

All Populist speakers when they reach the bond issue part of their denunciation of the Administration, exclaim: Why didn't Mr. Cleveland issue treasury notes instead of bonds? Of course they mean much more about national finance than Mr. Cleveland or any one connected with the Administration, but still the most superficial readers of the condition of things during the panic can recognize the silliness of this position. According to this theory, if a house were on fire the Populist plan of extinguishing the flames would be to turn a hose from a kerosene oil tank upon it. The issue of bonds by the Administration was not, as was the borrowing of money by Catwaba's board of Populist county commissioners, to meet the current expenses of the Government nor for the lack of currency to transact the business of the country, but for the purpose of replenishing the gold held for the redemption of the treasury notes and other paper money already in existence. Let the inability of the Government to redeem this money with gold whenever presented be once established or even threatened, and down goes the parity which is so necessary to maintain between the different kinds of money of the country. Populist would keep paper money at par by making more of it, just as they would put out a fire with kerosene oil. But this is no wilder than most of the other theories they advance.—Newton Enterprise.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.
A large number of well known ladies of New York have formed themselves into an organization to "fight Tammany" in the present city campaign.

The newspapers print the names of these female politicians in very conspicuous type, and it is evident that they are in earnest.

But how do they propose to "fight Tammany"? Will they go on the stump and denounce the alleged corruption of that famous machine? Will they go further and "organize street processions and carry banners with terrific mottoes and eloquent appeals blazoned upon them?"

We cannot understand exactly how these elegant and lovely ladies will "fight Tammany," but that they are going to do so is certain.

They themselves have said it, and you bet, they mean what they say. See?—Atlanta Journal.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.
Friday night at 9 o'clock, at Armory Hall, when the curtain went up for the first time, there was presented to a good sized audience a tableau, representing the gates of Heaven, entitled "Gate Ajar." This was an impressive scene. The draperies were all of white and the costumes worn by the ladies and children were in perfect harmony with the decorations and pretty, angelic faces and wings, and it was truly a heavenly scene.

Miss Krider is truly an artist in the way of a pianist. Her rendition of the different very difficult selections, brought forth vociferous applause and truly she won the praise of every one as a musician and an eloquentist of marked ability.

The solo by Prof. H. L. Keesler was greeted with applause, but he failed to respond to the encores.

Miss Fannie Rogers sang "My Marie" and "I Think I Will," both of which were applauded no little and which were enjoyed by all. Miss Rogers is among the best singers of our city.

Other music and tableaux were enjoyed to the utmost and everybody went home well pleased.

The society realized about $27.65. The door receipts were $32.35.

THREATENED SUICIDE.
The World-Be Detective, Joe Winbush, is Afraid of Lynching.

An Observer reporter, understanding that Winbush, the negro fake detective from Atlanta, who made away with the money of Mr. A. A. Baron, of Rock Hill, S. C., as before noted, had somewhat to say, called on him at the Zachary Taylor Smith Hotel, and sent up his card.

Winbush was allowed to come out of the cage. He is a desperate looking man, and confessed to the Observer man to having killed a negro, Fred Edwards, in Tallapoosa. He says Edwards attacked him and got shot.

Edwards died, he says, with a cooked pistol in his hand. He was not arrested for this crime, as Edwards was a bad man. Winbush is really, it is believed, an escaped life convict from the Georgia penitentiary.

He was sent up July 15, 1880, for killing John Henry Williams, colored, near Americus. He escaped from the railroad convict camp at Lafayette, Ga., February 10th, 1891.

Winbush said he was afraid to go to South Carolina, for fear of being lynched. He says South Carolina is a bad place for that sort of business, and he will never allow himself to be taken there alive.

"How can you help it?" "Where there is a will, there is way, you know the saying, is," he remarked. He told Chief of Police Orr he would kill himself before he went to Rock Hill, and he asked Mrs. Smith the other day for something to kill himself with. It is not believed, however, that he intends to hurt himself. He is said to be an inveterate liar.

He will be taken to Rock Hill this morning by Deputy Sheriff Beck, who has been sent after him.—Charlotte Observer.

The National Salutes.
The national salute for both the army and navy of the United States is twenty-one guns. A salute to the Union, commemorative of the Declaration of Independence, consisting of one gun for each State, is fired at noon on July 4 at every post provided with artillery. The President, both on his arrival at and departure from a military post, or when passing its vicinity, receives a salute of twenty-one guns. No other salute is fired in his presence.

The Vice-president and President of the Senate receives a salute of nineteen guns; members of the Cabinet, the Chief Justice, the Speaker of the House of Representatives a Committee of Congress officially visiting a military post, and governors, within their respective States and Territories, receive seventeen guns. The Assistant Secretary of War receives fifteen guns.—August-Ladie Home Journal.

THE PRESIDENT IN A STORM.
Woodsoil, Mass., Oct. 10.—The President and party, including ex-Governor Russell, Private Secretary Thurber, E. C. Benedict and W. R. Gilmer, had an exceedingly rough voyage from Nauset to Woodsoil today in a steam launch owned by Commodore Forbes. No one expected them to cross in the face of such a storm. The launch could not reach the land at the wharf on account of heavy seas. Finally the party had to go around to the fish cannery wharf before they could land in safety.

Carriages were in waiting to take them to the depot. It was an exceedingly rough passage, but the President remained on deck in preference to staying in the cabin, and was very little disturbed. Those on deck got a severe wetting. All of the party except Governor Russell, left the train at Gray Gables. The party had good success deer hunting yesterday at Nauset and brought home some specimens.

President Winston spent yesterday in Raleigh, returning home last evening. Tomorrow is University Day and it will be celebrated with due ceremonies at Chapel Hill. This is the first game of the season. At night President Winston will receive the students and visitors. This day is the anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the first building of the University. It happens that this date is also President Winston's birthday and he celebrates two events at the same time.—News & Observer.
