

Motion For Impeachment Highlights S G A

By SAM SCOTT

Collegian Staff Writer

A motion to impeach S. G. A. President, John Scott, was made by Robert England at the Student Legislature meeting April 5.

England charged Scott with twelve different accusations ranging from public drunkenness to misappropriation of Student Legislature funds.

After a rather lengthy discussion, the motion was finally put to a vote. The only two legislators who voted to start impeachment proceedings were Robert England and Gerald Broome.

A two-thirds majority vote of all Student Legislature members is required before impeachment proceedings can even begin. Since two-thirds of the membership was not present at this meeting, it would have been impossible to start the impeachment proceedings anyway.

It is rumored that Robert England and John Scott planned the whole episode in order to create controversy in the Student Legislature and to live up what would have been a dull meeting.

TWO BILLS concerning name changes were introduced by John Scott (SP) and passed unanimously by the Student Legislature.

The first bill changes the confusing name, Student Government Association, to Student Body.

The second bill changes the name of Charlotte College to the University of North Carolina at Charlotte on all Student Government Association records. The name changes will become effective on July 1, 1965.

A MANDATE sponsored by John Scott (SP), Gus Psomadakis (SP), and Robert England instructs "the Student Affairs Committee to conduct a full study of the prospects and the feasibility of establishing special student membership rates at the Y.M.C.A." The mandate passed unanimously.

Carol Kennady then moved that the same thing be done for the Y.W.C.A. Her motion was also accepted by the Student Legislature.

The Student Affairs Committee is scheduled to report this no later than May 3, 1965.

Columbia U. Dean Speaks At Dedication

The second annual Institute for Engineering Deans at the University of Southern California attracted representatives from some 40 colleges and universities in 20 states and Canada April 11-15.

Prof. Newton H. Barnette, chairman of the department of engineering at Charlotte College represented the Charlotte College campus.

The 1965 institute, which was conducted by USC's office of Executive Programs in the Graduate School of Business Administration, took a long look at the administrative side of the engineering dean as an academic person.

Subjects taken up by this year's USC Instituted were "The Academic Environment and the Administrator," "Internal Relations and Responsibilities," and "Development of a Public Relations Program."

Conference preliminaries were held on USC's main campus, where conferees heard from Dr. Tracy Strepey, USC vice-president for academic affairs. He spoke on "The Engineering School in a University Setting." The representatives then heard from Dr. Harold A. Foecke from the U. S. Office of Education speaking on "Engineering Education in Perspective."

The conferees then left the USC main campus late Sunday (April 11) for the Idyllwild campus where the balance of the sessions were held.

Guest speakers for the Idyllwild sessions were Dr. Abraham Zarem, president of Electro-Optical Systems, Inc., and Dr. B. H. Amstead, College of Engineering, University of Texas.

CC Prof. Attends USC Meet

Dr. Jack Dalton, dean of the School of Library Science at Columbia University, predicted at the dedication of the J. Murrey Atkins Library Building at Charlotte College, Sunday, April 11, that college students will some day be using Telstar as a tool for research.

Dalton said that the satellites will someday be used to transmit information on microfilm in distant libraries in places like Britain and Paris to college students.

However, he could not help being slightly dismayed at the thought that college students rarely use their libraries today. He said that a survey showed 63 per cent of them make very little use of the college library.

The library, a $600,000 building first used in 1963 was named for J. Murrey Atkins, a former chairman of the board of trustees of Charlotte College.

Atkins was president of R. S. Dickson investments firm when he died in December of 1963. He played a major role in the college's change from a two-year to a four-year state supported college.

As part of the dedication of the library, six-year-old Murrey Atkins III, grandson of the late board chairman, unveiled a portrait of his grandfather presented by the Atkins family to Charlotte College.

Mr. William Jackson has resided from the Charlotte College faculty in order to study for his doctorate degree.

For the past year he was a professor in the Political Science department. After a year's work at Columbia University, Mr. Jackson hopes to return to Charlotte and to the faculty of UNC-C.

AAUP Cuts Speaker Ban

The Charlotte College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors has called for the early repeal of the speaker-ban law. Two representatives of the chapter, Dr. Joseph Slechta and Dr. Donald Freeman, met with the Merklenburg delegation to the General Assembly today to make the chapter's wishes known.

In the resolution the professors said they believe that the law "can have no appreciable effect upon the individual who might be influenced by such propaganda."

The professors said that the law unwisely singles out one type of activity, while ignoring or indirectly encouraging others.

They also pointed out that speakers on technological, scientific, or humanistic subjects are banned by a law "apparently intended to exclude only propaganda."

The law, they said, "applies censorship of a type that the courts have found unconstitutional when exerted in other areas of communication, such as book-publishing, radio, television, and the press.

The professors contend that the law has already done damage, that its existence brings ridicule upon the state.

They also contend that it implies that college and university administrators are so incompetent or so disloyal as to permit or encourage the effective spread of enemy propaganda.

that they use democratic ways to change power. The rest of the nations have "at best authoritarian and at worst totalitarian."

He also criticized the United Nations in its handling of the crisis in the Congo, but not in its handling of the Indonesian crisis. The UN was not able to settle Arab-Israeli problems nor was it able to do justice to the Palestinian Arab refugees.

One thing that adds weakness to the United Nations is its financial instability, pointed out Mr. Newcomb.

Mr. Newcomb concluded his talk by saying that it will be possible to establish a United Nations in addition to the one that already exists which is only a debating society.
