THE GATES ARE OPEN.

Wilmington Gives the Editors of the Old North State the Best Accommodations to Be Obtained.

The editors of many North Carolina newspapers arrived here Tuesday and are now on Carolina beach ready for the annual convention of the North Carolina Press Association.

Between 50 and 75 members of the Association arrived Tuesday. The attendance will very probably be well in excess of one hundred. Quite a number of editors are accompanied by ladies.

The incoming trains were met by members of the Chamber of Commerce Committee and representatives of the local press.

The gates of Wilmington and her two superb summer resorts are thrown wide open to the visiting editors. As previously announced their badges are recognized for free transportation on the Wilmington street cars, on the steamer Wilmington and for the privileges of Seaside hall and Hanover Seaside clubs.

Commodore Jas. F. Post, Jr., of Atlantic Yacht club, and Commodore Anrum Lord, of Carolina club issued a general invitation for association members to visit these splendid club houses on Wrightsville beach.

The Seacoast railroad from Wilmington to Wrightsville beach also tenders free transportation to the editors and their families during their stay in the city.—Wilmington Star of 12th.

A Remarkable Geveer in Southern California.

The people of Southern California have recently been favored with one of the most extraordinary exhibitions of natural phenomenon on record, one which has even astonished beyond measurement all classes of a community familiar already with instances of what nature can accomplish when it sets out to do something out of the common.

Southern Californians are used to shocks of earthquakes, incipient volcanoes, or threatening tidal waves, that it takes something extremely eruptive to disturb their ordinary composure, but the successful effort of a rural rancher in his search for water with which to irrigate his fields, parched with a long drought, has turned the gaze of the whole State toward the little town of Whittier, a hamlet located in the neighborhood of Los Angeles.

Some weeks ago a farmer named Myers, living at Santa Fe Springs began sinking an artesian well. Others in the neighborhood had successfully tapped a subterranean flow of depths of from 300 to 400 feet and Mr. Myers hoped for a successful issue to his enterprise. By slow stages the drills descended until a depth of 500 feet was attained.

This was on Sunday, May 14. A drill 200 pounds in weight was employed, and the prospect of tapping a good flow of water was becoming more and more encouraging. A 10-inch pipe had been sunk some distance and the usual preparations made for controlling the flow when it did make its appearance.

The heavy drill was working with its usual monotonous regularity when, after one deep plunge, a loud roaring sound was heard coming from the well, accompanied by jets of muddy water and the outburst of heavy stones. Soon after the drill itself made its appearance, followed by a grand column of water which forced itself higher and higher until the top reached an elevation of 500 feet.

The flow was accompanied by vast quantities of gas smelling of sulphur strongly and igniting when fire was applied, burning with a strong blue flame. Oil in considerable quantities was mixed with the flow. The stones were thrown to an equal height with the water, and the exhibition of tremendous force was appalling to the last degree.

No geyser of the Yellowstone ever displayed such activity. The column of muddy water was like a great pillar extending almost to the clouds, and falling back to the earth again in graceful festoons. The force exerted was equal to a thousand powerful engines. For two weeks this phenomenon has been active, though some diminution of the force exerted is beginning to be apparent. The flow of water is enormous, and the country being flat some difficulty is apprehended in its control.—Scientific American.

NEGROES NOT WANTED.

New Volunteer Regiments Will Be Composed of White Men.

Washington, July 12.—In spite of the urgent requests of many colored men of this country that at least one or two of the ten new volunteer regiments for the Philippines be made up of colored men, it is certain that all regiments will consist solely of white men.

The War department was not favorably impressed with the colored volunteer regiments raised last summer. There is no disposition to underrate the worth of the colored regulars. The superb valor of the Tenth Cavalry, the "Black Rough Riders," is acknowledged, and good work is expected from the men of the Twenty-fourth and of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, which have been lately ordered to Manila. But it is claimed that the colored volunteer is not amenable to the same discipline as the colored regular.

The colored volunteer regiments, both immune and State regiments, gave the War Department an end of trouble, and a great sigh of relief was breathed when the last colored volunteer soldier safely arrived home.

A Big Change Being Made.

In a short while one will have noticed a great change on the property on South Main street just below the steam laundry. All of the houses formerly occupied by the colored people there have been torn away by Mr. Zeb Morris, who some time ago purchased the property.

Later we will see at least one handsome residence on the property. Improvements are being made on the back part of the land also, and Mr. Morris has purchased some of the hollow from Mr. Jno. A. Cline, preparatory to putting out buildings on it.

Mrs. Parlier, who owns the two horses just below Mr. Morris' land intends tearing one of her houses away and will probably build another in the place of the one farther down. When this work is all finished one will hardly know the place along there and remember where colored people have for years resided.

Encourages them by Prizes.

