not necessarily interfere.

A tennis team could practice on one of the municipal courts and play matches on the opposition's home grounds. The team could practice on the week-ends.

A golf team could easily be organized, for with the sport being so widespread, there are bound to be those in the student body who possess some degree of skill.

Bowling groups are being formed in Charlotte with little regard for skill or experience, and such a group, while not necessarily of championship caliber, could nevertheless afford an inexpensive means of having fun.

If any phase of this article interests you, please contact the sports editor of the Charlotte Collegian. Don't worry about skill or lack of it; many have hidden talents which could be exploited with a little effort.

New Handbook Available

Whom do I see about that article in the Collegian? . . . And what is the name of our year book? Or, why in the world do we pay an activity fee of $4.00? Oh, yes, who did you say was our student council president? How are laws set up around here? Do I have a voice in the affairs-of-state?

I imagine that all of you have asked one of these questions, or similar ones. Chances are, you haven't received an answer either. The Charlotte College Handbook is a capsule of ready information about your college and your part in it! Rules, regulations, activities, privileges, and most important of all, the constitution are in the Handbook.

With elections coming and activities ahead for all, it would pay each student to make a trip to the college office and pick up a copy of the Handbook.

to be a great party.) Pledge week will get underway at that time. Be on the lookout for some of the C. C. guys in crazy get-ups and with mixed-up minds.

Two new clubs are being formed at Charlotte College. Congratulations on the birth of the Writers' Club.

Plans are underway this quarter for the organization of an honorary social science society. A chapter of Sigma Tau Sigma is being formed at the college; membership will be based on grades and hours in social studies.

C. C. clubs are doing great things. They help lend atmosphere to Charlotte College and bring together common interests of the students. The growth of our clubs is bound to aid in the growth of our college.

'57 CLASS RINGS

Another milestone in Owl Land was the selection and purchasing of class rings. The gold cirlet embodying the state seal, city-school seal, college name, and class date is highlighted by a ruby colored set (and if you are so fortunate, the Sigma Lambda Chi Fraternity signet).

Rings with date of graduation are made available to all students of Charlotte College. Measurements are taken once a year, but rings may be ordered through the Ring Committee at any time.

Congratulations, C. C. You are growing and glowing.

ELECTIONS

necessary to clarify that sentence. A new amendment would not be necessary if the constitution were subject to reasonable interpretation by a Parliamentary Committee of the Student Council. If its rulings were unsatisfactory, then an amendment would be considered. A Parliamentary Committee would certainly save time and effort. But the present Constitution does not provide for a Parliamentary Committee.

The constitution should make provision for by-laws. Such by-laws could be enacted by majority vote of the Student Council. By-laws are essential if the Student Council is to fully perform its duties as outlined in Article V, Section 4. The enactment of by-laws would remove the necessity of having a Constitutional amendment in order to do anything. For instance, if the Writers' Club desires to publish a magazine each year, a constitutional amendment would be necessary. Why not give the Student Council the authority to license publications? The constitution committee should investigate the advisability of by-laws.

Article IV, Section 4, Clause C provides for the removal of officers. Yet the constitutional requirements for impeachment are so stringent as to make such action an almost impossibility. A two-thirds vote of the student body is necessary. It has been the custom for less than two-thirds of the students to vote in any election. This requirement for removal should be a two-thirds vote of the students participating in the election.

Each article of the present Constitution needs to be examined. Let us hope that the constitution committee of the Student Council will do this. A revised constitution would be a forward step for Charlotte College.
