TARIFF REDUCTION.

The seven per cent tariff reduction provided for by the Mills bill, which has passed the House of Representatives, would seem to be quite a small item, but it will greatly relieve the people by a reduction of the prices of necessities. There is hardly a probability of this bill passing the Senate during the present session, owing to the opposition of Republican members. The contest in the House has been long and bitter. All opposition to it was from the Republican side. The whole record of this party is against any tax reduction, notwithstanding its promises and its platforms. Its policy has been, clearly, discrimination against the poor in favor of the rich. Its national standard bearers are of those who pride themselves on their pedigree and a plethoric purse. It is asserted, without contradiction, that the presidential candidate declared that "two meals a day was sufficient for workingmen." Those who are the chosen leaders of this party in North Carolina were identified with it in days past, when all public moneys, even to the school funds, were squandered to pay the per diem of legislators who had no interest in the state, save that of plunder, and who foisted on us an unjust debt of millions. The backers up of these candidates, State and National, are moneyed men, monopolists, capitalists, whose great manufactories are protected; for instance, Mr. Carnegie, the bosom friend and associate of Jas. G. Blaine, and the owner of the Edgar Steel Works of Pittsburgh, Pa., stated before the Ways and Means committee that in one year his individual profits from this protected industry amounted to one million five hundred thousand dollars, or nearly five thousand dollars per day. Does Mr. Carnegie need any protection? We think not. But this is not all. This same Mr. Carnegie's employees, during his absence in Scotland, were forced to a strike against a reduction of wages. If protection protects the wage-earner would a strike be necessary? If Mr. Carnegie's income is so great that it amounts to thousands per day, why is it that those under him scarcely eke out a living? As it is with this protected manufacturer, so it is with all of them. A few years places them high in the scale of shoddy aristocracy, whilst those who do the work plod along in the same old rut. The Republican party is the political guardian of monopoly and every working man, be he a merchant, mechanic, or day laborer who supports it, does it to his own hurt.

THIRD PARTY—COLORED MEN.

The campaign is warming up along the line; every party is at work. Perhaps, on account of oddity and otherwise, the Third Party is spreading itself the widest.

The above fact seems to be verified by the operations of the leaders—few in number—of the Third Party in and around Raleigh. They have employed a colored preacher, named Grandison, to canvass in the interest of their party. He spoke in Raleigh recently to quite a crowd, composed largely of negroes, being listened to with attention and frequent applause. Several days ago he was in Vance county to speak. It looked as though he would meet with a cold reception, inasmuch as his bills announcing the speaking were torn down, but he managed to appear before quite a number of leading and intelligent (?) negroes. It is said that he captured them completely and that they are taking steps for something of an organization for the Third Party.

Well, we are truly glad to see the colored people take this short step from the Republican to the Third Party in the way of progress! The Third Party will have faithful allies in the colored voters.

TO THE SURVIVORS OF CO. F., 1st N. C. CAVALRY.

To-morrow the old soldiers of Mecklenburg, the survivors of the civil war, will hold a reunion picnic in Charlotte. During the past week we have received several notes from survivors of Co. F., 1st N. C. Cavalry, proposing that during the coming Fair in October this company have a reunion in Concord, the place where they organized and enlisted, "for the war." One of the old company from Mooresville is quite a earnest. As a member of this company the senior editor has conferred with the survivors who have been in town this week. All are in favor of this coming together. Now let us propose, that as many as possible, either by conference or letter, agree upon some regular plan, appoint the day and have the reunion. All propositions sent to THE STANDARD will be kept for reference and a consultation arranged in conformity thereto. This consultation should be had at an early day so as to give time for a general notification to all the company, which THE STANDARD proposes to do. We have no doubt that Gen. Barringer and all officers and privates of this company would enjoy this meeting. Let us hear from every one interested. Address THE STANDARD.

RELIGION.

This scribe was raised by one of the best of mothers, who from his earliest infancy instilled into him a profound reverence for religion. He has never forgotten her lessons in this regard, and he hopes he will never live long enough to forget them. But there has sprung up a new species of religion which he fears he has too little reverence for, and which he thinks his sainted mother would not chide him for not reverencing. And that is the kind of religion that introduces itself to residents five blocks away in shouts and yells calculated to wake the babies and set the dogs to barking. The kind that usually lets itself be heard far and near about the hour when decent Christian people of all creeds and sects are supposed to be in bed, and which lasts as long as muscles hold out.

Say reader, have you got any of that kind within hearing? If not, drop the scribe a postal card containing your photograph, and by return mail he promises to convince you that your lot is cast among the most blessed of earth.—Charlotte Observer.

We are in the same plight over here, dear brother. Oh for that good old time sort of fireside religion that is not proclaimed from the house top in the "wee sma hours."

Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 27.—While a prayer meeting was in progress at Meridian Street M. E. Church last evening the people present were alarmed by groans as of a man in agony and on an investigation being made Eugene Zersis was found on the floor with an empty bottle at hand. The bottle had contained carbolic acid which Zersis had swallowed. He died before he could be removed from the church. Zersis came from Minneapolis last spring and married a young lady of this city. There is no cause known for the act unless it be depression from the death of his parents who are reported to have committed suicide a few days since.—News-Observer.