Dr. D. D. Johnson has a plan different from most of the people for encouraging his children to be studious in their school work and one which has in his case proved of some benefit, so much so that he has increased the value of his prizes for the next year. To his four children in the graded school last year, he offered a five dollar gold piece to the one who made the highest average grade, to the next two one-half dollars and the last one a fifty-cent Columbian piece.

The first one was gained by Lee, the next by Frank, the next by Adele, and the last by Cary. Already he has put away $38 to be given to his five children next year, the proportions being $20, $10, 5, $5, 50, and the fifty-cent Columbian coin. The children have already been told what is in store for them next year.

A Compliment to Our State.

Speaking of summer resorts, The Washington Post says: "To one who has seen the mountain region of North Carolina it seems incredible that so many thousands of people, in quest of pure air, magnificent scenery, and healthful surroundings, should annually flock to the Adirondacks of New York, and the White Mountains of New Hampshire. These latter resorts do not compare in any respect with the North Carolina country. Their so-called mountains are dwarfed by those of the Old North State, while, as for lakes, trout streams, hunting grounds, and landscapes at once gracious and majestic, there is no approach to a comparison."

Bought the Entire Stock.

Messrs. Bell, Harris & Co., Wednesday, the 12th, purchased the stock of furniture and coffins in the shop of Samuel Sloop, who died about a year ago, and who lived on North Main street. Besides an amount of furniture there were eighty-five coffins, almost all of them being made of walnut and by his own hand.

Sloop was a man of untiring energy and accumulated this amount by constantly working, not even getting down to the business part of town once each year. Mr. Sloop, while living, also had a contract with the county to furnish coffins for the paupers.

Mr. V. Isenhour Dead.

Mr. J. V. Isenhour, a former Cabarrus citizen, and who recently became the miller of the North Side roller mill at Salisbury, having come there from Enterprise in Davidson county, died in Salisbury Wednesday morning, the 12th. He was 42 years of age and leaves a wife and five children.

Mr. Lacy Dick and wife returned home Friday night from Gibsenville where they spent the week with Mr. Dick's relatives.

HIS SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY.

He Comes from Alabama Here to Celebrate It—Stopped in the Same Building He Did Three Score Years Ago.

On the 14th day of July, 1839, sixty years ago, there was born in Concord a child, who on that day this year celebrated his passing of the sixtieth mile post in his journey of life. He was born in the Harris house, which house was run by Mr. Kiah P. Harris, who was the father of our townsman, Mr. R. S. Harris. In the sixty years which have passed by the building has gone through many changes as to proprietorship but the man found the same building and where he first slept he last slept.

When a young man he left Cabarrus and went to Anniston, Ala., where he has accumulated wealth sufficient to keep him most comfortably the balance of his days and have an estate left to his wife and two children.

He was a blacksmith by trade, and this is the way he made his surplus amount, though now he lives on a farm where he has everything he wants and is a bird-hunter in about four or five different counties. He is a most typically happy man and says that he wants nothing more than he has.

The man's name is Mr. Wm. J. Edmondson, and he arrived here Thursday night from Anniston, Ala., for the purpose of celebrating his birthday on Friday. He has some relatives near Mooresville and knows a few people in the county. He most happily surprised a lady of our town whom he knew when a young man. The joy of seeing him caused tears to flow which for some time could not be suppressed. The person was Miss Clara Rainer, who lives at Forest Hill.

Mr. Edmondson brought with him a fine cantaloupe from his own patch in Alabama and added this to his birthday meal, which he took in the building now called the Morris house, and which in the days of his birth was known as the Harris house.

Having a Great Time.

A telegram received from Editor Varner Monday morning conveys the information that he is having a "great time" in the far West. He says he took a bath in the Pacific ocean last Saturday and left Portland for Canadian cities on Monday. He is expected to arrive home about the 25th of July.—Lexington Dispatch.

[Editor Varner of the above paper, is attending the meeting of the National Press Association.]

Rev. Hoge Is Interesting.

Twenty-seven professions of faith were made at the revival service Tuesday night at South-side Baptist church after the sermon by Rev. B. Lacy Hoge. Interest in the meeting is on the increase and Rev. Mr. Hoge is preaching to large congregations at each service. There were also at the meeting nine additions to the church membership.—Wilmington Star.

White-Melanch Marriage.

Wednesday night, Mr. J. W. White, of Davis county, paid Concord a visit which took our town of one of its ladies at Forest Hill. Rev. J. Simpson was called upon to tie the matrimonial knot for Mr. White and Miss Ida Melanch, daughter of Mr. Jno. Melanch. The newly wedded couple returned to his home to live.

An Escaped Convict.

A half dozen people occupied berths at the city hall Tuesday night. In the number was a negro who informed the officers that he was an escaped convict from South Carolina. He says he wants to go back and serve out his term.—Salisbury Sun.

