

Witherspoon To Aid Students

By JIM CUNNING

Dr. Loy Witherspoon, the Chaplain of Charlotte College, provides a new service to students and faculty—that of religious counselor. He was born in Catawba County and graduated from Duke University.

He has spent some time in

Dr. Loy Witherspoon

Cairo where he taught philosophy and religion. While in Egypt he developed an interest in archeology and early Egyptian culture.

Dr. Witherspoon is interested in the arts—mainly symphony and opera. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Oratorio Singers.

Dr. Witherspoon would like to have The Theater of Concern come to Charlotte College. This group puts on one-act plays which try to combine a creative encounter with timely involvement in everyday life. The New York Times says the group is "colorful and religiously vibrant." Dr. Witherspoon hopes to have this group here in February.

Dr. Witherspoon would also like to organize a theater-in-the-round. This group will put on a series of one-act plays and do some play readings. Students whose interest in drama was excited by the recent appearance of Mr. Richard Gray and Miss Mayo Loiseau are asked to contact Dr. Witherspoon about the formation of a drama group on campus.

If you would like to see Dr. Witherspoon, his office is C U 217. He is usually in his office between 9:30 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. He will be glad to talk over any problems which the students may have.

Reaction Is Varied To Presidency

What kind of a President do you think Johnson will make? It is surprising the answers one can get. Upon asking this question to one cute young lady, this answer was received: "I don't know—you shouldn't ask questions like that."

Other comments: "Forget!"

"Very good." "Better than Goldwater." "I personally don't think much of Johnson, and I don't think he will make much of a President."

"I think he will be a thoughtful President and will justify his office. He will do what he thinks is best. He will do his best to make our relation with other countries better," said Bill Pressley.

"A lousy one. The reason is that I think that Goldwater would have done something about Russia where I think Johnson will not be as fast in his decisions," commented Nina Castles.

"I believe that L. B. Johnson will use the President's power to the best formulation of world politics, because he knows power. I feel that he knows his own capabilities and limitations. Ever since he has been in politics he has been a power figure and is familiar with the use of power. That is why I voted for him," said R. P. Andrews.

Lucktenburg Duo To Play In Library Auditorium Wednesday, Dec. 2

Music lovers will have the opportunity to hear a harpsichord and violin recital during the height of the Christmas season. The Lucktenburg Duo will treat Charlotte College students to this concert on Wednesday, Dec. 2 at 11:30 a. m. in the Library Auditorium.

The Lucktenburg Duo

Mr. Lucktenburg has been the first to bring "live" harpsichord music to many colleges and communities of the South and Midwest. A concert harpsichordist on tour must cope with problems not encountered by other musicians, such as packing the nine-foot long, 600-pound instrument. It is quite sensitive to changes in temperature and humidity and must be carefully adjusted and tuned before every performance. The harpsichord's physical bulk contrasts with its elegant, silvery tone, produced by tiny points of leather which pluck the strings.

Mrs. Lucktenburg was a member of the famous University of Alabama String Quartet until 1956, and has been a featured soloist with ranking symphony orchestras. The Lucktenbergs have two children and manage their busy home life in the midst of an active concert schedule. At present they live in Spartanburg, S. C. and teach at the Converse College School of Music.

of Raleigh, made an impassioned attack against the proposal. He said he did not believe the state had the money to expand to another campus without lowering the quality of present campuses. Mr. Harris said, "I believe we need to improve the three campuses we now have. Is the University seeking quality or quantity?"

Thomas Pearsall of Rocky Mount, another trustee, defended the proposal. He said, "A great tide of North Carolinians has moved into the Piedmont: the times are changing."

Mr. Pearsall said, "If we vote for this proposal, it will be the most significant thing this board of trustees has done in the past 100 years."

United Appeal Falls Short Of Goal

By November 12, funds from the Charlotte College United Appeal had slowly crept up to the $1,250 mark at the end of its three-week appeal. The registered $1,250 was about $500.00 shy of its aspired to $1,750 goal.

Pat Rudisill, freshman, headed a five-member committee which worked to solicit funds from the campus' faculty and students.

Carolyn Blackwelder, Marsha Fincher, Eloise Phleman, and Margaret Yancey were the other committee members.

Pat gave several factors which caused this year's appeal to be less successful than the 1963 drive where the funds surpassed the goal.
