Si - Si Is Sent To The Printers

The annual staff, which has been hard at work since the beginning of this year, proudly announces that the annual has gone to press.

At the semester break, the staff was weakened by the loss of the associate editor, business manager, and organization editor. With this loss, the work of each member grew more demanding. One of the hardest problems was arranging for club pictures. "It's hard to find a time when people are free," says class editor Dick Raley.

The Si-Si staff had problems, but they were a determined and devoted group. An example of this came when they decided they needed an aerial shot of the school and campus. Tommy Estridge, laden with equipment, Dick Raley, and Judy Idol, editor, boarded a plane and prepared for take-off. Once in the air, Tommy busied himself taking pictures, but Judy and Dick were too sick to notice!

As the deadline grew closer, the work grew more serious and harder. Nightly sessions lasted until after one o'clock in the morning. Saturdays and Sundays were also wholly devoted to the annual. At last it was ready. Monday, February 25, the staff sent their product to press. The following Saturday night they relaxed and enjoyed themselves at a well-deserved party.

AAUP Unit Organized

A local chapter of the American Association of University Professors was organized last Thursday afternoon at a special meeting called by Miss Mary R. Denny, chairman of the English Department.

The group elected Dr. Robert W. Rieke president, Mr. John H. Norman vice-president, and Miss Marilyn Jody secretary-treasurer.

With Dr. Rieke chairing the second half of the meeting, the group voted to affiliate with the North Carolina Conference of A.A.U.P. Chapters and elected three delegates to attend the next conference meeting in Raleigh. The elected delegates were Miss Denny, Miss Eleanor M. Markham, and Miss Patricia Stephens.

Fourteen faculty members attended the organizational meeting, most of them already members of A.A.U.P. It was assumed that most of the faculty would be in attendance at the next meeting to be held three weeks later and would thus become charter members of the new chapter.

New Policies Are Adopted By Faculty

At its March meeting the faculty of Charlotte College approved unanimously a policy governing the probation and the exclusion of students who fall seriously short in their academic progress.

Since an overall quality-point average of 2.0 is required for graduation from the college, the faculty still considers that figure a minimum and recommends that students strive to maintain a safe margin above it. On the recommendation of the Admissions Committee, however, the faculty approved a permissible scale of lower averages if a student shows reasonable promise of raising his overall average in later semesters.

Students with 0-25 semester hours are classified as freshmen; 25-52, as sophomores; 52-90, as juniors; 90 and above, as seniors.

Under the first provision of the new faculty policy, a freshman or sophomore who makes less than a ratio of 1.25 quality points in any semester will be placed on probation. If his ratio for two consecutive semesters is below 1.25, he will be excluded. The same conditions of probation and exclusion will apply to a junior or senior if his ratio drops below 2.0.

The second provision governs exclusion for overall quality point average. A sophomore will be excluded if his overall average is below 1.5; a junior, below 1.75; and a senior, below 1.9.

The faculty also approved authority for the Admissions Committee, in administering this policy, to exclude any student who is not making satisfactory progress.

A third provision required transfer students to have maintained a "C" average at the former college and to be eligible to return there. Any exceptions to this provision would have to have prior approval of the Admissions Committee.

C.C.U.N. Chapter Is Annual Dinner Host

The Charlotte College Chapter of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations was host for the second annual banquet meeting of foreign students in this area on Saturday evening, March 9. In addition to foreign students enrolled at Charlotte College, guests came from Davidson College, Belmont Abbey, Johnson O. Smith, Queens College, Sacred Heart College and Wingate College.

Buffet service was arranged in the library, and many national dishes crowded each other on the long serving table. Both students and faculty members of Charlotte College had contributed favorite dishes to the banquet menu, which included Turkish, Polynesian, Russian, Spanish, French, Italian, and Mexican food. And good, sturdy American potato salad held its own very well in the competition. Familiar pickles and cheeses were scattered among the exotic dishes.

The party of seventy-five included also the members of the Charlotte chapter and President Bonnie E. Cone and several faculty members. The banquet meal proceeded informally and leisurely, and casual conversation filled the early part of the evening.

After the meal, the Charlotte College hosts conducted their guests downstairs to the large lecture room, and Mr. Larry Lynn, president of the local chapter, introduced Miss Rosanne Eubanks, the speaker of the evening. Miss Eubanks, a student at Queens College, had visited Russia for forty exciting days last summer on a special tour financed by the Queens student body.

Miss Eubanks showed slides and narrated her trips to Mos-

Pam Barrier Chosen Dance Sweetheart

Pam Barrier was named Sweetheart at the Valentine Dance on February 23. After the intermission ceremonies, Pam and her escort, Herb Baker, led the traditional first dance. Soon the court and other students joined them, and dancing continued until the last stroke of twelve.

This third successful dance of the year was held in the spacious Pine Room of the Queen Charlotte Hotel. Miniature azaleas decorated candle-lit tables. Couples swirled, twirled, swayed, and even twisted to the music of Bill McIntyre and his orchestra.

When the music stopped for intermission at ten o'clock, piping hot coffee and do-nuts were served. Dancing was not resumed until after the highlight of the evening, the presentation of the Sweetheart and her court by Sandra Hodges.

In the court attending Pam and Herb were: Judy Smith escorted by Mike Thompson, Carol Holden escorted by Freddy Martin, Sarah Freeman escorted by Tommy Winstead, Carol Minnick escorted by Paul Pettie, Mary Sadler escorted by Rolly Blythe, and Mary Fisher escorted by Reggie York.

The dance was arranged by the Social Committee of the Student Council, with Miss Patricia Stephens as faculty advisor.

Dean's List Published

With the release of the Dean's List on Friday, March 1, the student body gained a look at C. C.'s best students. Heading the list was Mrs. Doris Weddington, with straight A's.

A closer inspection of these thirty-seven students reveals that about half of them received scholarships. Their extra-curricular activities ranged from Student Council work to various clubs.

The most popular major seemed to be Mathematics, but the wide circle of majors does point out the need for a larger institution at Charlotte. Candy Kimball, Judy Niedringhaus, and

English Faculty Plans T-V Show

Five members of the English Department will appear on the "New Horizons" television show at 9:30 on Sunday morning, March 24, over Channel 9. In a half hour of informal discussion the group will present several aspects of role of humanities as the core curriculum in a college program.

Representing the English faculty on this program will be Mr. Sidney T. Stovall, moderator, Mrs. Ann S. Brantley, Miss Marilyn Jody, Mr. Joel H. Siegel, and Miss Patricia Stephens.

Although this group share a common interest in the English language and its literature, they will probably show widely varying degrees of emphasis on classical and contemporary authors, on esthetic form and literary content, on the history of ideas and the history of a language itself.

Being telecast at a reasonable half-hour on Sunday morning, this unexpected appearance of five members of the English faculty will come as a convenient bonus to the students of Charlotte College.
