

From The Exchange List

Spring is here, and with it a new quarter, new courses, spring fever, and dull columnists. Please bear with me.

The Emory Wheel of Emory College, has as its slogan "the most independent college newspaper in the south." I concur. It is really refreshing to read a college publication where the students are left so much on their own to express their ideas. Many times other factors enter into what can or cannot be printed. Hats off to the Wheel for keeping alive the right of Freedom of the Press.

Myers Park has selected Harry Golden as their commencement speaker. In my opinion, they could have not made a better choice. The most interesting assembly program we have had this year was Mr. Golden's. Charlotte has many fine speakers under her wing. I would like to see more "local talent" on the program at assemblies. It would be a pleasant change from the classics to hear a speaker who just talks, or some music that can is to promote local facilities that will be of aid to family life programs.

Golf, boating, and fishing take up most of the little spare time Mr. Thornton has. Boating is perhaps his most intense activity in the way of hobbies, and to hear him tell of his cabin cruiser is pure delight. In connection with his boating, he has begun making model boats.

Mr. Thornton, commenting on his reasons for liking his teaching, says, "It is not only a very pleasant break to get away from people's problems, the students also are a sharp group. They really keep you alert."

A pet theory of mine is that we are like "human sponges." Relatively speaking, you are now a rather "dry sponge," absorbing knowledge and the ways of life. You not only are absorbing knowledge in the classrooms, but also absorb a little of theory, personality, and character from contact with the different students you see each day at college. Then, your education, your personality, your character is reflected by the method in which you "squeeze" yourself. A college education helps you to develop the right method. In short, a college education is definitely beneficial to you in any walk of life. If nothing more, it helps you to appreciate, to question, and to understand.

I know, it is hard at times. But it could mean the difference of life—or living.

I could not answer the question. Into the night I walked, a very confused person.

What wise one said, "Things printed can never be stopped; they are like babies baptized, they have a soul from that moment, and go on forever?"

If you want to hear a really lousy record, give a listen to the tear-jerker some money-hungry person has waxed about the death of "The Big Bopper" and his two cohorts. It's just my opinion, but this recording is an excellent one to throw away.

I say "Phooey!" on these unco-operative people around here who refused to give my reporters any news.

union and replaced two records in the juke-box with two others. They were the hit of the school. It seems that the students found that they could buy four minutes of silence from the machine. Sounds good, but they would charge us with breaking and entering over at "Louie's."

I end with this thought.

Spring has sprung, the grass has riz,

THE RECORD BOOTH

BY REID WENTZ

The biggest albums in the country are still Peter Gunn on RCA, The Flower Drum Song on Columbia, and Come Dance With Me by Frank Sinatra on Capital. Johnny Mathis' Open Fire, Two Guitars is coming up fast.

Columbia is apparently getting rich off of Mitch Miller and His Gang. Because of the huge success of Sing Along With Mitch and More Sing Along With Mitch, the label has cut a new album called Still More Sing Along With Mitch. If the demand keeps up, the next package could be titled Even Still More Sing Along With Mitch.

Memorial albums for Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens, and the Big Bopper have been released on Coral, Del Fi, and Mercury, respectively . . . Joni James has never sounded better than she does in her album of Hank Williams' songs. Her wistful voice is perfect for the melancholy ballads but seems slightly out of place on such songs as "Jambalaya."

Harry Belafonte gets better with each album. His new one for Victor, Love Is A Gentle Thing, gives him a chance to do the folk ballads for which he is so well known . . . To hear the best phrasing in many a day, listen to Keely Smith's new Capitol album Swingin' Pretty.

For that breathless feeling, listen to Julie London's London by Night. After one spin you'll never understand why Jack Webb divorced her.

Last, but not least, for those of you lucky enough to own stereo sets, RCA is having a special promotion where you buy one album at the regular price and get another for only one dollar. This brings the price down to the same as monoral.