A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Advantages To Be Derived From One—Concord Should Have One—Its Advantages Manifest.

We live in three worlds at once, or rather we exercise a threefold existence in one world. We have a physical being, an intellectual being and a moral being. Food, clothing, air, exercise, are necessary to our physical being. The church, the Sunday school, the Bible contribute to our moral being.

Our intellectual being is apt to be neglected. The mind, in order to be vigorous and healthy, demands food and experience as well as does the body.

Concord ought to have a good public library. There is no one thing that can be made to add so much to the morals and intelligence of a community as can good books. Every town should have a public library. It should be centrally located and be accessible every day and evening six days in the week.

In this library should be found the best standard literature, books of reference, and the leading magazines.

But few people can afford to buy encyclopedias nor to subscribe for all the magazines, but in the public library everybody could have access to them and at very small expense to any one.

In connection with this library should be a public reading room. Churches and schools are good. Lectures and newspapers are good. But you can go to the public library and get information for yourself and thus be twice blessed. The man who starts a new factory in the city and thus furnishes employment to many families is a benefactor and is deserving of the honor and respect of all. But we can't afford to let our material interests outrun our literary and religious institutions. Intelligence is of more importance than fine streets, fine buildings and electric lights. Without intelligence factories cannot stand and churches have but little effect.

A good public library, if properly managed, is of more value to a city or community than an additional church or school. It can be made to reach and to benefit all classes. Young people are especially benefited by it. They get new ideas, new life, new inspiration from the books they read.

Benjamin Franklin, Andrew Carnegie and Chauncey M. Depew all got their early inspiration and aspiration from a public library. Horace Mann did likewise, and he afterwards said that if he was able he would sow libraries over the land as the farmer sows his wheat.

It is about as much of a disgrace for a town to be without a library as to be without a school. What is it that gives visitors a good impression of a town?

Clean streets, well painted houses and nicely kept lawns are all right and proper, but the thoughtful person looks for the public library, substantial school buildings, neat churches and a good town hall.

The human mind is so constructed that it will think. You can't catch yourself for a moment not thinking. The library is designed to give it something to think about. The shelves of the library furnish food for the mind just as the shelves of the pantry furnish food for the body.

The reading habit gives a greater amount of pleasure at small expense than parties, dinners, receptions, theatres or any other like thing that has ever been devised.

Good books elevate the mind, they create a contempt for gossip, they furnish high ideas of life, they destroy prejudice, they inspire the young, they are a comfort to the old and a blessing to all.

The public library is needed to supplement the work of schools, it is needed for those who can not attend schools, it is needed to give the mechanic opportunity to read what is doing in the world and what will benefit him; it is needed by the business men; it is needed by the pastors, the lawyers, the doctors and the teachers of the town; it is needed by the clubs and reading circles; it is needed by weary mother who wants to catch a glimpse of something that will take her away from herself and from the cares of the day; it is needed by the young ladies of the city to enable them to keep the mind well cultivated so that they can be helpful to the churches and Sunday schools and to society at large; it is needed by the young men who are in college and return to spend the months of vacation at home; it is needed especially by the children who are just forming character and who have more time now than they will ever have again for reading and self-improvement.

Public libraries, like public streets, waterworks and court houses, may be built from funds raised by taxes if need be, but every community has among its citizens those who are well able of themselves to build and equip public libraries.

It is the highest mark of the man, too, to do this while the giver is yet living.

Andrew Carnegie, realizing this fact, has given to the city of Pittsburgh $5,000,000 public libraries, and still other millions for libraries in other cities than his own. Baltimore would not be the city it is today if it had not been for Enoch Pratt, George Peabody and Johns Hopkins.

Enoch Pratt gave millions for founding public libraries in Baltimore and he took care to see that they were in good running order before his death.

The city honored him and generations yet to be will rise up to call him blessed.

C. S. COLLIER.

Still More Conversions.

Since copying an article from the Morning Star of Wilmington, as to the success attained by Rev. B. Lacy Hoge, of this place, during his meeting there we are reliably informed that eighty conversions have been made at this meeting and that much interest is being taken, so much so that over 100 more seats have been added to the seating capacity. It is feared that the impression made by Rev. Hoge in Wilmington may prove a loss to Concord, though probably not, as one of the churches there has extended him a call.

Good Waterworks at the Lumber Yard.

The hose and reel company was out Thursday evening, testing the waterworks of the town and also went to the lumber yard of the Concord Lumber Co., to test their waterworks recently put in. There are two hydrants on the property and their water is pumped directly by the pump at the Cabarrus mills. A good stream was found and with both streams playing there was more force than can be obtained from our town waterworks. At a few moments' notice the pump can be started and fine streams of water in case of a fire.

A New Church to Be Built.

