

Bulldogs Defeat Charlotte 84-70

The Charlotte College 49ers had their three game win streak broken by Biltmore College of Asheville Monday, Dec. 7. The Bulldogs jumped out to an early lead and were never headed as they streaked an 84-70 victory in the game played in Asheville.

The 49ers offense seemed to be in cold storage in the early part of the game as they missed their first ten shots of the game allowing Biltmore to open up a ten point lead. When the offense finally got warmed up the Bulldogs' momentum had already carried them to a twenty point halftime lead, 45-25.

A rally by the 49ers fell short as they could only manage to get the lead down to nine points. Biltmore displayed a brilliant fast break offense throughout the game that often found men open for easy baskets.

The Bulldogs' scoring was lead by Butch Garbin who scored 26, many baskets coming from long range. Jerry Greene contributed 18 to Biltmore's cause.

Charlie Jacobs scored 21 points for the 49ers. He was followed by Jimmy James with 14 and Ronnie Robinson with 13.

CU Organization

erning Board of the CU organization which is a student organization.

In the event that such an administrative charter were to be granted to the CU by Dr. Cone, the CU organization would, in effect, become an official branch or agency of the college administration. This would mean that all formal ties with the student body would be dissolved.

The question is then, do we want an organization that conducts the majority of our extra-curricular activities responsible to us, the student body, or to the administration of the college?

49ers Miss Century Mark By Two; Crush North Carolina Wesleyan 98-60

The Charlotte College 49ers displayed a balanced scoring attack once again as they defeated North Carolina Wesleyan College 98-60 Saturday, Dec. 5.

Charlie Jacobs scored 25 points to lead the team as all five starters scored in double figures.

The 49ers had a battle on their hands in the first half. Wesleyan stayed close until late in the half when the 49ers opened up a good lead. However, the lead diminished to nine points at halftime, 43-44.

The second half started out like it would be a close affair until the 49ers opened up a 74-54 lead with about nine minutes to play. Jimmy James played an important role in this spurt by popping in three baskets.

Charlotte nearly hit the century mark as Wesleyan began pressing, allowing many free baskets. The game was turned into a rout in the closing minutes.

Ronnie Robinson added 19 points to Jacob's 25, even though he fouled out with 10:49 remaining. Both Robinson and Jacobs are averaging better than twenty points per game for the 49ers this season.

Tommy Gilliam contributed 15 points and 15 rebounds followed by Wally McGinty with 14 points and Jimmy James with 12 points to complete the 49ers scoring.

Dave Drady and Mike Pratt were the only two from Wesleyan to score in double figures. They had 22 and 13 respectively.

Great Personalities Go Through Certain Period Of No Identity

By DAVE WANNEY

If such a thing exists, one short cut to an education is reading biography and autobiography, with emphasis on the former, for the latter is often shaped and shaded to protect the individual writing it. In biography one may see the problems life presents and how endowed individuals have attempted to deal with them.

Having read the biographies of men concentrated in the areas of philosophy and English Literature, and having thought about possible similarities in their lives with the idea of discovering a cause or causes as to what made them individuals of note, I have a point to consider openly that perhaps might better be considered privately; however, one should not evade controversy.

The point is that without exception almost each individual went through a period of dissipation in which he was unconcerned with morality, unconcerned with striving, unconcerned with moderation, unconcerned with obedience to social morals, and unconcerned with the restrictions religion places on the individual. In short, there is a period of no identity.

Already I can hear the cries of intellectuals that this period is just an unimportant coincidence rather than a cause of genius. I strongly maintain that it is in part a cause as it enables the individual to know reality early in life when it still matters, and not in later years when it is too late. One may read and read of the experiences of others, but in order to actually know, one must experience for himself.

I am opposed to the life cycle of being sheltered throughout youth by the church, indoctrinated by the schools, and then imprisoned by life's responsibilities.

Big Upset

'49ers Get Revenge; Mash Guilford 81-67

Charlotte College pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the young season as the basketball team defeated Guilford College of the Carolinas Conference 81-67 Thursday, Dec. 11.

Revenge was sweet for Charlotte as they amended their opening game loss to Guilford. Guilford had rolled by five straight opponents and were odds-on favorites to hand Charlotte another loss but Charlotte rose to the occasion for a stunning upset.