The battlefield of Gettysburg covers twenty-five square miles and contains 16,000 acres.

Quay's Trick.

They say Math Quay, chief bottle-washer of the Republican campaign, is a very shrewd man; but his first flank movement on the Democratic stronghold has petered out in pitiful style. There was a national convention of colored men called to meet in Indianapolis last week. The call was for colored men of Democratic proclivities, and the object was to organize for aiding in carrying the election of Cleveland. The Convention seemed to mean business as was evinced by its audacity in meeting in the very city where the Republican nominee for President lives.

But Senator Math Quay resolved to stampede the Convention and turn it into a Harrison and Morton ratification meeting. He selected a dozen of the smartest of his colored claque in Philadelphia and sent them to Indianapolis literally loaded down with funds. The programme was to dazzle the poor Democratic darkies by showing them the town by gas light, to the music of gurgling champagne and the clinking of coin. The Democratic darkies bit splendidly at the champagne and the coin, and they followed Quay's money spenders until the wee sma' hours even were passed, and the sun had brushed the eastern horizon with a streak of red. The next day the Quay "niggers," who had "stood treat" so bountifully attempted to enter the convention hall and complete the stampede for Harrison and Morton. The attempt was as far as they got, and several are glad they escaped with their lives. The door keeper declined to admit them. He said the house inside was packed with Cleveland niggers and every hoof 'em had a razor in his hip pocket which he was wearing for use, not ornament. He said some of the darkies from the South were razors a foot long, with edges on both sides. The Philadelphians expostulated and referred to their generosity the night before.

"Ah!" said the ebony door keeper, "We kin drink Harrison and Morton liquor, an' smoke Harrison and Morton seggars, but of you try to preach Harrison and Morton gospil to dis convention, you bethal be prepared for all final change."

The Philadelphians were afraid to report to Quay that they never even entered the hall after spending the money, so they pushed in anyhow. In a moment the dignified Philadelphians emerged making for the street at a full run, assisted by several big boots, while the air fairly throbbed and glistened with yells and razors. They left the city hastily and on arriving at Philadelphia made a truthful report. Mr. Quay's first flank movement was a ludicrous failure, and the whole country is laughing. Try again Matt. But perhaps it is too late. The leopard's spots have not been heard from yet, but the Ethiopian is changing his political skin.—Charlotte Observer.

Advertising for a Wife.

A Berlin merchant who advertised for a wife lately received 277 answers. Of these 87 were widows varying in age from 25 to 52; 42 of them had no children, and 22 possessed fortunes entirely under their own control of over $20,000. Four ladies who had been separated from their husbands also wrote to express a desire to try their luck at marriage for a second time—one of them for a third time. Of the remaining 186 only 2 gave their age as over 30; 18 of them professed to be just turned 16. Seventy one photographs were enclosed, and 31 of them are said to represent remarkably pretty girls.

A Queer Marriage Fee.

"When I was living in Middletown, Kentucky," said Dr. Morrison, "I was called upon to marry a young couple, which I did. After the ceremony the groom said nothing about a fee. A few days later I met him on the street, and, calling me out to one side, he asked me if I would be willing to take my fee in something besides money. I told him that that would be all right, and he left me promising that I should not be forgotten. The next day he kept his word. He sent me a load of wheat straw, a stack of hay, and a jug of molasses.—Atlanta Journal.

Great Mystery Settled.

He is not Scott Partin
The mystery which has so long surrounded the man who was arrested and put in jail as Scott Partin the murderer of his wife and child in Panther Branch Township, Wake county, in 1875, seemed to have been cleared up at least to the satisfaction of Col Thomas M Argo the Solicitor who ordered his release from jail. The causes that lead to the release of Porter are good and sufficient and the public mind can now rest assured that no mistake has been committed in any particular.

Two Plucky Women.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 31.—Two maiden ladies, Misses Beves, living near Davisville, just above here, last night shot and killed one burglar and mortally wounded and captured another, about midnight. One of the sisters saw the man in her room and seized a revolver and fired, killing him. He was shot through the temple. The other sister was awakened, seized the weapon and sprang on the other burglar as he was trying to escape through the window. He was too late and fell to the ground with a bullet through his groin. Both burglars were strangers in these parts, but are supposed to be oldtimers. The two ladies are being lionized by the neighbors. They are generally supposed to keep a large sum of money in their house.—News & Observer.

Only Seven.

There are only seven Presidential tickets in the field as yet. There are the Prohibition nominees, there are those of the United Labor party, Coudrey, of Illinois, for President, and Wakefield, of Kansas, for Vice President; the Union Labor party, Streator, of Illinois, and Cunningham, of Arkansas; the Woman Suffragists, our fair friend Belva Lockwood, of the District of Columbia, properly accompanied by Mr Albert N. Loves of Pennsylvania, and the Industrial Reform nominees, Redmond, of California, and the regular tickets—Democrat and Republican.