From Rev. C. B. Miller, of this place, who attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Lutheran Synod in Salisbury some days ago, we learn that a new church will soon be built at Chestnut Hill in Salisbury and Rev. Wm. A. Julian, of Florida, has been secured as the pastor. The establishment of this church will be a part of the mission work of the Synod. Rev. Julian will commence in his new field at once.

A Case of Highway Robbery.

Dr. I. W. Jones, of Zeb., in Rowan county, was robbed on the highway Wednesday night, so we learn from the Salisbury Sun. One buggy and grabbed him in the throat while two others put pistols before his face and searched him, having taken $10, a silver watch, and a purse containing several notes and receipts.

An Accident Befell Him.

On Thursday afternoon, when the workmen were tearing down the buildings of Mr. Zeb Morris on South Main street, an accident befell Mr. Jas. Foster, who lives on Mr. Williamson Morris' place. He fell through the ceiling to the floor. His forehead was gashed in one place and his shoulder badly bruised, but he was not seriously hurt.

Lawyers Challenge Doctors.

We notice in the Statesville Mascot that the lawyers of that place come out in the paper over their own signatures and challenge the medical and dental doctors for a game of baseball. We notice among the list of attorneys the names of Messrs. L. C. Caldwell and E. F. Long. This will no doubt prove to be an interesting game.

Rev. Moore and Family Here.

THE HONEY BIRDS.

How They Lead the Traveler to the Feast of Which They Take Full Share.

The ornithologist finds in South America, Africa and Australia certain birds, though not identical or similar in habits and no more unselfish than man, they serve travelers wonderfully well. They are called honey birds. The explorer not acquainted with them observes their half frantic flutterings and chirpings, as they behave much like the mother partridge, while the instinctive purposes are the very opposite.

The mother partridge flits and flutters before the intruder, as if tempting the hope of catching her, and thus lures man, dog or other creature she fears away from her young. When a good distance is made she takes wing for her brood again, that have crouched in grass or whatever. She has accomplished her purpose and gotten rid of her enemy. But not so with the honey bird.

If the explorer will follow its leadings he will find a colony of bees with a good quantity of choice wild honey.

The bird watches the process and comes in for its well deserved part when the honey is laid bare. So persistent and fearless are they that they can almost be picked up while feasting on the finest.

Capt. Hill Receives An Appointment.

On Monday, the 10th, Capt. Edward Hill, of this place, went to Washington City on a business trip. Ever since Capt. Hill returned home from the army recently he has been desiring to return to the army service which was found to add quite much to his health. On Friday afternoon a telegram came from Washington stating that he had received an appointment as first lieutenant in the provisional regular army for the Philippine war.

Mr. Hill is to be congratulated on securing his appointment, which was no doubt granted him on account of his popularity and ability while in service as captain of Company L in the First North Carolina regiment. The dispatch did not state to what regiment he would be assigned.

Big Fire at Wadesboro.

On Wednesday night fire broke out in the new passenger waiting rooms of the Seaboard Air Line and the Atlantic Coast Line at Wadesboro, doing quite a big amount of damage. The depot and warehouse of the Seaboard Air Line was completely destroyed, together with an amount of other persons' goods which were stored therein. The loss is estimated at about $10,000.

Compliments Extended the Editors.

A wave of special gratification pervaded the association when President Dowd announced that Mr. Sol Bear, of Wilmington, had through Secretary Sherrill sent a case of claret wine. The hearty thanks of the association were voted Mr. Bear for his inspiring gift.—Wilmington Star.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first that it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. I continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain-Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. Babcock, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by M. L. Marsh & Co., druggist.

They Were Too Rough, Entirely.

It was a splendid battle that was fought Friday afternoon between Charlotte's "Rough Riders," and our "Wheeler's Cavalry." The Riders were found to be not rough, but tender—too tender to hit and catch balls like the cavalrymen, who could mount and dismount most easily. They mounted upon the Riders and gave them a defeat of 7 to 1. Neither side scored until the sixth inning. Tom Smith knocked a three-bagger. Our team made three runs in the sixth inning, one in the seventh, and three in the ninth. Charlotte's only run was made by Emmitt Gray in the ninth inning. Lloyd Withers, of the Charlotte team, did some nice fielding during the game, but several of the team were found wanting when it comes to playing ball.

A Better Score the Second Day.

On Thursday the Kings Mountain team defeated our boys considerably, but on Friday our boys stuck to them to the last, and met defeat only by one run, the score being 6 to 5 against us. Probably we will yet make that back on them next Tuesday and Wednesday, when they come here.

Our boys will play today to a good large crowd, of course, in Charlotte.

Would Not Suffer So Again for Fifty Times the Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me all right. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. Wilson, Layervan, Burgetstown, Washington Co., Pa. This is sold by M. L. Marsh & Co., druggist.
